GIVES OSTERMANN TITLE OF GRAFTER

Former Employe of Memphis Car Firm Says "Spender's" System Netted 400 Per Cent in a Year.

ROW OVER I. C. SPOILS.

H. A. Sims Asserts He Quit the Concern When Officials Broke Faith and Failed to Divide Fairly with Him.

Henry C. Ostermann has been called the Chancellor of Champagne Cannoneers. He has been dubbed the Special High Spender of the Ancient Order of Sports. Yesterday he reaped the highest of a long list of honors, when witnesses before Master in Chancery Roswell B. Mason presented him with the scepter of the Grand High Grab of the Affiliated Grafters.

Testimony showed that the former conductor of the Illinois Central railroad had built up a grafting organization which paid $43,650 on capital stock of $10,500 the first year of its existence. This represents a profit of more than 400 per cent.

It is but a slight indication of the real graft which found its way direct to the pockets of railroad and car repair officials from the padding of bills for the rehabilitation of Illinois Central rolling stock.

Depositions, taken yesterday in the suits of the railroad company against the Memphis Car company, showed Mr. Ostermann's graftatorium to be so hilariously brazen that he even made profit from his mistakes.

Makes Profit on Mistakes.

When the bills of the car company were found to err in the number borne by the car repaired, Mr. Ostermann's company collected anyway. Then it issued a new bill with the proper number of the car and collected on that as well.

Incidentally, the fact was brought out that 300 shares of stock in the company stood in the name of Mr. Ostermann, a part of which he held for former Illinois Central railroad officials. Their names were carefully suppressed, as there is a plan on foot to prosecute them in the criminal courts.

Ostermann did not appear in court, although he was subpœnaed. If he doesn't show up today, an officer will be sent after him.

Even the trite saying, "there is honor among thieves," gave way before the repeated recitals of disagreements among the conspirators themselves. These showed that crooked work prevailed even in the division of the spoils.

Harold A. Sims, the former Illinois Central car inspector, who was induced by his superiors by promises of "easy money" to become superintendent of the car repair company, became dissatisfied because they "held out on him."

A wheel within a wheel, by which the officers of the car company and at least one official of the railroad profited on the purchase of lumber for the car company and for the railroad, was revealed when Sims identified a secret contract with the Barksdale-Kellogg Lumber company of Memphis. According to this contract, there were two prices for lumber kept in separate books, and the insiders divided the difference.

New Features of Graft Told.

Some of the features of the scheme by which the railroad was robbed of over a million and a half dollars in three years, as enumerated by the witnesses, follow:

Lumber was purchased by the secret agreement below the price specified by the road and billed as a part of the car repairs at the specified price.

When car repairing was slack and no dividend was in sight some of this lumber was sold to the railroad at a still higher price.

If the car did not need repairs something was done to it to form the foundation for a padded bill.

Occasionally bills were made out on the basis of a few repairs a car might stand, but did not require, at an excessive figure and without any work having been done.

Nearly all bills were padded up to a certain limit fixed by Mr. Ostermann, averaging $325. Occasionally a bill was allowed to go through at the correct amount for the work done to allay suspicion. The amount of the excess was estimated at 40 per cent.

When an Illinois Central inspector refused to sign bills before the fictitious charges had been added he was promptly transferred to another place.

J. M. Taylor, the Illinois Central storekeeper, was given only half his proportionate share of the first dividends because he was not on the ground.

Laborers' pay checks were varied each pay day to deceive them into thinking they were being paid according to the piece work system, whereas they were actually paid approximately by the hour and the cost of labor was "guessed at" in making up bills.

Tells of Mysterious Stockholders.

The extent of the extortionate profits enjoyed by the mysterious stockholders of the Memphis Car company were shown when B. R. Sims, the former head bookkeeper of the concern, read from records he had copied from the books to protect himself, showing that the net profits for the first six months from the operation of the plant were $71,146.24 on an investment of $10,500.

Fails to Get Full Share of Plunder.

Sims confessed that he got out of the company because of a disagreement with Mr. Ostermann and E. H. Ward, general manager, over his promised share of the plunder. He had been promised a salary of $150 a month and other considerations, including expense money, half the sales of scrap and a portion of the lumber contract. He brought in the name of an Illinois Central officer not previously mentioned, W. S. King.

"Ostermann and Ward had been changing my salary and cutting down on my expenses and failing to give me my dividends on the stock," he asserted. "So I concluded I had had enough."

Mysterious persons for whom Ostermann held stock in his own name in the Memphis Car company were referred to by Attorney Biggs and the witness, but not named. It is

CRIPPEN CAUGHT; SHIP HIS PRISON

Wireless Messages Advise Canada That Alleged Wife Slayer Is Trapped on Atlantic Liner.

DETECTIVES AWAIT HIM.

Captain's Warning Prepares Officers to Arrest Doctor and Stenographer Dressed as Boy.

BULLETIN.

On Board Steamship Montrose, at Sea, by Marconi Wireless, via Father Point, Quebec, July 28.—"Associated Press, New York:

"Suspected persons answering police description of Crippen and Miss Leneve on board. No arrests made. Other passengers, who are all continentals, in ignorance of the situation.

"Montrose at 4 p. m., Thursday, 150 miles east of Belle Isle. Weather foggy.

"LLEWELLYN JONES, Marconi operator."

New York, July 28.—Plugging tonight through the Labrador fogs, the engines of the steamer Montrose are bringing momently nearer to identification two passengers on board supposed to be Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen and his fugitive companion, Ethel Leneve, who are wanted by the London police in connection with the disappearance of Crippen's wife.

Their fellow passengers know nothing of the suspicion that attaches to the couple. The two suspects are not under arrest. They also are ignorant of the wireless messages of inquiry and conjecture that are flashing over their heads from police headquarters thousands of miles remote.

The most important of these message was the communication direct from the wireless operator of the Montrose, presumably sent with authority of the captain, in which it was stated flatly that two suspects agreeing with the police description of Dr. Crippen and Ethel Leneve were on board.

Messages Fly Thick Through Air.

Other messages fished out of the air were addressed to Quebec, Montreal, and Ottawa. The authenticity of some of them was denied, but all were in the same tenor—indicating a growing conviction that the world-wide hunt for Dr. Crippen is at last nearing its end.

The Montrose is a slow ship. At its best it should do about fifteen knots an hour. Baffled by the fogs it will be held back for an indeterminate time. Granted that when its last message was sent it was 150 miles east of Belle Isle, on the coast of Labrador, it is still approximately 850 miles east of Father Point, fully fifty-six hours of steaming. It seems probable, therefore, that the ship will not reach its first stopping point before Saturday morning.

In the meantime the Laurentic, bearing Inspector Dew, who knows Dr. Crippen personally, has passed the Montrose and should reach Father Point tomorrow. The trap is sprung and it is practically certain that it has closed on the quarry.

Captain Asks Instructions.

Father Point, Que., July 28.—The captain of the steamship Montrose, nearing this port after a voyage across the Atlantic, flashed to the colonial government at Ottawa today a wireless message, in which he said, according to apparently authoritative reports here, that he had incontrovertible evidence of the presence aboard of Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen and Ethel Leneve. He asked for instructions as to the course he was to pursue in dealing with the alleged wife murderer and his former stenographer, who was traveling with him dressed as a boy.

Since there is no one aboard who knows Dr. Crippen personally, it may mean that he has confessed his identity. After the receipt of the message here the wireless operator at once began sending messages to the Montrose.

Detectives Keep Up Their Vigil.

At this little settlement on the south bank of the St. Lawrence, 160 miles east of Quebec, three officers of the provincial police are literally sitting at the side of a wireless receiver waiting for further word from the Montrose.

These detectives will board the Montrose when it takes on the pilot to direct its course up the St. Lawrence. And, at any event, they will confer tomorrow with Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard, who is to arrive then aboard the liner Laurentic.

The Laurentic is expected here before noon, and while the British detective probably will not land, he will have a chance to exchange a word with the three officers.

The warrant charging Crippen with the murder of a woman still unidentified is carried by Chief McCarthy of the provincial police of Quebec. Chief McCarthy and his assistants rely upon Inspector Dew to identify the suspected passenger of the Montrose, if he really is the man they seek. Since Dew has no authority to make the arrest, however, it is supposed that he will continue on the Laurentic to Quebec, leaving to the Canadian detectives the task of taking their prisoners to him for identification there. His mission also in addition to identifying them is to take Crippen and Ethel Leneve back to England.

Fog May Delay Vessels.

The time when the Laurentic and the Montrose will take their pilots here is still a matter of conjecture. Tonight one of the fogs for which the lower reaches of the St. Lawrence are noted shut down over the thirty mile width of the river and the Father Point fog horn is howling its warning to the ships. Under such conditions the westward progress of the two vessels is uncertain.

The handful of French Canadians that live about the lighthouse, the telegraph stations, and the pilots' boarding houses of Father Point are in a state of excitement that passes the memory of the oldest inhabitants.

MEETS WOE IN PEACOCK ALLEY

M. Coston of Holland Asks Woman to Drink and Is Thrashed.

VICTIM OF A FRIEND'S 'JOKE'

He Was Told He Could Invite Anyone to Imbibe with Impunity.

It was a cruel joke that was played by a friend of Monsieur Henri Coston of The Hague, Holland, when he told Monsieur Coston that it was allowable for one to invite any woman that one saw unattended in Peacock alley to have a glass of wine.

Monsieur Coston was staying at the Congress hotel, which has under its roof Peacock alley. At the Congress hotel also were staying Dr. Walter E. Rahte of Philadelphia and a party which included Mrs. John A. McDowell, Miss Mary McDowell, and Miss Helen Sherrell, all of Philadelphia.

The first mistake M. Coston made was in taking his friend's advice seriously. The second was in asking one of the women of Dr. Rahte's party to join him in a drink. When the manager of the hotel and two bellboys succeeded in prying Dr. Rahte off the Hollander the latter was much enlightened as to American hotel customs.

This Is How It Happened.

This was the order of events: Wednesday evening after dinner M. Coston was strolling through Peacock alley. Dr. Rahte and a man friend sat on a Louis Quinze or possibly a Louis Quatorze divan on one side of the promenade, with two women of the Rahte party. On the opposite side of the alley, on a Louis Seize divan, was the other. The doctor refuses to disclose which one she was. The orchestra was playing in the Pompeian room. The air was "Anybody Here Seen Kelly?"

M. Coston, pursuant to his friend's advice, said to the woman sitting by herself: "Will you come in by the fountain and join me in a little——" That was as far as he got. The next minute he was tangled up with Dr. Rahte.

A chorus of shrieks from the feminine after dinner promenaders in Peacock alley, the sudden cessation of the orchestra's strains, a scattering of the people near the combatants, and a mounting of chairs and divans by those farther away in order to see better were features of the event that mingled with the muffled exclamations of "Mon Dieu!" and "Ach Himmel! What is this for a lunatic? Hasten for a commissary of police!" that escaped from M. Coston.

M. Coston Demands Redress.

"I will have an explanation from you, Monsieur. What do you mean by interrupting me when I go to speak to a lady?" said M. Coston, settling his scarf when he was free and on his feet.

"I'll show you what I mean," responded Dr. Rahte. But further hostilities were averted and M. Coston went to his room.

ROOSEVELT'S NEPHEW BEATEN IN CONGRESSIONAL PRIMARIES.

Indications Are Robinson Will Have Only About 20 of 66 Delegates in the Convention.

Utica, N. Y., July 28.—[Special.]—The hopes of Theodore Douglas Robinson, nephew of former President Roosevelt, who two weeks ago tonight announced his candidacy for the Republican congressional nomination in the Oneida-Herkimer district against Congressman Charles S. Millington, were rudely dashed in the primaries today.

From returns received tonight Robinson seems beaten by the regular Republican organization and indications are he will go into Saturday's convention, at which delegates to the congressional convention will be chosen, with only about twenty of the sixty-six delegates pledged to his support.

Complete returns will not be available before tomorrow morning, but from those at hand it would appear that Millington will go back to Washington for another term and Robinson will return to his farm.

Vice President Sherman took personal charge of the campaign in the interest of the regular organization, while Roosevelt hinted that it would be agreeable to have his nephew carry the county for the congressional nomination.

"BRISTOW LIES," SAYS ALDRICH.

Rhode Island Senator for the First Time Hits Back at the Insurgents.

Providence, R. I., July 28.—[Special.]—For the first time since he has been under bombardment by Bristow of Kansas and other insurgent senators, Nelson W. Aldrich today hit back.

"That man Bristow is telling a pack of lies on me," he said. "He has told so many lies—he manufactured them so rapidly—that I wouldn't know where to begin should I take notice of him and enter denials."

"If the charges had been made upon the floor of the senate the case might be different," was suggested.

With a sardonic smile that ran into a chuckle the Rhode Island senator responded:

"Yes—yes, you notice they don't talk about me that way on the floor of the senate."

ASKS COP FOR AID; ARRESTED.

Youth Confesses When Trapped at Residence of Policeman McElligott, Where He Sought Money.

Policeman Lawrence McElligott of the Fillmore street station was sawing wood in the basement of his home when a young man appeared and asked for the price of a meal. The policeman said:

"Why, yes; take this file and sharpen this saw while I go upstairs a minute."

"I think that man is wanted for some job," the officer muttered, as he trudged up the stairs.

He searched his coat and brought to light the description on George Watson, 27 years old, who was wanted for breaking into the residence of Ald. A. W. Fulton, 3242 West Monroe street, and stealing $100 worth of property July 2. At the station the youth confessed.

SIX CHICAGOANS IN 'PEERAGE'

Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Field, Joseph Leiters, and Chatfield-Taylors.

ALL "ULTRA FASHIONABLES"

Censor Nicholls in New York Gives Reasons for Selections.

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—Only six Chicagoans are entitled to plume themselves as members of the "ultra fashionable peerage of America." Such is the ruling of C. W. Delyon Nicholls, the self-appointed censor of who's who in the smart set. But to his judgment must be given weight, for it was he who made the selections, which met with the unqualified approval of the late Mrs. William Astor, when she was the ruling queen of American society.

Those of the Chicagoans whose names are among the "immortals" are:

Mrs. Potter Palmer,
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter,
Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Chatfield-Taylor,
Mrs. Marshall Field.

The name of Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter also is included in the "peerage," but, as she calls Washington her home, she is credited to the national capital.

Gives Reasons for Selections.

Discussing his reasons for his selections, Mr. Nicholls said:

"Prominence in one's own city cuts little figure in the selection of those entitled to be listed among America's 'ultra fashionables.' It is the part played in national society which must be taken as the criterion.

"Mrs. Jack Gardner of Boston is looked upon as the leader of society in that city. She is known throughout the country through the newspaper notoriety given her, but at Newport and in New York society she is but little known, and she cannot be listed with the 'ultra fashionables.'

"On the other hand, Mrs. Potter Palmer in Chicago and Mrs. Henry Barton Jacobs in Baltimore are known not only as the leaders in their home sets but their faces are familiar among gatherings of the acknowledged leaders of the country's social activities. It is because of this that they must be included, for, unless they were known as members of that set, no matter how well known their names might be otherwise, they could not possibly be placed in the 'peerage' built up under Mrs. William Astor's rule.

Wealth, Beauty, Wit, and Birth.

"Wealth, beauty, wit, and birth all count. Even prominence in the society of 'provinces' must be considered, but, above all, the one essential is to have one's name constantly associated with and one's self frequently in contact with the charmed coterie which holds sway in Newport and on Fifth avenue."

Mr. Nicholls is governor general of the National Society of Colonial Cavaliers, and is the author of many essays and books of various characters. He makes no pretensions to society himself, and is not listed in the social register.

JURY DEBATING OVER RAWN DEATH

Apparently Unable to Agree on Manner in Which Railroad President's Life Was Ended.

NEW EVIDENCE IS FOUND.

J. R. Gay Says Dead Man Knew of Burglar Defenses in the House; Detective Said "Suicide."

One hour after the last testimony in the inquest over the death of Ira G. Rawn had been heard and the case given to the jurors shortly before midnight last night members of the panel sent out for a box of cigars and some ginger ale. At 2 o'clock this morning the jury was still out, and there was no indication when an agreement would be reached.

Coroner Hoffman, together with insurance men and others, prepared for an all night vigil or until a verdict would be reported.

Some bit of testimony to discredit the murder theory or the accident theory, or to confirm the belief that the railroad president committed suicide, was contributed by almost every one of the fifteen witnesses examined during the evening with the exception of the members of the family.

Sleuth Called It Suicide.

Perhaps the most startling was the declaration of Chief of Police John Coutre that William Bruens, assistant superintendent of the Pinkertons, had told him that the case was one of suicide, but had warned him to "keep it under his hat." Bruens' absence from the trial, after having had charge of the Pinkerton investigation, has been the cause of considerable comment.

That Mr. Rawn did not take advantage of the burglar defense appliances in his home on the night of the shooting was made plain by J. R. Gay, owner of the house, who told of having shown to him a door by which the second floor could be shut off from the ground floor, and a switch on the second floor by which the first floor could be flooded with electric light. He also testified that the "jimmy" marks on the screen door had been made by him months before in removing a storm door.

Lawyers Do Not Testify.

Coroner Hoffman stated that Attorneys Murry Nelson Jr. and Walter L. Fisher had refused to testify on the ground that their information as to Mr. Rawn's connection with the Illinois Central frauds had been confidentially obtained as attorneys and that to disclose it would jeopardize the civil suits now pending. This position was stated in a letter from Mr. Nelson, which was read.

Dr. Frank W. Blatchford, friend of the family and first outsider to arrive at the Rawn home, expressed the opinion that Mr. Rawn accidently shot himself with his own revolver. Dr. H. G. W. Reinhardt, the coroner's physician, testified that if the shooting had been accidental Mr. Rawn inevitably would have suffered broken fingers or severe bruises as he fell upon his gun, but said that there were no marks upon the body. He demonstrated how easily the shot could have been fired by Mr. Rawn himself so as to take the course it did.

Bullet Fits Rawn's Pistol.

Chief of Police Fred S. Shaffer of Evanston, who arrived on the scene shortly after the shooting, expressed the opinion that death was caused by Mr. Rawn's own revolver, either by accident or suicide. In support of this he said that the hole in the night shirt was larger than the bullet, indicating that it had been burned, that there was blood on the revolver, that the screen door marks were on the inside, and that there was no trace of either second bullet or burglar. One of the undischarged shells was taken apart and compared with that which killed Mr. Rawn. Shaffer thought them identical.

The evening was marked by clashes brought about by the insistency of Village President S. H. Greeley to ask questions of witnesses which Coroner Hoffman and some of the jurors termed "unfair and improper." Mrs. R. C. Brinkley, daughter of Mr. Rawn, her husband, and Ralph G. Coburn, the son-in-law who resides at the Rawn house, were the members of the family who testified.

Neighbor First Witness.

John Allen Haines, the first witness called, said he lived in Winnetka, and met Mr. Rawn for the first time the day before the shooting. At that time, Haines said, Mr. Rawn discussed with him the frequency of burglaries during the last fortnight in the village. The witness said he told Mr. Rawn he should not have investigated the noises he said he heard.

President Greeley started to ask a question ridiculing the idea that escaping burglars would whistle, but was shut off by Coroner Hoffman with a "Now, now, that won't do."

Then Foreman Hately cleared up the mysterious whistling, volunteering this information:

"I ran down El Dorado avenue about that time of the morning of which Mr. Haines speaks, and I whistled a couple of times as I passed a house on my way to the Rawn residence after Dr. Blatchford had called me over the phone.

President Greeley attempted to ask other questions, but was told they were not vital by the coroner, who said Mr. Haines had apparently told all he knew that had any bearing on the case.

"What is probable or possible is immaterial," he said.

Fred G. Shaffer, chief of police of Evanston, was the next witness. Chief Shaffer said he was notified of Mr. Rawn's death about 2:50 o'clock on the morning of the shooting and that he was informed by the Pinkerton detective agency. After notifying the Evanston police department, Chief Shaffer went to the Rawn residence in Winnetka. He met several members of the family, C. F. Hately, and a physician.

"I saw powder marks on the night shirt," the witness said, "indicating that the shot was fired at short range."

Revolver Was Held Close.

Here Coroner Hoffman handed the witness the night shirt worn by Mr. Rawn the night of the shooting. The witness called attention to the size of the bullet hole in the garment, saying it was larger than the diameter of a .32 caliber bullet and the edges showed the revolver had been held so close to Mr. Rawn's body that the hole had been enlarged by burning.

The witness told of Mr. Rawn's body being carried upstairs about 5:30 o'clock.

"Do you know if the coroner had been notified?" asked the coroner.

"I don't," the witness replied.

"I'm not finding fault," the coroner said.

"but we might know more of this if the body had not been moved until the coroner was notified, as the law provides."

The witness then told of picking up the bullet off the floor, and said it fitted the fired cartridge in the revolver of Mr. Rawn's which lay near. He said he did not see any blood on the rug on which the body of Mr. Rawn lay in the hallway.

"I saw a spot of blood on the end of the revolver barrel," the police officer said.

Didn't Think Door Forced.

The witness said he found the back screen door cut on two different places on the inside. "I don't think the door had been forced from the outside.

"Mr. Coburn told me," the witness said, "he had been awakened by two pistol shots. I said then there must be another bullet embedded some place or that a burglar had been shot. I examined carefully, but found no traces of another bullet."

"Did you find any indication that a burglar had forced an entrance?" the coroner asked.

"No, sir."

The witness said he found no trace of blood on the stairway.

"Now, Mr. Coroner," said President Greeley, "the jurors have seen fit to draw conclusions."

A storm of objections came simultaneously from the coroner and several of the jurors.

"Well, what I want to ask," said Mr. Greeley, unperturbed, "if, speaking from his experience, the witness could tell how the deceased came to his death?"

"Don't Butt In Now."

"Highly improper," said the coroner, and he warned the president that he did not desire to have the record cluttered up with petty matters. However, Mr. Hoffman did allow the question to be asked whether the witness knew if Mr. Rawn was a suicide, the victim of an accident, or killed by a burglar. The witness said he could not tell. Here Mr. Greeley again started to ask a question and was promptly hushed by Mr. Hoffman with a "don't butt in now."

Mr. Hoffman relented, however, and allowed the witness to say what in his opinion had caused Mr. Rawn's death.

"Take this for what it's worth," the coroner told the jury.

"It's immaterial like a lot of this," Foreman Hately remarked, "but we're glad to have it."

"In my opinion, Mr. Rawn's death was either due to suicide or accident."

Dr. Frank W. Blatchford, the physician who was called at the time of the shooting, testified he had not been personally acquainted with Mr. Rawn, but had attended his three grandchildren.

He said he got a telephone message to come to the Rawn residence about 1:30 o'clock on the morning of Mr. Rawn's death. He was not told why he was wanted. He found R. G. Coburn bending over Mr. Rawn's body. Mrs. Rawn and Mrs. Coburn and several maids also were there.

The witness said it was his opinion that it was possible for Mr. Rawn to have shot himself from the position and character of the wound.

Unique Burglar Alarm.

John R. Gay, owner of the residence in which the Rawn family resides, was called as a witness. He testified to showing Mr. Rawn how, by closing sliding doors, the entire second floor could be shut off and no servant or intruder could gain admittance.

"I showed him also a button on the second floor which lights an electric light down below, and suggested that my wife, if she heard a noise, could flash the light and frighten away a possible intruder."

"You're sure you spoke of that?" asked the coroner.

"O, yes," the witness replied.

Mr. Gay said he had examined the defacements on the doors, and that they were just as they had been previous to the moving in of the Rawns.

The marks on the screen door, he said, had been made taking off the storm doors. He said the stairway landing floor was slippery, and he and other members of the family had often lost their footing there, but thought one would not slip if in his bare feet.

"We locked the big sliding door which cut off the second floor by itself every night," the witness said. "We were then all to ourselves on that floor, just as if in a separate flat."

Mr. Gay said it was on a Sunday about the middle of March that he showed the house to Mr. Rawn.

Others Heard Noises.

William J. Cook, who lives the next door south of the Rawn residence, said he knew nothing of the shooting until 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

A. W. Strauss, who lives 200 feet southwest of the Rawn home, said he was awake with a crying baby at 12:45 o'clock and some time later he heard a noise and thought the ash can in his yard had been disturbed. A few minutes later he heard a scurrying through the grass and thought dogs had been at the ash can, as had occurred at previous times. He said he heard no sounds of shooting.

Anna Borbele, a maid in the Strauss household, said she heard a single shot about 1 o'clock the morning Mr. Rawn was found dead. This witness was the innocent cause of merriment, as she could not talk English and the coroner and the jurors who could talk German had to examine her and translate her answers.

Son-in-Law Is Called.

Robert C. Brinkley, son-in-law of Mr. Rawn, was the first member of the family to testify at the night session. He said Mr. Rawn showed no worry whatsoever in the last two months. He said Mr. Rawn never had discussed with him the Illinois Central railroad investigation. He said he was at the Rawn house at 10 o'clock the night before the tragedy and that Mr. Rawn was "jovial and jolly."

Mr. Brinkley said he was notified of Mr. Rawn's death about 1:25 o'clock in the morning by Mr. Coburn, who said Mr. Rawn had been shot by a burglar.

"Mr. Coburn told me when I got to the house with Mrs. Brinkley that Mr. Rawn was dead," the witness said. "I saw the revolver lying on the floor. I didn't examine it. I saw the two back doors open, the screen door propped open by a rug."

The witness said he called Mr. Ross, secretary to Mr. Rawn, and asked that the Pinkertons be sent out.

"Is it still your opinion Mr. Rawn was killed by burglars?" asked the coroner.

Denies Suicide Theory.

"He was either killed by a burglar or Mr. Rawn may have slipped and fallen downstairs and met death accidentally. Knowing him as I did, I am sure he never committed suicide."

The witness said he did not know if any member of the family called up THE TRIBUNE to tell of the shooting.

"As I remember it, THE TRIBUNE called up first to find out about it," he said.

To Coroner Hoffman's query as to the reason for denying the Chicago police access to the house, the witness said:

"I was told the men were sent out by Capt. Wood through courtesy to Mr. Rawn. I told them to carry our thanks to Capt. Wood and we would be glad to have their services if they were needed. My thought was that the Pinkertons already were at work on the case and that if several different sets of men were at work it might be at cross purposes."

The witness denied the Winnetka police were refused permission to enter the house and said they were there in the morning and apparently made some sort of an investigation.

Mrs. Brinkley, daughter of Mr. Rawn, testified briefly of being called to the Rawn residence with her husband on the morning of the tragedy. She said she had never known her father to be despondent and took it for granted he had been killed by a burglar as she had been told the morning of the tragedy.

Coburn Is Recalled.

Ralph G. Coburn, a son-in-law, was the next witness called. Before he testified, Deputy Coroner Webster read the transcript of Mr. Coburn's testimony given before the coroner's jury last Wednesday morning, the day it was impaneled.

Mr. Coburn was asked by the coroner if he had learned anything since making his first statement which would lead him to desire to make any changes or additions. He replied in the negative. Mr. Hoffman then asked the witness why he did not press the electric light button on the stairs landing before going down when he herd the shooting.

"I did not know about the button," was the reply.

"Did Mr. Rawn ever speak to you about that sliding door upstairs?" asked Foreman Hately.

"Yes, the door was kept closed in cool weather. After the warm weather came, that sliding door was left open at night."

Coburn said that the screen door was two-thirds open and held open by a rug indicated that an intruder had entered.

Coroner Hoffman asked: "Are you still of the opinion after this investigation that Mr. Rawn came to his death at the hands of a burglar?"

"I am."

Admits Accident Possible.

"The Pinkertons made a report that possibly Mr. Rawn came to his death by accident. Would that change your opinion of murder?"

"An accident may have been possible."

"Did you have any conversation over the phone?"

"With THE TRIBUNE."

"Did THE TRIBUNE call you before you called them?"

"Yes."

Juror Leonard then said J. T. Ross called THE TRIBUNE.

President Greeley—Did the Winnetka police call up the Rawn home since last Wednesday a week ago, and who called and what took place? Were you present when Marshall Coutre and myself called up the Rawn residence for evidence?

"I was present and referred them to Attorney Burry."

"What did Burry say?"

"Burry said he did not care to reply at the time because newspapers and others had expressed opinions."

"What did I say?"

"President Greeley said it was an insult."

Position of Rawn's Arms.

Mr. Coburn was questioned by W. B. Sidney of the Casualty company as to the position of the body of Mr. Rawn when found.

"What was the position of the dead man's arms?" asked a juror.

"The left arm was straight at the side, the right arm bent at elbow with hand toward the body."

Mrs. Ralph G. Coburn, daughter of Mr. Rawn, who was in the house at the time of the tragedy, told a vivid story of the happenings of the night.

"I was awakened by the sound of scuffling," she said, "then I heard one shot—I'm positive—then there came moanings and a little later a scream—that was my mother.

Policeman W. C. Eggert, in response to queries by President Greeley, stated his police "clock" register showed he was across the street from the Rawn residence at 1:20 o'clock the morning of the tragedy. He testified that he was within a block and a half of the Rawn home from 1:15 to 1:25 o'clock.

"Did you hear any noises in that period of time to arouse your suspicion?"

"No, sir, I heard nothing."

"Did you ever meet Mr. Rawn at night?" asked Mr. Greeley.

Asked About Burglary.

"Yes, sir; a number of times. He often came out when I punched the box in front of his residence. He used to give me cigars. He asked me if we caught the burglars over at the Bell house, where there was a burglary."

Policeman Fred Schwall, who was on duty at the police station in the village hall the morning of the shooting, said he was called up by telephone at 1:40 by either Coburn or Dr. Blatchford.

He was told that Mr. Rawn had been killed by burglars, and hurried to the residence.

"Were you embarrassed in any way in your investigation?" asked Juror Melcher.

"No," the witness replied.

Chief of Police John M. Coutre testified that Officer Eggert notified him of the shooting at 1:50 o'clock. He said he went to the Rawn residence and examined the interior and exterior, but found no trace of burglars.

Gets Tip from Detective.

"Are you still looking for the burglar?" asked the coroner.

"No, sir."

"Do you know anything of your own knowledge that shows how this shooting occurred?"

"I'm certain he shot himself."

In response to questions by the village president the witness told of an admission made by Operative Charles W. Bruens of the Pinkerton Detective agency.

"I met him downtown after he had investigated the case," Chief Coutre said. "He said to me: 'This is a case of suicide; keep it under your hat.'"

Operative Bruens was not a witness at the inquest because, it was announced, he could not be reached by subpoena, being out of the state.

Bullet Punctured Heart.

H. G. W. Reinhardt, coroner's physician, differed with Dr. Blatchford in his description of the wound in Mr. Rawn's body. He placed the wound lower in the chest and said that the apex of the heart had been punctured by the bullet.

"The bullet was fired at contact range," he said.

"Could this shot have been fired by Mr. Rawn?" asked the coroner.

"Yes."

The "split" bullet came in for analysis by the physician.

"It is not a bullet, never was a bullet," he said. "It is a mixture of molten lead and zinc."

The physician took the position that Mr. Rawn could not have come to his death by falling and thus being accidentally shot.

"Had he fallen the body would show marks. He would have broken a wrist or fingers, or have received some sort of injuries which would have left their trace," he said.

The physician said Mr. Rawn could have shot himself, and Foreman Hately made a demonstration to prove it by placing the Rawn revolver at his own breast at a point designated by the physician and pulling the trigger.

Following the physician's testimony Coroner Hoffman asked President Greeley if there were any more witnesses.

"There are no more," the president said, "but I desire to make a statement. The officers of this city have worked night and day to collect evidence and summon witnesses. The fair names of the officers and village of Winnetka are at stake, for Attorney William Burry, representing the Rawn family, has said this evidence has been collected by our police for the use of insurance companies. I demand that he be placed on the witness stand and be made to testify where he got such information."

"Lovely," interrupted Juror Prouty, "but it's outside our line of duty."

The coroner upheld the juror's contention and refused to allow Mr. Burry to be questioned.

Carl Haupt, a coachman employed by Carl Heinzen, a neighbor of the Rawns, did not appear as a witness, although a subpoena had been issued for him. President Greeley said the man had disappeared. Haupt slept in a stable within 150 feet of the Rawn residence. Mr. Greeley read a signed statement by the coachman in which he said he heard the shooting and that he heard only one shot.

MRS. RAWN PROVES HEIRSHIP.

According to a petition filed in the Probate court during the day Mr. Rawn possessed $120,000 in personality and no realty. Mrs. Rawn appeared before Assistant Judge Ernest Glenny and made proof of heirship. The witnesses to the will, J. T. Ross and F. S. Gibons, were also examined. What the personal estate consists of will not be disclosed until the inventory is filed

Bankers Named for Vacancies on Police Pension Board.

OSCAR G. FOREMAN — JOHN J. MITCHELL — JOSEPH T. OTIS

After a great deal of personal effort to persuade them to give up their time to the work, Mayor Busse yesterday appointed three bankers as members of the board of trustees of the police pension board.

The men named were John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank; Oscar G. Foreman, vice president of Foreman Bros., and James E. Otis, president of the Western Trust and Savings bank. They take the places of Thomas Boyle, the treasurer, whose failure to account for about $50,000 in interest on the fund aroused the criticism of the Merriam commission. William E. Fortune, of the Fortune Brewing company, and William Rothmann, an attorney. Boyle's term expired at the quarterly meeting of the board of trustees two weeks ago, and as he is succeeded by Mr. Mitchell the full term of three years will fall to him. Fortune's term expired a year ago, so that his successor, Mr. Otis, will have two years to serve, while, as the resignation of Mr. Rothmann came after two years of service, his successor, Mr. Foreman, will have only a year's term left.

Neither Attorney Nor Judge Desires Expensive Editions de Luxe at 60 Per Cent Profit—Still "There Are Others."

"I wouldn't care to buy such things, and I dare say you wouldn't," said Attorney E. F. McClennen to Municipal Judge Foster yesterday, referring to the $86,000 edition de luxe purchased by Mrs. Mary J. Hoxie, payment for which is being contested by her.

"Just the same," continued Mr. McClennen, "this set of books is the kind of thing prepared for people who want to invest in such things, and the price is no higher than what they usually are charged."

Mr. McClennen produced figures to show that the margin on editions de luxe prepared for wealthy bibliophiles is from 50 to 60 per cent, and he testified that books sold Mrs. Hoxie represented an actual cash outlay in established proportion.

That the volumes for which Mrs. Hoxie refuses payment were of artistic merit, and in accordance with samples by which they were sold, constituted the contention of the University Press, printers of the books.

SLUGS AUTOISTS AT $7 A VICTIM?

Henry Hunt in Confession Says He Was Hired by a Detective Agency.

TAKEN DURING ASSAULT.

Arrest and Statement to Police All a "Frameup," Says Sleuths' Attorney.

Seven dollars a head was the price paid by a detective agency in the employ of automobile companies for slugging of union chauffeurs, according to a confession made by Henry Hunt to Capt. James Storen of the Fillmore street police station.

The confession was made public yesterday when Harry G. Graham, assistant superintendent of the Inter-State Detective agency, was arrested for complicity in Hunt's confessed acts.

Hunt and Andrew Walsh, 3217 Butler street, were arrested Tuesday night while assaulting Edward Riley, business agent for local 727 of the Auto Livery Chauffeurs' union, near his residence, 3949 Harvard street.

Calls Confession Conspiracy.

Frank P. McGinn, attorney for the detective agency, issued a statement last night charging that the confession is a deliberate conspiracy on the part of the union chauffeurs.

"The confession is no confession," he said. "It is a mere pretense. It shows that Hunt was in the employ of the chauffeurs' union all the time, although we did not know it until today. He deliberately attempted to get Walsh into a position in which they would both be arrested and the agency involved in court. They had the police there ready to make the arrest. There was no assault and battery. It was all a frameup."

Hunt in his confession, which has been corroborated by the testimony of some others involved in it, states that he was hired July 20 by Graham to slug union chauffeurs, and that Walsh accompanied him to point out the man to be slugged. He also implicates F. C. Dellone of the Interstate Detective agency. A warrant was issued for Dellone, but could not be served because of his absence from the city. Walsh refuses to talk.

Not Told to Slug, Says Graham.

Graham admitted that his agency had been employed by corporate interests to do work in connection with the strike and that he, in turn, had hired Hunt and Walsh to do "shadow work" on it.

"But I never authorized them to do anything unlawful," he said. "They carried cards from our agency, identifying them and asking the police not to molest them as long as they were doing nothing unlawful. They had no orders to slug any one."

Mr. Graham refused to state who had hired his agency, though he admitted that it was "corporation interests" unfriendly to the strikers.

Dudley Taylor, attorney for the Chicago Employers' association, stated last night that the detective agency had not been employed in any way by that organization.

"The Employers' association has done nothing but prosecute cases of tire cutting, sink ball throwing, and so forth," he said. "That agency was not employed by us to do any shadowing, or to get evidence. They have no connection with us whatever."

According to the confession, Hunt was hired after a conversation with Graham and Dellone at their office, in which conversation he agreed for $7 a day to slug union chauffeurs, who were to be pointed out to him. The same afternoon, July 20, he says, he was introduced by Graham to the man who was to point out his victims, Walsh, and they agreed to start work last Saturday night. That night, he says, they met at Ward's saloon, Wabash avenue and Twelfth street.

Hunt Tells of Adventures.

His confession relates their further adventures as:

"We both walked north and visited several downtown hotels. At the Wellington hotel he pointed out a chauffeur named Charley Fredericks. I entered his taxicab and rode to Michigan avenue and Fifteenth street, where I told him I was employed to slug him, and said I would not do it, and would like to meet his boss. Then I returned to Ward's saloon and met Walsh as agreed upon, where we had several drinks of beer.

"I arranged to meet him at Graham & Dellone's office at 11 o'clock the next morning. I saw Graham and Walsh, and Graham said to me:

"'How did you make out last night?' I told him about getting a union man and slugging him at Michigan avenue and Fifteenth street, and that I saw an officer and made my getaway through an alley.

"Graham then said to me:

"'I suppose you want some junk?' at the same time handing me a $5 bill and two $1 bills. Walsh then said to me:

"'We will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at Ward's saloon. I got to Ward's at 8 o'clock and remained around the saloon until Walsh came.

"We walked to 275 La Salle street, union headquarters, where I saw Edward Reilly and two other men. We then walked to the Morrison hotel. There he pointed out a man to me who I afterward learned was Wade Hoskins. I got into his taxi and told him to drive me to Sixteenth and State streets."

Pays Fare with Fists.

"Walsh and myself had agreed to meet in Ward's saloon after I had left Hoskins. Walsh asked me if Hoskins had put up any fight and how bad I had slugged him. I answered that he said the fare was $3 and that I gave him $6 worth of slugging, as he was easy. Walsh replied, saying, 'They are all easy now.'

"We then separated, agreeing to meet at Graham & Dellone's office. Graham asked me how I made out, and what I did that night. I told him.

"Graham handed me $7 and I signed a receipt. Graham asked me where Walsh and I met and I told him. He told me we had better change, as it would not do to be around the same place too often, and for us to meet next time at the La Salle street depot smoking room. Mr. Graham told me to get 'Sidewalk' Smith and if I could not get him to get Gilbert Fortunate, better known as 'Redhead.' I told Walsh, but we could not find either of them.

Lets Another Go; Gets $7.

"Walsh then telephoned to Graham, telling him we could not find Smith. Walsh then told me Graham had said:

"'Get any of the union chauffeurs.' We then returned to the courthouse. He pointed out a man and I told him to drive me to Sixteenth street. At the same time another man got on the seat with the chauffeur. He drove me to Sixteenth street. I then let him go. I went to a saloon on the west side, where I met Walsh, and I explained how I had slugged the men. I called on Graham and he gave me $7. Graham told me to 'get Reilly tonight and give him a good slugging and put him in the hospital.'

"The next night Walsh and I went to a saloon at Fortieth avenue and Harrison street. A chauffeur named Reilly appeared at about 10:35 o'clock. Walsh said:

"'There is Reilly; go and get him.' I followed Reilly and made a pass at him. Reilly caught me and hollored for police and help. Walsh ran away. Reilly and I were arrested by two policemen and Walsh was arrested shortly after. Graham told me July 26, 1910, that if I was arrested to call up Edgewater 3064 and ask for Mr. Sullivan and say that his brother was arrested. Mr. Sullivan answered, saying that he would have Graham call me up in five minutes. Graham did call me and asked what the charges were."

The chauffeurs named by Hunt have all been questioned by the police, who say that they corroborate him in every particular.

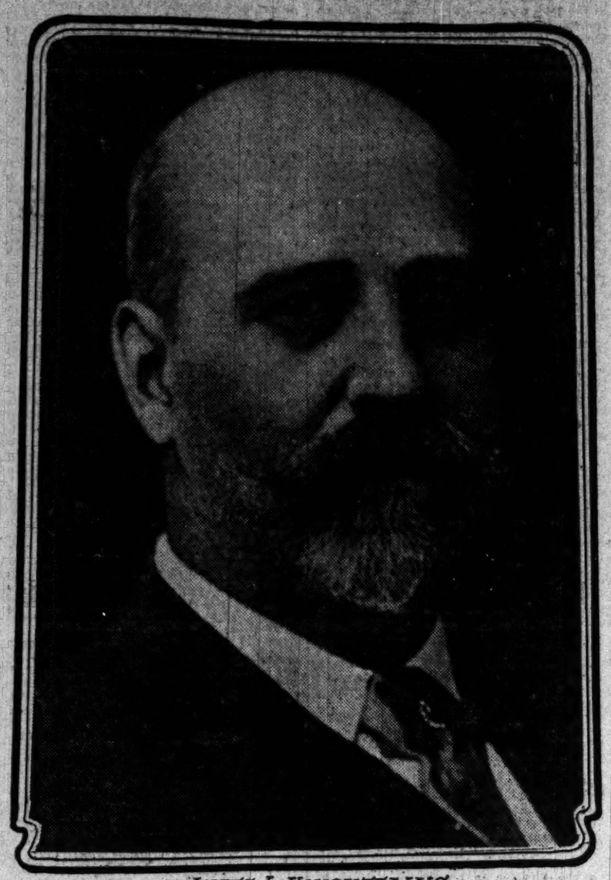
Native Chicagoan Who Died of Heart Trouble Last Evening.



JAMES L. HOUGHTELING

JAMES L. HOUGHTELING DEAD

Native Chicagoan, Real Estate Man, Heart Trouble Victim.

PROMINENT IN Y. M. C. A.

Educated in Public Schools and Graduate of Yale.

James Lawrence Houghteling, a native Chicagoan, for many years prominent in local business and social communities, died last evening at his residence in Winnetka. Mr. Houghteling was 55 years old, but he had been suffering with heart trouble for over a year, and his death was not unexpected by his family and friends.

James L. Houghteling was born in Chicago on Nov. 29, 1855, on Indiana street, not far from State. His father, William De Zeng Houghteling, was a pioneer settler of Chicago, and for many years before his death was one of the leading lumber merchants here. He was at one time president of the lumber exchange here, and also served a term as president of the Chicago board of trade.

Attended Chicago Public Schools.

His son, James L. Houghteling, received his early education in the Chicago public schools, having attended the old Ogden school, then on North State street, but later moved to Pearson street, just west of State. He went to the Chicago High school and from there to Yale, where he was graduated in 1876. At first he followed in his father's footsteps in his business enterprises, entering the office of the Menominee Lumber company as secretary and afterward becoming treasurer of the Mackinaw Lumber company.

In 1883 he gave up the lumber business and associated himself with his father-in-law, Francis Peabody, in the real estate business. The firm name then was Francis B. Peabody & Co., but two years later the title was changed to Peabody, Houghteling & Co. and under this name has been doing business ever since. While never forward in civic affairs, Mr. Houghteling was always interested in movements for the making of a better city.

Overcame Five Thieves Singlehanded.

He was deeply interested in the progress of young men, and, since 1881, he has been associated with the Young Men's Christian association in one official capacity or another. It was only a year ago that he attended a world's conference of the Y. M. C. A., held at Barman in Rhenish, Prussia. During that trip he was set upon by five thieves, and single handed overcame them.

In 1883 he founded the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in St. James Episcopal church on Cass and Huron streets. The pledge of the members, mostly young men, was that they should go about in an honest, earnest, inconspicuous way, "doing the square thing."

Mr. Houghteling married Miss Lucretia Peabody in 1879. The widow and six children survive him, the children being three boys—Francis, James L. Jr., and William—and three girls—Harriet, Lelia, and Margaret. No arrangements for the funeral have been made.

WINS HIS FIGHT FOR DEATH

Carver Remington, Who Shot Self, Irritated Bad Wound.

LAWYER DID NOT DROWN?

Police Believe Missing New Yorker Tried Deception on Beach.

Carver Remington, son of the inventor of the Remington rifle and a nephew of the late Levi Z. Leiter, died last night at the Chicago Eye, Ear, Nose, and Throat hospital. He shot himself Tuesday afternoon in a tailoring establishment at 99 Washington street.

Remington had carefully planned his death. Hope for his recovery was destroyed by his determination to die, as he did all he could to prevent a wound near his heart from healing.

Remington was 60 years old and at one time was wealthy. His desire to end his life was caused by his failure to market an invention.

His widow was the only relative at the hospital when he died. Two brothers, Franklin Remington and E. Remington, and a son-in-law, F. W. Golden, arrived from New York during the day, and they, with the widow, will accompany Remington's body to Illion, N. Y., for interment.

See Ruse in Supposed Drowning.

After an investigation into the supposed drowning of James R. McNally, a New York lawyer, whose clothing was found on the lake front off Seventy-sixth street Wednesday, the police have reached a decision that the attorney did not drown.

In view of information given them that McNally is wanted in the east for embezzling money entrusted to him the police now believe that his companion, G. Ledey, who registered with him at the Hotel Grant, assisted him in a ruse to escape arrest.

The police now believe that McNally left his clothing on the beach and was rowed away by Ledey in a boat.

Hold Lawyer Killed Self.

A coroner's jury during the day returned a verdict of suicide in the case of Edward B. Langworthy, an attorney with offices in the Ashland block, who ended his life by turning on the gas in his bedroom Wednesday morning. He is said to have been despondent over ill health.

William Allen of Wheeling, W. Va., attempted to drown himself in the river at Kinzie street in the evening. He was rescued by James Greenbaum, a bridge tender.

Convicted of Harboring Girl.

Mrs. Sarah Cohen and Harry Williams, charged with harboring a girl under age, were found guilty in Judge Dupuy's court yesterday. The girl is Lillie Schroch.

CHICAGO'S OUTLAY GIVEN IN CENSUS

Figures for Year 1908-'09 Show Cost of "Municipal Living" Is $40.99 a Head.

OUTLAY IS CLASSIFIED.

Blame for Growth of Expenses Placed Partly on Hodgepodge Governments.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 28.—[Special.]—The census bureau gave out figures today touching the cost of governing Chicago through its divided and hodgepodge system of administration and taxation. The total cost of governing the territory comprised within the limits of the city of Chicago in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, was $88,793,428. This grand total includes the city's part of county administration, sanitary district, and the various park systems.

This is an average cost for every man, woman, and child in the city of $40.99, an increase in five years of approximately 20 per cent. In the previous year, 1907-'08 the per capita was $40.50.

The government bureau presents figures showing the total cost to the citizens of Chicago of the city government proper and the proportionate share of the expense of the sanitary district and other independent governmental bodies that make up the economic structure of the municipality.

The inference to be drawn from an analysis of the figures is that this makeshift system of coördinate administrations is costing Chicago hundreds of thousands of dollars each year which would be saved by consolidated government under a single authority, as has been frequently proposed.

Gives Cost Per Capita.

The cost of government per capita in Chicago in the years 1907-'08 and 1908-'09 is shown by the following table of the census bureau's figures:

	1907-'08.	1908-'09.
Schools	$3.86	$5.36
Police and fire protection	4.32	4.92
Health and sanitation	1.56	2.72
Charities and corrections	.73	.97
Recreation (parks)	.94	2.19
Maintenance of streets and sidewalks	1.15	3.36

These embrace the more important departments of the local government, much of the increase being attributed to the "higher cost of living"—wages, supplies, etc.

The higher cost of the school system seems to be easily explained as not due to extravagance in its administration, because it was occasioned by the expenditure of $2,477,220 for new buildings.

The average expenditure per capita for schools in 158 cities exceeding 30,000 population is $4.70. Salt Lake City expended $8.18, Newton, Mass., $8; New York, Boston, Washington, Newark, Denver, Springfield, Mass., and Sacramento more than $6 (all being higher than Chicago), while in Montgomery the cost was only $1.68, Charleston $1.81, and Memphis $2.19.

City Government Divisions.

The cost of administering the various divisions of the Chicago government, with the percentage of each to total cost in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1909, follows:

	Cost.	Percentage.
General government	$ 7,696,547	7.9
Protection of life and property	10,660,514	12.0
Health conservation and sanitation	5,904,709	6.0
Maintenance of street and sidewalks	7,078,335	8.0
Charities and corrections	2,109,991	2.4
Education	11,991,055	13.5
Recreation (parks, beaches, etc.)	4,749,684	5.3
Miscellaneous	850,707	1.0
Municipal service enterprises	1,473,270	1.7
Public service enterprises	5,755,344	6.5
Invested funds	17,092	...
Interest	4,075,615	4.6
Debt obligations	25,630,635	28.9
Temporary payments	1,460,230	1.6
Total	$88,793,428

New York, of course, spends far more than Chicago on its government, and the cost per capita is two and one-half times as great, being $97 per capita, as against $40.99. Boston's as well as Philadelphia's expense is also greater per capita.

The cost of maintaining fire, police, health, and street departments has been steadily increasing in all large cities.

PETER PIEHL IS PRINCE OF PIES

Boy Consumes Man's Size in One Minute Twenty-four Seconds.

MELON EATER DEFIES TIME.

Stopwatch Too Slow to Catch Mrs. Corda Barnes at Picnic.

Peter Piehl, 11 years old, 6805 Jackson Park avenue, lays claim to the featherweight championship of the world in the pie eating class. He rests his case on laurels won yesterday evening at the picnic given by the Second Ward Regular Democratic club. Peter got away with a whole blueberry pie, man's size, in one minute and twenty-four seconds flat—which was going some, considering the rules prescribed that each contestant must have his hands tied behind his back.

Fifteen boys were seated around the table when the word "Go!" was given. Fifteen mouths dived into as many pies, but the first face to emerge belonged to Peter. Protest was made by "Chuck" Larsen, 5410 Madison avenue, that—

"Most of Peter's pie was on his face."

The protest was overruled.

Woman Champion Melon Eater.

In a free for all melon eating contest, Mrs. Corda Barnes, 2605 Calumet avenue, was an easy winner. The time of eating one slice of melon was so short the judges failed to catch it.

The picnic, which began early in the afternoon at the old world's fair park, Jackson Park avenue, lasted until midnight, and was attended by more than 1,500. It proved to be a contest between eating and oratory, with oratory a decided second. All of the eating and other contests were pulled off according to schedule, while many of the speakers failed to appear, and others who were on hand became so engrossed in the sports they forgot all about their speeches.

Fat Men in a Row.

The fat men's race almost broke up in a row when it was discovered that on the field day committee were two doctors and an undertaker. W. J. Welbasky, one of the contestants, at first refused to enter the race, but changed his mind when he was guaranteed free medical attendance and a free burial, if needed. He lost the race, the winner being H. C. Wagner, 2022 East Thirty-first street.

In the "shoe race" Mrs. William Moore, 1046 East Forty-third street, was the winner, and Miss Ethel Trenchard, 2624 Indiana avenue, second. Miss Ethel Trenchard won the egg race, with Mrs. J. H. Montgomery, 3108 Perry street, a close second.

A whole beef was barbecued and was served free to all who came. Other refreshments were plentiful.

Candidates in the Crowd.

Candidates were many in the crowd. Judge William E. Dever, candidate for the Supreme court bench, being conspicuous among them. He made a short address. G. Charles Griffiths, candidate for county superintendent of schools, was also there.

The picnic was such a big success it was decided to make it an annual affair.

MEH PINK ROSE! HEROINE CRIES; DELAYS PLAY; STANDS BY DIET.

Rostand "Murdered" When Inedible Geranium Is Given Her to Eat—Show "Anti-Hugging" Dance to Admirers.

Horrors! There was a big audience waiting. It was time when the girl heroine must eat a rose. The heroine balked. The only flower on hand was a red geranium.

"Geraniums make me sick and I don't eat it. So there."

It was at Scammon gardens last night when the John Nicholson Sylvan players were presenting "Les Romanesques" to an admiring and cultured assembly. The play, one of Rostand's productions, had been interpreted as far as the first of the last act. At that particular point Miss Leta Vance, who portrays the rôle of Ambrosine, "must slowly devour a flower." Hitherto she had been careful to select a nice pink rose. Last night the property man made a blunder and the entire performance almost collapsed as a result.

While the audience waited, and the actors on the improvised stage made up lines to keep the play from failure, Mr. Nicholson and members of the orchestra scouted the grounds for a red rose. One was found in a far corner, and the play was saved.

The audience also witnessed a clever execution of the latest thing in the "anti-hugging" dance, as presented by Miss Edna Neil of Oak Park. She gave an interpretation of "Springtime," assisted by seven other young girls. Miss Neil would like to see some philanthropist endow a terpsichorean college at the University of Chicago, where the "interpretative and not the hugging idea" could be developed, as she expressed it.

EXPLOSION AIMED AT LIGHT FIRM?

Plan Seen to Plunge the Entire Vice District Into Darkness.

DYNAMITE ON CONDUIT.

Windows of Box Factory Opposite Cosmopolitan Company Are Sucked Out.

An explosion, the cause of which has not been clearly established, shattered windows in the Louis Hutt box factory, Twenty-first and Canal streets, at 9:30 o'clock last night and furnished a mystery for the Twenty-second street police to solve.

One of the theories advanced is that the explosion was aimed at the Cosmopolitan Electric company, whose plant is a short distance from the box factory. It is said the Cosmopolitan company furnishes electric light to nearly all the resorts in the "red light" district, and that the desired effect of the explosion was to plunge the vice district into darkness.

Not Mill Dust Explosion.

Lieut. Kelleher is mystified. Whether the explosion was inside or outside the factory he did not know.

"It was not an explosion of mill dust," said the lieutenant, "because if it had been, the damage would have been greater. I think it will take a scientist to solve the mystery."

A theory advanced by John Petrie, an electrician, who lives at 217 West Twenty-second street, did not find favor with the police. Petrie is of the opinion that an explosive, probably dynamite, was placed on top of a conduit cover of the Cosmopolitan Electric company. The conduit is in the street in front of the factory, about 200 feet from the building. The iron cover was blown to pieces, but there was no damage to the electric company's supply wires in the conduit.

"My reason for believing that the explosive was placed on top of the manhole cover is this," said Petrie. "The shattered windows show that they were blown out—or rather sucked out—and not blown in. My explanation for this seemingly strange law of physics is that the heat of the explosion rarified the air, causing a vacuum.

Like Lightning Causes Thunder.

"The air rushing back into this vacuum after it has cooled created a suction that pulled the windows out of the building.

"Only the windows on the north side, those facing the conduit, were broken. This goes to prove that if the explosion was inside all the windows, front and rear, would have been shattered.

"Adjoining the box factory are two frame cottages, and the same effect of the explosion is seen there.

"I don't claim to be a scientist, but it is the same principle as lightning causing thunder. If a thorough investigation is made it will be found that the windows in the box factory were broken by being sucked out of their frames."

KEEP HOUSE TIDY; KEEP HUBBY.

This Is Advice Judge Walker Gives Mrs. Josie Egan and She Will Follow It.

If a wife is not a good housekeeper and is in the habit of neglecting to make the beds each morning and allowing the dirty dishes to pile up on the kitchen table she is almost undeserving of pity when her husband grows tired and deserts her, according to Municipal Judge Walker.

The judge expressed this opinion yesterday in the Englewood court when Mrs. Josie Egan, 6317 South Halsted street, admitted while testifying against her husband, Thomas Egan, for abandoning her a month ago, that she had neglected to keep her house as clean as she might.

LOSS OF HAIR

Dandruff and Itching Scalp—Simple Way to Cure Them.

The most common cause of loss of hair, dandruff and itching scalp, is neglect. People don't wash the scalp and hair often enough. Leading authorities like Dr. J. C. Bayles and Dr. Woods Hutchinson, of New York, and Prof. Lassar, of Germany, recommend frequent washing with mild, neutral soaps. The best thing of all for this purpose is Birt's Head Wash, because it is made of a particularly fine soap, medicated with Glycerin, White of Eggs, Cocoanut Oil and Salicylic Acid. Birt's Head Wash makes a profuse lather, and not only cleans the hair and the outside of the scalp but opens up and cleanses the pores as well. This opening of the pores is most beneficial and invigorating to the hair roots, and does more to prevent the loss of hair than all so-called "tonics" put together. A single shampoo with Birt's Head Wash will prove all these claims to your satisfaction. Tubes 25c, jars 50c.

The Sawyer Expert Baker Explains

The secret of the "Crispo Taste" will never be completely told in words. It is not a question of flour, or soda, or salt—or any other ingredient. Neither is it a question of baking. The best ingredients the markets afford and the most modern ovens alone would never make "CRISPO."

Ask any housewife about her own cooking and baking. Often she loans a neighbor one of her favorite recipes. The neighbor follows directions closely—uses the same ingredients, the same kind of stove, the same care—and yet the result is never the same.

A great artist paints a great picture with the same colors and the same brushes which a dauber uses, and yet how different are the results.

The secret of the "Crispo Taste" is the science of knowing how to mix certain products to secure the best results. Knowing how much flour to use and when to use it; putting in the salt, the soda and the other parts at the proper moment, knowing the secret of "too much and not enough"—these have made "CRISPO" the wonder cracker of all.

Crispo Crackers

Thousands of dollars worth of crackers were spoiled before we were ready to advertise "CRISPO." Hundreds of crackers are destroyed daily which we do not consider good enough to be stamped "CRISPO."

It took years of experimenting, years of wasting, years of trying, to finally perfect "CRISPO CRACKERS." Imagine yourself trying a new recipe hundreds and hundreds of times, each time differently, until you have the proper mixing. And then you good cooks of Chicago can appreciate the secret of the "Crispo Taste."

The best flour that money can buy, the cleanest, purest salt, soda, yeast and other necessary ingredients are used to make "CRISPO CRACKERS." And they are baked in the new twelve-oven sunlit Sawyer Plant. But these would count for little if we had not first perfected the most intelligent baking organization in the world.

The Sawyer Bakers—masters of fine baking—set out to make the finest cracker ever baked, and now that they have succeeded, the whole public is urged to enjoy the results of this interesting experiment. A large, generous package awaits you at the GROCERS—get one soon and test the "Crispo Taste."

SIG. LEONI'S VIEW OF ENGLISH.

The spelling in the illuminating and engrossing of a book de luxe will fit almost anyone's conception of nothing to cause vexation. When illuminating was a monkly art, the good brothers made their spelling to suit themselves, rightly holding that orthography was negligible. To demand precision would be like asking for the accuracy of an accountant in the mind of a poet.

Sig. Nestore Leoni, who illuminated the pages of a work, the value of which now is a court issue between the University Press of Cambridge and Mrs. Mary J. Hoxie, will never understand how valid objection could be raised against "abolisches," "miantain," "Chattanoog," etc. It is not Sig. Leoni's fault that the English language is as it is. Somewhere he has read that Theodore Roosevelt and Andrew Carnegie are dissatisfied with it. No doubt he thinks that these two powerful men are changing it and that until they get it fixed up you do as you please. It is like a street which is being repaved. You get across it the best you can. At present Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Carnegie have the language all dug up and are throwing away useless and worn out letters and syllables. In its present condition it may look to Leoni very much like Monroe street between State and Dearborn.

Evidently we are an odd people. We permit Mr. Roosevelt to spell it "rime," but we drag Leoni into court if he spells it "abolisches."

GRAFT.

"What about cars which arrived at the plant with materials, not 'bad order' cars—did you repair them without instructions and even though they did not need repairs?" asked Mr. Biggs.

"Certainly," was the chuckling reply; "we made it a point to repair every Illinois Central car that came into the place. We'd tighten a bolt or something like that, and after the bills had been padded have the inspectors O. K. them and get the money."

"To what percentage were the bills padded?" asked the attorney.

"Well, I never figured it," replied Sims, "but I should say about 40 per cent."—From the testimony in the Illinois Central car fraud hearing.

A sense of humor so irrepressible as this witness displays must be securely fortified by immunity from the punishment deserved. The suit in which it was brought out is for a civil recovery, but if a dishonor so gross is to go unwhipt of justice the effect upon public opinion and private business morals cannot fail to be bad. The revelations of carelessness and worse in the operation and administration of this great corporation, it is to be hoped, will have some result more wide reaching than a temporary shock to the conscience, the restoration of some dirty dollars, and the reformation of administrative machinery.

One need not be a pessimist to view with profound anxiety the proofs lately given not merely of political but of business corruption. The type of grafter revealed in the car frauds reappears in our legislatures, callous, conscienceless, greedy, remorseless. It robs the hand that feeds it and laughs at the joke. The jackpot, the padded pay roll, the fraudulent contract, the trust betrayed in private and public life, it all makes a chain of villainy which must be broken if any honorable and enduring welfare is to be known in America.

CURRENCY ASSOCIATIONS.

The attitude of some bankers toward Secretary McVeagh's suggestion as to the formation of currency associations is very like that of the darky who would not mend the leaky roof of his cabin while it was raining, because he didn't want to get wet, and when it stopped raining declared there was no need of mending it.

A RESERVE FUND EXTRAORDINARY

It is an interesting bond issue that has been made by the new street railway which is to serve Harvey, West Hammond, and other suburbs to the south. The issue is $5,000,000, of which $400,000 will be used for construction and equipment, and the remaining $4,000,000, it is announced, "will be held in reserve for construction and other purposes."

As a reserve fund a sum more than eleven times the amount set aside for initial construction and equipment would seem to be adequate to meet any "other purpose."

A NEGATIVE VIRTUE.

The Republican national platform of 1908 contained the following statement of principle:

In all tariff legislation the true principle of protection is best maintained by the imposition of such duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit to American industries.

The Ohio "model" platform, which is said to have had the supervision and approval of the president, and may be assumed to represent a statement of Republican "regularity" in Ohio and elsewhere, contains the following reference to the fulfillment of the party pledge by the Payne-Aldrich law:

The tariff has been revised in accordance with the Republican doctrine of protecting home industries and American labor. It did not raise the duty on a single common food product. The increases made were on luxuries and articles not of ordinary use. It affords no more than adequate protection to the industries, consumers, laborers, and producers.

Congressman Longworth's keynote speech in reference to the Payne-Aldrich law was in this vein, as, for example, this:

During the course of a speech I made not long ago in the house I challenged anybody on the other side of the aisle to name one single article of food or drink or of wearing apparel used in his daily life by the man of moderate means the duty upon which had been increased by the Payne law.

In response to this challenge Mr. Longworth declares there was an embarrassed silence, broken finally by a Democratic member calling out: "Lemons." And this word Mr. Longworth ironically tendered the Democrats as a battle cry. The offer is a dangerous one. Certainly the Republican party of Ohio and throughout the country needs some better recommendation to the people than the argument that the Payne-Aldrich act has not increased the schedules on necessaries. It was not to increase the Dingley rates that revision was unequivocally pledged in the national platform of 1908.

The "model platform" will seem to a good many Republicans east and west a model to be highly approved—by the Democrats.

USEFUL CALLING CARDS.

Al. H. Jewett of White Salmon, Wash., is reported in New York with his new calling cards. The Hotel Astor was given the first sight of them and has paused for thought. Mr. Jewett has used the otherwise waste space on the reverse side of his pasteboards to set forth important and interesting information regarding himself and family. When he sends in his card he does not merely present a name which alone could be expected neither to distinguish nor identify, but he reveals himself and all the Jewetts.

With a moment's glance at the formal offering the person about to receive his call knows Mr. Jewett. He has progressed almost to the stage of acquaintance before presenting himself. There is so much of common sense in this that we easily could wish the idea increased usefulness. Consider briefly the advantages and observe an illustration:

MR. JACK POTT SMITH,
Anyplace, Ill.

On the reverse:

Brother of Fetcher Smith and Bathroom Smith.
Elected to the legislature in 1904.
Served in the Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, and Forty-sixth assemblies.
Indicted April, 1910.
"Vindicated" Sept. 15, 1910.
Re-elected November, 1910.

Such a card sent into the office of an Illinois corporation any time next winter would save much time and be a means of avoiding many misunderstandings.

VAUDEVILLE ENTERPRISE.

Vaudeville managements are adventurous and sometimes imaginative. They put Elbert Hubbard on for a week and the stage doorkeeper said that he got away with it. Some one trained James Corbett into an amusing monologist. Jack Johnson, who is wasting his time with bag punching, will get around to concert work on the bull fiddle and be the hit of the season. Last Sunday night, not being allowed to punch the bag, he sang a song at the theater where he is performing in New York. Mrs. Pat Campbell was almost as successful as Mr. Hubbard in departing with it. The novelties are profitable. Hence we observe without surprise that Laura Jean Libbey will try it with two poems and a "love monologue." If a question were permitted one would merely ask what has been keeping her so long.

The enterprise of the vaudeville promoters is even more attractive in its promise than in its accomplishment. We have no doubt that Mr. Joseph Gurney Cannon's recent appearance on the Chautauqua circuit has started an idea in the nimble brain of the manager.

NOT WITH THIS BAIT.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 27.—The government census enumerator is authority for the statement that the birth rate of Oyster Bay is only 5 or 6 per cent more than the death rate. Near by localities make twice as good a showing. No reason can be assigned by the township officials for a falling off in births in Oyster Bay.

The paragraphers have been nosing this but they refuse to bite. Put some new feathers on it and make a skillful cast and you might catch a small one. But by merely dropping it into the pond of publicity as it has been for three days with awkward splashings, you'll get nothing.

It is to be regretted that the Hon. Edward D. Shurtleff and the Hon. Roger C. Sullivan did not prove as vigilant sentries on the battlements of legislative honor when wicked men were around trying to buy votes for the Hon. William Lorimer as when the Hon. Albert J. Hopkins would have been the beneficiary. But it is recorded there was a time when even Jove nodded.

Army experts are now claiming cavalry is a useless arm of the service. But what would the recent military tournament on the lake front have amounted to had the horses and their riders been missing?

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

[Copyright: 1910: By the Brentwood Company.]

KING GEORGE is so enthusiastic a stamp collector, owning, indeed, the finest collection in the British empire, if not in the world—stamp collecting having been his hobby from boyhood—that the news he is personally interesting himself about the new postage stamps to be issued with his effigy and insisting on numerous designs being submitted to him will excite no surprise.

Indeed, being an expert in the matter, stamps of an exceedingly artistic and altogether novel design and color may be looked for. There is only one thing about them that is certain: namely—that the profile will face in a contrary direction to that of his father on the stamps issued during the latter's reign. This is in accordance with custom, the direction of the profile alternating with each sovereign.

George, on his accession, intimated to the Royal Philatelic society, of which he has been the active president for a number of years, that while he could not continue in that office, he would consent to figure as the patron of the organization, and urged that his friend, the Earl of Crawford, should be elected to the presidency in his stead. This has just been done and the earl has taken up his duties in connection therewith.

He is quite as enthusiastic about stamps as his king, and his collection is the only one in the United Kingdom that approaches in importance and value that of the king.

Lord Crawford is no stranger to this country, which he has frequently visited on board his big yacht, Walhalla. His ruddy, not to say carroty, locks, beard, and mustache have now been softened by the presence of many silver hairs. But he still retains his multitude of freckles and invariably wears blue spectacles perched on a very aquiline nose, and is always dressed in a dark blue sack suit, with his left hand forever in his pocket.

He probably is the most learned member of the house of lords, and in addition to the Scotch Order of the Thistle, the French Legion of Honor, and other distinctions of the same kind has about twenty-two letters after his name, all of which are the initials of famous English and foreign scientific bodies to which he belongs.

He is more particularly known as a former president of the Royal Astronomical society, and some years ago presented all the superb astronomical instruments which were a feature of his place at Dunecht and which earned for its observatory a name throughout Europe and America, to the new Royal Scotch observatory near Edinburgh, with which he has endowed his native kingdom. His splendid astronomical library, second only to that of the imperial observatory at St. Petersburg, has likewise been given by him to the Scotch nation.

Nor does this gift of an observatory, with all its equipment and library, constitute the only example of the liberality of Lord Crawford towards his fellow citizens. At the great Natural History museum at South Kensington, in London, he is represented by all sorts of interesting collections, some of which he secured during his long cruise on board his steam yacht Walhalla, which was undertaken for the purpose of visiting the most remote islands of the Pacific and Indian oceans, places which lay outside the beaten track of ordinary steamships and sailing vessels.

Lord Crawford took with him on that occasion several naturalists and scientific companions, and his cruise, extending over two years, was from a scientific point of view the most remarkable of its kind since the famous cruise of the warship Challenger.

By many Lord Crawford, who is the twenty-sixth earl of his line and chief of the great clan of Lindsay, is regarded as the most blue-blooded peer of Scotland. It is claimed that the Lindsays are of Scandinavian rather than of Gaelic origin, and that they are descended from the same stock as the dukes of Normandy, who after the battle of Hastings became kings of England.

They were for a long time the feudal lords of the now glorified ducal Hamiltons, and frequently intermarried with the royal houses of Stuart and of Bruce, while among the foreign sovereign families that include lords of Lindsay among their ancestors is the royal dynasty of Bourbon and the imperial line of Hapsburg.

So lofty was the grandeur of the Lindsays in the fifteenth century that when the chief of the clan, the fifth Earl of Crawford, lord high admiral and lord justiciary of Scotland, was created Duke of Montrose by King James he refrained from assuming the title, considering that he would be lowering his dignity thereby. His example in this respect was followed by his successors, and it is owing to this that 200 years later the crown felt itself at liberty to bestow the dukedom of Montrose on the head of the house of Graham, which still retains it.

Lord Crawford has many associations with America, and the clan of Lindsay is extensively represented in the United States, while Donald Lindsay, one of his younger sons, is married to Miss Martha Cameron, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Donald Cameron of Washington.

Nearly a score of Lindsays took part in the American war of independence, and two at least who fell in that struggle lie buried in New Jersey, where tombstones mark their birth and lineage. A Lord Crawford also figured in that conflict, and on returning to England at the conclusion of the war of independence and being introduced at court by George III. to Benedict Arnold, apostrophized the latter as a traitor, declined to shake hands with him, and then, at the duel which ensued, allowed Arnold to fire, but refused to discharge his own pistol, declaring that he would not honor Arnold to such an extent and that he left him "to the hangman."

Of course, there is no great Scotch house the annals of which are not stained with blood, and that of Lindsay is no exception to the rule. For George, sixth Earl of Crawford, helped his sister-in-law to murder her husband, who was his only brother; while the eldest son of the eighth earl, who is known in history as "the wicked master of Lindsay," killed his father and was in consequence thereof, in accordance with the ancient law of Scotland, debarred from the succession to the family estates and dignities.

These passed to a distant cousin, the ninth earl, a chivalrous gentleman in every sense of the word, who, with the consent of the crown, willed the earldom of Crawford and the estates to the "wicked master's" only son, whom he brought up and educated, and who succeeded him as tenth earl, his own son receiving from the sovereign as a reward for this piece of rare generosity a peerage with the title of Lord Edzell.

To what extent the Military league, which for eighteen months terrorized Greece, is dead and discredited may be seen by the fact that although the former president, Gen. Zorbas, remains in office as minister of war, yet King George, when he returned to Athens the other day and was met by the members of the cabinet and the principal authorities of the nation at the railroad station, pointedly refused to shake hands with the general.

Moreover it has come to light that the general, prior to the return of the king, had taken upon himself to recommend that the sovereign should reënter his capital quietly, with no public reception, a suggestion which was rejected through the king's former secretary with a remark to the effect that it was an affair which did not concern Gen. Zorbas in any way and to mind his own business.

The king, on the contrary, had a state reception and was welcomed with altogether unusual enthusiasm by the public. On the night of his arrival the king gave a state dinner to which Zorbas was not invited, and when on the following day he offered his resignation to the king the latter declined to accept it, saying that he had promised the defunct Military league to keep the general in office until the meeting of the national assembly in the fall, and that he intended to keep his promise.

Some days later an attempt was made, with or without the knowledge of Zorbas, to reconstitute the league, but the officers approached with one accord declined to give their names to the project or to countenance it in any way. In fact, the Military league is dead and gone, thoroughly discredited, and with its power broken. Otherwise King George would not have treated Gen. Zorbas with such public contumely, nor would the people have given such undisguised signs of satisfaction at the snub inflicted on the former dictator.

The Smiling Lay.

I've ground out full many a dolorous lay—
Too much of that sort is enough;
At any rate, uncle, it sure doesn't pay,
And it's me for the "Smiley Gladd" stuff.

This thing of the chorus-girl smile is the play,
And the cheerful-maniacal "guff"
Is paid for at so much a line, so they say,
Though, uncle, believe me, "old stuff."

They print it and frame it and hang it aloft,
And grown-ups dig down in their jeans
And bring up the shekels to pay for it. Soft?
Say, uncle, YOU know what soft means.

So I'm bound to work over the silver-lined cloud
And rain a few more daffodils,
Because it is popular now with the crowd
And because I need money for pills.
Yes, uncle, I'm bilious—for pills.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

DRINKING FOUNTAINS IN LOOP.

Chicago, July 27.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The stranger in our city, when he arrives in the loop on a hot day, naturally will look for some place to quench his thirst, but, strange to say, he must patronize the soda fountains or the saloons. The same is true of our own citizens who come to this great business maelstrom from the outlying wards. What is done for their comfort by our officials? "Why," we say to each other, "we have splendid fire and police protection." But we need more than these ourselves and must furnish more to our visitors. Then, and then only, will our city's name be great.

Only think, millions of gallons of water the eye can see, yet we cannot secure a drink without pay! Wake up, Chicago; you are asleep on duty. Do these thing. Any of our city fathers who dares to father such ordinances will naturally incur the displeasure of the trespassers and some others, but then think of the benefits derived by the masses of people and the money saved to the poor man's family by removing one of the causes of intemperance. JOHN E. RAMSEY.

TO OPEN UP LA SALLE STREET.

Chicago, July 27.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In your column "Voice of the People" is a letter from Alfred Beirly, who wants La Salle street opened. He is right, and since Mr. Beirly has called the attention of the public to the matter there should be many dissenting voices heard about the erection of the proposed board of trade structure at the foot of La Salle street. A permit to erect the same at the given location should not be given. E. LINCOLN WALKER.

MR. ROSS FOR MINE BUREAU.

Peoria, Ill., July 27.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Your editorial in yesterday's issue, "The Head of the New Mining Bureau," is timely, in view of the influence THE TRIBUNE has exerted in favor of the enactment of such a law. It is most important that the director of such an institution should faithfully and fully reflect the spirit responsible for its creation.

You refer to two of the applicants for the place, Mr. Holmes and Mr. Parker, whose candidacies are more or less identified with some phase of the Ballinger issue. Among the applicants whose names are being considered by the president for this appointment is that of Hon. David Ross of our state, who is not connected with either of the factions represented in the Ballinger controversy.

Mr. Ross meets all the requirements you suggest. He is not a radical theorist, he is competent, while his experience as secretary of the bureau of labor, in which position he has practically had charge of the mine inspection service for the last twelve years, admirably fits him for the work devolving on the director of the federal bureau of mines. CHARLES TINLIN.

WHEN THE AIR IS CURDLED.

Chicago, July 28.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The writer Monday evening went in quest of life giving ozone. The oppressive heat of the day had worn his nerves to a frazzle, and he reasoned that a long trolley ride might serve as a rejuvenating elixir.

His route lay through the verdant uplands that stretch between South Englewood and Morgan Park, including a detour along the umbrageous Desplaines. The return trip was made through Sixty-third street and Ashland and Archer avenues, thence via other lines to his humble domicile, near the lake. All went well until the odor zone of the stockyards was entered, near Ashland avenue and Fifty-first street. The exhalations from the rendering plants and glue laboratories, borne on the freshening east wind, seemed to curdle the air. As the car rolled northward the passengers gave signs of distress. Young girls buried their faces in their handkerchiefs. Even the hardened laborers, accustomed to the ordeal, turned their faces to leeward.

The density of the odor increased as we bowled along, and at Bubbly Creek rapids (where the current attains a speed of seven feet a day) the combined smells seemed to focus in a crescendo of coagulated putridity. Soon, however, our course took us to the eastward of the zone, and sighs of relief were emitted on all sides. Subsequently a plunge in the lake restored the trolley tripper to his normal frame of mind and physical tone. If the odor zone continues to spread and take on tangibility the street car company should bore tunnels through it, or at least equip their cars with oxygenizing apparatus for the comfort of those who prefer to breathe ordinary air. The painting of the loop structure is urged by citizens who would have Chicago put in presentable shape for the August rush of visitors. That odor zone should receive some attention. Certainly it should be kept within bounds during Knights Templar week. C. DUDLEY AYRES.

DO YOU OWN A DOG?

Chicago, July 28.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In an article appearing in today's TRIBUNE, Mr. Sam C. Freeman in his defense of the dog begins by asking why it is that every time a person is bitten by a dog the cry of "mad dog" is set up, thus admitting that people are bitten by dogs. However, I will give him credit for not claiming in his next breath, as most dog owners do, that the people who are bitten are to blame and not the dog who bites them.

It is a fact that hundreds of people are bitten by dogs; all suffer and some die. The anguish of a parent who has a child torn and mangled by a dog and the suffering of the child is certainly just as great if the suffering and death are caused from blood poison or a nervous shock as it would be from hydrophobia.

He closes his article by saying he has kept dogs of many different breeds for forty years. It would be interesting, I think, to hear from all the people who during these forty years have been bitten by his dogs or who suffered from fear of being bitten by them, or who have been annoyed in different ways by them. Now, if a dog gave any one any real value in return for the damage and suffering it caused, there would be some reason for keeping it in a community of enlightened people. But he does not. I think it would be a wise thing to enact a law compelling every owner of a dog to give at least $1,000 bond as a protection to people who are liable to be injured by his dog. "OBSERVER."

BLOT ON THE 'SCUTCHEON OF RAVINIA PARK.

Ravinia, Ill., July 28.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The pride of the north shore is Ravinia Park, "a place of amusement for people of culture and refinement," but if, during the intermissions of those soul stirring concerts, one follows the flower bordered path that leads to the charming little theater one may find within an exhibition of moving pictures which for vulgarity and coarseness can only be matched by those offered at so-called low class resorts. Not all of the pictures are of this class, and the fact that many of them are both amusing and instructive makes one wonder all the more that an audience largely made up of children should be treated to portrayals of the immoral escapades of rebellious husbands. Why, in the name of decency, does the management of Ravinia Park offer such exhibitions to their "refined and cultivated audiences," and why do the people of the north shore, so zealous for high art in music, allow this high art to go hand in hand with so much that is low and revolting? G. G. W.

IN ANSWER TO F. B. M.

Chicago, July 28.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I would like to say in reply to F. B. M.'s letter, dated July 20, that before he writes letters criticising woman suffrage and suffragettes he ought to know something about the subject.

If I could find one real argument against suffrage in his letter I would like to answer it, but there is none. He says: "It is plain good women cannot afford to have dealings with suffragettism." That sentence alone proves conclusively that F. B. M. either thinks like a pinhead or has heard some one who he thinks can think say that, and he believed it. However, that statement (it is not an argument) has nothing to do with giving the ballot to women. The substance of the whole question is that it is right that women should take part in governmental affairs as well as men, for they are subject to and must obey all man made laws, and as no man is good enough to govern another without his consent, neither is any man good enough to govern a woman without her consent. CHARLOTTE C. RHODUS.

ALL PLANS COMPLETED FOR TEMPLAR CONCLAVE.

The twenty-two committees which have been appointed by the Grand Commandery of Illinois to perfect arrangements for the approaching encampment of the thirty-first triennial conclave of the Knights Templar of the United States have completed plans for what is expected to be the most brilliant reception ever given a Masonic body in this country.

The last committee to finish the details of the duty assigned to it was the parade committee, which met with Chief of Police Steward yesterday. An agreement was made regarding the number of police necessary to handle the million persons who it is believed will witness the parade of the 50,000 plumed and uniformed Knights Templar.

Chief Steward said he had great confidence in the residents of Chicago in being orderly on an occasion of the kind, but that an adequate detail of policemen will be stationed along the line of march.

Grand Marshal Purinton stated there will be four miles of rope stretched from Park row on Michigan boulevard along both sides of the thoroughfares through which the parade will pass.

"This precaution," said he, "is being taken to preclude any encroachment upon the marching knights which the police could not otherwise prevent."

Apollo commandery of this city, which is the oldest Knights Templar organization west of Cincinnati, will take precedence of all other Chicago commanderies in Illinois. Its asylum at 78 Monroe street will be the downtown headquarters of all visiting knights who do not have accommodations in the loop district during the encampment.

It will also act as the personal escort of the grand commander of Illinois, John Durham Cleveland, in the reception of the grand commanderies upon their arrival at the various railroad stations. The first of these receptions will take place on Aug. 6, the opening, when Grand Commander Cleveland will receive and escort to his headquarters in the La Salle hotel the right eminent deputy grand commander and acting right eminent grand commander, William D. Melish.

On the opening day of the encampment Apollo commandery will have the right of the line in the march of the Cook county commanderies to the official religious services of the grand encampment at Orchestra hall. And on the day of the grand parade Apollo commandery will have the right of the line at the head of the Illinois commanderies.

Especial care is being taken for the health of the marching hosts and visitors who will view the parade. Dr. W. A. Evans, who is the surgeon general of the grand encampment, will establish an emergency hospital at the south end of Grant park which will be in charge of a staff of assistants and nurses, and ambulances will be stationed along the line of march, to be accessible for any who may be overcome by the heat or otherwise disabled.

A rivalry has already developed as to what city will have the honor of entertaining the thirty-second triennial conclave in 1913. A delegation from New Orleans will open headquarters in the loop district within the next few days and begin an active campaign in behalf of that city.

IN THE RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Desplaines Camp Meeting.

Lyman Abbott, editor of The Outlook, was censured by the Rev. H. C. Morrison yesterday afternoon in a sermon preached at the Desplaines camp meeting.

"I am not afraid of the blatant infidelity of the Tom Paine or Voltaire or Robert Ingersoll type, but I am afraid of the infidelity that masquerades in clerical clothes and in the sanctuary," said the speaker. "I believe that, infidel, Lyman Abbott, has done more evil than any other of his class in America.

"The reason why the working men are rejecting the bible and are no longer in fear of its warnings against sin is because men like Lyman Abbott have so instilled doubt into the public mind as to the reliability of the bible as the word of God that the average person has lost faith in its commanding authority."

Dr. Morrison made a prophecy of a possible uprising of the workingmen.

"If another period of financial depression should come upon us," he said, "and the 6,000,000 toilers should get hungry they will vent their vengeance first upon the men who have destroyed their faith in God and in the bible."

The utterances of Dr. Morrison in his arraignment of Editor Abbott met with some opposition by some of the ministers, but they did not want to be personally quoted for fear, as they said, of introducing a discordant note into the camp meeting.

D. W. Potter, president of the camp ground association, who preached in the evening, said: "I believe every word that Dr. Morrison said in his attack."

Other speakers of the day were E. F. Miller, for many years leader of the singing at the camp meeting, and the Rev. W. J. Hyde, pastor of the Wheadon Methodist church, Evanston, who made a plea in behalf of the Bible.

The Rev. W. O. Shepard, district superintendent of the Chicago northern district, will preach a sermon at 10:30 today.

The Rev. M. E. Cady, former district superintendent of the Chicago northern district, will preach at 2 o'clock.

Amanda Smith, colored evangelist, will lead the Bible reading at 8:30 a. m.

District Supt. Holt will preach tomorrow morning.

PRICE OF AN OLD BIBERON.

Ten thousand guineas ($50,000) were given by C. Wertheimer, at the sale of the late Baron Schroeder's collection at Christie's a few days ago, for a sixteenth century biberon of carved rock crystal mounted with enameled gold. It is made in imitation of some fabled monster which its designer may have imagined to be a sea serpent, but the body of which, lost in a series of flutings, resembles more closely that of a water fowl. The crystal neck and body is mounted with enameled gold, and is poised like a wineglass on a crystal stem, also mounted beautifully in gold and enamel. The lid of the biberon is surmounted by a statuette in enamel of Neptune sitting astride a Triton, and in this, as in every other portion of the decoration, the work is of unsurpassable delicacy. It is thought to have come from the hands of Daniel Mignot of Augsburg, who made it for the Emperor Rudolph II.—London Graphic.

OLD PREACHING CROSS RESTORED.

The preaching cross in the village of Burrington, situate amid romantic surroundings on the northern side of Mendip hills, has, by the generosity of Col. Evan H. Llewellyn, been restored. It is recorded that early in 1805 the handsome fifteenth century base of the cross—all that then remained of it—was removed and utilized in building a new house for the then parish clerk. Happily, the ornamental dial stone did not share the same fate, and this has been incorporated into its original position in the new cross. Three broad and massive steps carry the old socket, upon which rests a tall monolith shaft, which is crowned by one of those lantern shaped canopies so peculiar to the west country.—London Standard.

HOSPICE OF LITTLE ST. BERNARD.

The Abbé Chanoux, who for fifty years ruled the hospice of Little St. Bernard, died in February last at the age of 82 years, and now the monks are about to inaugurate his monument. The cost has been defrayed by various municipalities in the Savoy. Many English travelers will doubtless remember the old priest, whose popularity was not even exceeded by his piety. He was always at the service of travelers, day or night, who had lost themselves in the mountain. His desire has been carried out that he might be buried at a spot which commands a view of France, Italy, Mont Blanc, and the hospice and garden.—London Globe.

FISH AND SEAGULLS.

Seagulls have increased in numbers so enormously in Devonshire, and have caused so much damage to fish, that the Devon Sea Fisheries company has passed a resolution in favor of the removal of protection from the birds and their eggs. It was estimated that one gull ate ten fish in twenty-four hours.—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE TRIBUNE ice is now being distributed to babies at the rate of 4,000 pounds a day. The most dangerous period of the year is nearly at hand and nurses and social settlement workers charged with distribution of the life saving ice are exerting every effort to put the ice where it will do most good.

With the relentless advance of summer heat the battle for babies' lives grows steadily more desperate. Dr. Caroline Hedger, chief of baby welfare department of United Charities, announced yesterday that lines of medical workers had been drawn into the district composed of river wards, the stockyards, and South Chicago.

"Here," said Dr. Hedger, "we have the worst conditions to encounter, and here we live during the summer suffering the daily menace of an outbreak of summer complaint. Heat, dirt, overcrowding, bad feeding, and ignorance forbid us from relaxing our efforts."

There are more sick babies now than at this time last year, and, unless imminent danger of disease can be averted the mortality will rise far above last year's figures, according to Dr. Hedger.

"About the middle of August is when babies begin to die in a bad year. Weakened by sickness in early summer they have no strength to pull through the August heat.

"The frightful heat, filth, and congestion of poor quarters is something people living in comfortable neighborhoods cannot imagine. A year in which we escape an epidemic of disease should be accounted a miracle."

The swimming pool in daytime and hay rides in evenings are staples of life at The Tribune summer hospital and the camp at Algonquin.

The hay ride yesterday was given in honor of Hazel's 12th birthday. Her father is dead and her mother has tuberculosis. Hazel asked for a new hair ribbon for a birthday present. Her wish was granted her and in her honor Supt. Collar ordered out the hay racks to take seventy-five youngsters to Perry, Ill., for a picnic.

A huge doll house has been added to the equipment of the nursery in The Tribune hospital. It contains five rooms and is large enough to contain all the dolls, toy animals, and other playthings on the grounds.

LAWS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW

ORDINANCE NO. 1466.

No person shall distribute, cast, throw, or place in, upon, or along any of the streets, alleys, or public places of the city, any handbills, pamphlets, circulars, books, or advertisements for the purpose of advertising or making known in a general way, any business, occupation, profession, medical treatment, medicine, or anything whatsoever, under a penalty of not less than $5 nor more than $15 for each offense.

A city ordinance against the distribution of handbills is the latest to be called to the attention by the special committee of the reform division of the Chicago Woman's club, which is taking up the matter. The committee is working with a slogan "Ignorance of the Law Excuses No One," and is fighting for a cleaner and a better Chicago.

MORE FREE BAND CONCERTS PLANNED.

Chicago's "lagging" musical education has found a sympathizer in William Weil, the St. Louis band conductor. With 50 members already pledged, the Chicago Band association soon will supply the city with free concerts, and on requisition from commercial bodies entertaining in the city the band will play complimentary concerts for visitors.

Weil is negotiating for permission to make his bow on Aug. 11 in Grant park. The association was incorporated at Springfield.

A meeting today for election of officers will be held in the board of trade building. Directors are Philip W. Seipp, James C. Murray, William H. Lake, David H. Harris, Allan M. Clement, Samuel P. Arnot, and Fred A. Paddeford.

WHERE TOBACCO IS LACKING.

"How would you enjoy a pipeful of wood shavings saturated with a strong solution of pepper as an after dinner smoke?" asked William F. Quinn of Portland, Ore.

"Strange as it may seem as a substitute for tobacco, it is nevertheless used as such by Indians along the Alaskan coast. Their mouths are often made raw by the practice, and the eyesight of many is affected by the strong fumes. It is no uncommon practice among farmers to smoke the leaves of the tomato and potato plants. While both these plants contain a narcotic poison, the smoking of leaves in moderation is harmless. Excessive use, though, produces a heavy stupor, from which the smoker awakes with a terrific headache and a feeling of utter exhaustion. Insanity and suicide have often been caused by the immoderate use of these two weeds.

"Rhubarb, beet, and even garden sage leaves are all smoked by farmers, but are perhaps the least harmful of substitutes for tobacco."—Washington Herald.

'GIRL IN BLUE' AID IN BROWNE TRIAL

Nemesis of Legislator Confers with Wayman on Eve of Second Hearing.

SHE WAS HIS CONFIDANTE

Summonses Are Issued for 100 Men to Appear as Veniremen Next Monday.

State's Attorney Wayman has found a new source of information in his prosecution of Legislator Lee O'Neil Browne, the minority leader, who for the second time will go to trial next Monday on the charge of bribing Representative Charles A. White to vote for Lorimer for senator. Brown's Nemesis, the "girl in blue," who gave him so much trouble when he was fighting for the Democratic leadership in the house in 1909, is the discovered aid, and it was declared yesterday that she had given Mr. Wayman much valuable information for the prosecution of the Ottawa legislator.

The presence of the woman, who was known in Springfield under the names of Florence Miller and Ellen Christie, was disclosed in Chicago when she was recognized on the street in the afternoon. She refused to tell what she was doing in Chicago, but did not deny she had held a long conference with the prosecutor and that she had told some things about Lee O'Neil Browne and legislative matters in Springfield.

Beyond the statement that she was staying at a downtown hotel and that she had recently arrived from Philadelphia, the woman refused to talk of herself or her mission in Chicago.

In Chicago to Aid Wayman.

It was discovered from other sources that the woman had come to Chicago for the express purpose of aiding Mr. Wayman in the minority leader's prosecution. It is said that for a long time previous to the trouble between herself and Browne in the winter of 1908-1909 the Ottawa lawmaker had made somewhat of a confidante of the "girl in blue" and had imparted to her certain mysteries as to the procedure in pushing "pet" bills through the legislature, and had told her the inside of several political deals.

All of this information, it is asserted, the woman has given to the state's attorney, and much of it is said to be highly valuable in connection with Browne's prosecution.

The woman refused to say whether or not she would appear as a witness in the case and would say nothing as to the duration of her stay in the city.

"Suicide" Episode Her "Debut."

The "girl in blue" first appeared in the public eye in connection with Browne when she went to Ottawa, supposedly from Chicago, some ten days before the election in the fall of 1908. After visiting his law office she went out and bought a bottle of chloroform and a few minutes later took some of it in the hallway near his office.

After the "suicide" episode she remained in obscurity until the afternoon of Thursday, Feb. 4, 1909, when she appeared in the house in Springfield. She demanded permission to go to Browne on the floor of the house, declaring she intended to kill him. The woman was seized by house policemen and rushed, screaming, down the elevators, then was dragged off the statehouse grounds.

Late the same night the woman and Michael Giblin, Browne's secretary, were arrested in a house in the vicinity of the St. Nicholas hotel, where Browne lived. They were released on cash bonds and neither appeared in court to answer to a disorderly charge.

Browne Denied He Knew Woman.

Browne said he never had seen the woman except at the time of her visit to his Ottawa office, insisted he did not even know her name, and asserted that the woman's appearance on both occasions was part of a plot of his political enemies to discredit him.

Notices that they had been drawn as veniremen for the Browne trial and must be in court next Wednesday were served yesterday by deputy sheriffs upon 100 prospective jurymen. The second 100 of the special panel, who are to respond next Friday, will be summoned today or tomorrow.

EARLY TRIAL FOR GRAFT CASE.

Springfield, Ill., July 28.—[Special.]—It was announced today that it was possible the graft case growing out of the legislative furniture deal would go to early trial without the formality of an attack on the indictments returned against State Senator Pemberton, Representative Clark, and A. B. Johnson.

Former Car Company Employe Who Reveals New I. C. Car Graft.

H. A. Sims

said that these names will furnish proof of the identity of the "men higher up," who have not yet been accused directly.

Says Ostermann Held Stock for Others.

"At the inception of the plant," said Sims, "there were eight certificates of stock issued for 100 shares each, all of them in Ostermann's name. I filled them out myself."

"Will you state," asked the attorney, "without giving the names, whether you know for whom Ostermann held this stock?"

"Yes, Ostermann told me himself," was the reply. "I had five shares of stock issued to me and five were issued to Ward. There also were five shares given to William Drennan, who was connected with the Ostermann plant at Chicago. The two plants had close relations."

The lumber graft was brought out when the witness identified a secret agreement with the Barksdale-Kellogg Lumber company of Memphis, signed by W. R. Barksdale and C. M. Kellogg for the lumber company, and by Sims, Ostermann, and Ward for the Memphis company, also by J. E. Buker, superintendent of the car department of the Illinois Central, by H. C. Ostermann. The document was dated Oct. 19, 1907.

"We were to purchase lumber from this firm," said Sims, "and they were to carry a separate set of books for all lumber purchased by the Memphis Car company and we were to share equally in all profits. The contract also related to the Ostermann company in Chicago, but I never received any profits from any lumber that may have been purchased for them.

Reveals Graft in Lumber.

"At one time the plant had very little car repairing to do, and the dividend was not in sight. We had a large surplus of lumber on hand that had been purchased from the Barksdale-Kellogg concern, so Ostermann and Buker ordered us to send it to the Illinois Central. We billed it to them at the specific price, more than we had paid for it."

B. R. Sims, who said he was no relation to the former inspector, said he had been employed for about seven months at the plant as head bookkeeper at $100 a month, without perquisites. He said he had noticed some irregularities and had made copies of records of the office for his own protection. His private records showed that Ward had drawn an expense account of $13,044.40 and Ostermann $3,761.09 during the first year of the company's existence. Checks were also drawn for $15,000 dividends and charged to general expenses instead of to the dividend account.

List of Dividend Payments.

The dividend payments other than this were listed as follows:

Oct. 16, 1907	$ 7,650	March 6, 1908	$ 1,000
Nov. 20, 1907	7,200	March 16, 1908	500
Nov. 24, 1907	150	March 21, 1908	1,500
Jan. 10, 1908	8,000	April 27, 1908	9,200
Feb. 7, 1908	150
Feb. 25, 1908	8,000	Total	$43,650

WANT STAND ON NOMINATION PLAN

L. V. L. Leaders Seek to Force Democrats to Act on Two Candidate Proposition.

LORIMER BUSY IN STATE.

Reported to Be Aiding Politicians Who Helped Him Win His Toga Fight.

The Democratic county committee stands an excellent chance to get on actual record over the legislative "one-two-three" proposition. The Seventh senatorial district furnishes the opportunity and the Legislative Voters' league proposes to raise the issue with the Democratic managers, according to a statement which came last night from the league offices.

The Seventh district is the "country towns" district, and its Democratic representative at Springfield is Walter A. Lantz, whom the Legislative Voters' league is endeavoring to defeat.

Lantz has been credited with control of the senatorial committee, which was supposed to be committed to the policy of nominating one candidate. It now develops that one of the committeemen is for the nomination of two candidates, one for the nomination of but one, and the third is in Europe and the committee is in a deadlock.

It is up to the county committee to fill the vacancy caused by the absence of the European traveler, and, according to the L. V. L., a substitute can be named who will be pledged to the nomination of two candidates.

Hear Lorimer Aids Democrats.

The league also has uncovered a peculiar situation in the Joliet senatorial district, where James O. Monroe, himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the house, claims to be chairman of the old 1906 senatorial committee, also asserting that the committee elected in 1908 failed to meet to organize and took no official action until Wednesday night, when it met to fix up things for Tom Riley of Joliet for renomination as the solitary Democrat of the district.

Send to Help Lorimer Men.

From the downstate districts the news reached Chicago that Senator Lorimer and his senatorial perquisites in the way of garden seed and government literature are being used in the interest of Lorimer Democrats who are candidates for renomination. The Ohio Herald, published at Ohio, Bureau county, is in possession of letters from Lorimer addressed to Democrats, which say that he is sending out the government stuff to them at the request of Representative William J. McGuire of Kewanee, a Lorimer Democrat, who has filed his petition for renomination as a Democrat. The letter from Lorimer says that he, Lorimer, is "pleased to be of such service to Mr. McGuire." The report is that the same stunt is being worked by the Lorimer organization in other districts where Democrats went into the Lorimer camp at Springfield in 1909.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 28.—[Special.]—Former Gov. John Lind was nominated by the Democratic state convention this afternoon to head the party's ticket this fall.

Almost on the heels of his nomination came a positive statement by telegraph from the nominee, standing by his former assertion that he would under no circumstances accept the nomination. Mr. Lind is in Everett, Wash., on his way to Alaska, and when asked by telegraph if he would accept replied as follows:

"I cannot understand the reported action of the convention. I have stated repeatedly that I could not and would not accept the nomination.

"I stated in a letter to the chairman of the state central committee some weeks ago that my decision not to reenter politics was final and irrevocable and my attitude remains unchanged. That is all I care to say at this time."

Mr. Lind is planning a trip which will keep him away from Minnesota until Sept. 1.

On the matter of resolutions there was no contention except for a plank on county option. The anti-county optionists were in the saddle in the committee on resolutions. This committee heard the resolutions offered by the county optionists and then voted them down and inserted a plank declaring for the initiative and referendum, which the committee declared would answer the same purpose.

Round about Chicago.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

OLD. JOHN S. DERPA, city father from the Eighth ward, which means South Chicago, was petitioned by his constituency to see that they had a ferry provided for the Calumet river. The ferry was wanted at a point where a large number of new residences have been built and where there is no bridge across the raging Calumet. Ald. Derpa appeared at the last meeting of the council finance committee and spoke briefly as follows: "Gentlemen of the committee, I would like to have a ferry——"

Great confusion immediately broke out in the committee room.

"A point of order," interjected Ald. Zimmer. "There is no objection to the gentleman keeping a little fairy in his home if he so desires, but why expect the same to be furnished by the city of Chicago?"

"I don't want the ferry in my house," excitedly protested Ald. Derpa. "I want a ferry——"

"If there are any fairies with gold wands floating around loose, why send them to South Chicago," put in Ald. Snow. "Let them get busy with the smoke in the downtown districts and apply their magic art to the cleaning of the streets, and alleys west, north, and south."

"Everybody is crazy," shouted Ald. Derpa in great excitement. "I want a ferry——"

"Blonde or brunette," asked an alderman from the rear.

"I want a ferry across the Calumet river," roared Ald. Derpa.

"Let her come on this side of the river, too," said Ald. Sitts; "there's certainly as fine opportunity for a good fairy this side of the Calumet as on the other."

Ald. Derpa was so indignant that he stamped out of the room and then the committee let him have his ferry.

The other night occurred the first party given since the latest styles have reached Chicago from Paris. When those who had always been the belles of the ball arrived the women who had not before been popular at the parties were filled with delight. At last their tiem had come. The former reigning favorites stepped out on the ballroom floor as usual, but they waltzed like mud turtles.

A hobble skirt may be quite the rage, but it's about as easy to dance in one as a sack. The men who danced with the hobble skirt women looked pained. The next dance the hobble skirts had the chairs along the wall. The wallflowers didn't need them. They were all dancing.

Visitors along the lake front are often mystified at the weird looking Argo club, whose clubhouse is like the hull of a ship. It is built at the edge of the dock not far from the Columbia and Chicago Yacht clubs. Both these clubs are built out over the water, as no permit has ever been secured for putting up buildings on the docks.

The natural query is how the Argo club secured permission to build on the land. The answer is that they didn't. But there stands the clubhouse. One of the commodores of the rocking chair fleet of the Chicago Yacht club explained the riddle the other night.

They Waltzed Like Mud Turtles

"I'm Not Asking You Flivvers to Pay For My Beer"

"The Argo club," he said, "was built about World's fair time. The club was originally composed of the younger members of the Chicago club in Michigan avenue. The Chicago club has always been a most dignified and conservative body, and some of the younger members thought it would be well to provide a sort of auxiliary clubhouse where more latitude would be permitted in the matter of entertaining visitors to the fair. So they decided to build a yacht club down on the docks. But they could not get permission and they didn't have time to drive piles into the lake bed to build out over the water, as the Chicago Yacht and the Columbia Yacht clubs did.

"It looked as though the clubhouse was not going to be constructed, when lo, a genius arose. He explained his plan and it was received with cheers. It was an easy proposition after all. The Argo club members got permission to build a boat on the edge of the docks. They built the boat and then forgot to launch it. It has never been launched yet, but it has served as a comfortable and highly unique clubhouse all these years.

"It is extremely probable that the Argo clubhouse never will be launched, as it has doors along the keel and windows pierced in the hull, and if it is ever launched it will sail for a very short cruise in just one direction—straight down."

It was a hot day and the two men who had stepped out of their automobile to enter a café on the west side to get a glass of something that had ice in it were struck by compassion, when in response to a knock at the door the porter brought in a little cracked old pitcher and a nickel and said to the bartender, "That woman wants ur nickel's wuth of beer."

"Look here," said one of the amateur philanthropists, "it's an awful hot day and I'd like to make that poor old woman that belongs to that cracked pitcher happy. Here, fill up the pitcher, barkeep, and I'll pay for it, and send her back her nickel."

"That poor, pathetic little pitcher makes me want to do a good turn, too," said the other philanthropist. "I tell you, the poor have a hard time these days. You bring along the pitcher of beer and the nickel and I'll give the good old soul a quarter."

The two philanthropists started for the door, but they did not have to go far, as the woman who owned the pitcher suddenly appeared.

"Gee, but she was sore," said one of the amateur philanthropists yesterday. "She was about six feet high and had peroxide hair and a diamond as big as a potato in each ear. We didn't have a chance to say a word. She was so mad she screamed.

"'I'm not asking you flivvers to pay for my beer!' she yelled. 'I play the peanner in the nickelodeum next door, and I make more money in a week than you two glass crashes ever honestly earned in all your lives.

"'Don't you dare speak to me, and if you try to hand me that quarter I'll have you arrested for mashing. And if you stay here a minute longer I'll pour this beer——'

"By this time," concluded the amateur philanthropist, "we had reached our automobile. Hastily cranking up and in defiance of all speed laws, we put on full power and managed to escape."

History and Travel.

BY FRANCIS W. SHEPARDSON.

THE astonishing amount of history which can be written in connection with a single community is again indicated by Howard Kendall Sanderson's "LYNN IN THE REVOLUTION" (W. B. Clarke company). This work is in two handsome volumes, aggregating more than 500 pages, printed on special stock, and abundantly illustrated by many pictures and reproductions of historic interest. The suggestion of the undertaking came from the discovery of a manuscript journal of a Lynn patriot, Henry Hallowell, describing his varied experiences as a revolutionary soldier. Originally planning to publish this journal by itself, Mr. Sanderson's idea broadened as he found on studying the document so many references to other persons and things that curiosity was awakened which led to further research.

Death came to interfere with the completion of the project, but so much material was collected that Mrs. Sanderson, with helpful aid, was able to carry it forward as both a suitable memorial of her husband's untiring industry and a most valuable contribution to the local history of a famous old Massachusetts town. For the genealogist, particularly that type whose interest centers about revolutionary ancestry in connection with patriotic hereditary societies, Mr. Sanderson's volume is a rich mine of information. Biographical sketches, muster rolls, graveyard records, and similar helps to the local investigator are so complete that little remains to be supplied of the finished narrative of a town's share in securing American independence.

American interest in the affairs of the far east is responsible for the increasing output of books of history, travel, and description of that part of the world. The individual point of view of the writer gives the special value to a particular volume. If it is possible to secure a number of differing opinions from recognized authorities one's conceptions of conditions are apt to be more clear. In "CHINA AND THE FAR EAST" (Thomas Y. Crowell & Co.), Prof. George H. Blakeslee of Clark university has assembled twenty-two of the forty-five lectures and papers which were read at a conference held in connection with the second decennial celebration of that institution. They relate to China, Japan, and Corea.

They treat of distinct topics. They are by men easily recognized as well informed upon the phases of the general subject discussed by them in this symposium. World politics, international relationship, trade, finance, education, missions, social problems of such character as the opium one, and the military strength of China and Japan are included in the inquiry. If the reader cared only for the American side he would be well repaid by study of papers on the need of an American policy, America's trade relations, the Chinese in Hawaii, and the United States and China. But one who seeks the advantage of a comprehensive survey of the larger world problems will find this volume of 450 pages a convenient and helpful reference book.

It is fifteen years since Dr. Eugene Coleman Savidge's "THE AMERICAN IN PARIS" (Lippincott) was first published, yet it has not grown obsolete with the passage of years nor in the face of the large volume of current fiction, for it possesses what many of the novels of today lack, sincerity, enthusiasm for the ideals indicated on its pages and loyalty to the best traits of American character and citizenship. The title page informs the reader that it is a biographical novel of the Franco-Prussian war, telling of the siege and commune of Paris from an American standpoint. Bismarck, Moltke, William, Napoleon III., Eugénie, Thiers, Favre, Labouche, MacMahon, Bazine, Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Washburne, and Zola are among the historic personages that walk upon its pages, and, we are informed, the words they utter herein are in reality theirs. These things, however, may not interest the reader so much as the story itself, which is concerned with a young Californian who is sent to Paris in the diplomatic service. At first he is ashamed of the crudeness of American civilization in the light of the polish and sophistry of that exhibited in the court life of the second empire, but later, after he has known temptations, trials, and hardships, he learns the value of American sincerity and character and begins to appreciate what democracy really means. As a diplomat he is a failure, just as he does not happily play the rôle of lover; but as a patriot he proves to become a success, for he believes he has found his mission in life—to teach his fellow countrymen what America means.

The novel presents a masterly picture of the French commune and glows with a youthful infectious patriotism, while at the same time it shows deep reading and reflection on the part of the author. Yet there is no pedantry in the style—the student does not outshine the author—although here is observable the same gulf between the fiction of the near past and that of today that strikes one forcibly if he picks up one of the better magazines of the eighties. Evident though the difference is, the comparison is not invidious to the production of the last quarter of a century.

A baby, the petted and much admired scion of a young American couple, is at first the central figure in Mrs. Charles N. Crewdson's "AN AMERICAN BABY ABROAD" (Little, Brown & Co.). The limelight is thrown upon him only at the beginning, however, for later the principal interest centers in a beautiful young girl who is taking the wonderful baby across Europe to place him in the arms of his parents in Egypt. The romance moves along swiftly, for the friendships made en route are cemented through the later course of events, and after a sprightly play of wit and humor, culminates in the union of two young hearts. The book is light, the lightest, indeed, of summer fiction, and though the reader is tempted to say that at times the humor is strained in a high degree, he must nevertheless confess that there is some pleasure, albeit transient, to be derived from a perusal of it.

Albert A. Hopkins, editor of the Scientific American Reference Book, has compiled "THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN HANDBOOK OF TRAVEL," a work of encyclopedic nature running to 500 double pages of matter concerning every possible exigency met by tourists and covering an endless amount of real information. It is not a substitute for, but a complement, to other guide books.

It contains also 350 illustrations and maps, six color plates, a traveler's vocabulary in six languages, and a full cable code. It gives, too, an account of everything which goes on on shipboard from the lookout and captain's bridge to the submarine bell detector on the keel. Landing at twenty ports is described, besides much information concerning size, tonnage, speed, etc., of the various liners. Complete guides to London and Paris are printed and the mysteries of continental time tables made clear. (Scientific American Co., New York.)

Book Note.

It is one event in the recent history of our own land, the Spanish-American war, that Mr. Schroeder Davis has chosen for the nucleus of his story, "THE STORM BIRDS" (Moffat, Yard & Co.). Its prototypes have appeared from time to time in novels where the scene of activity has been placed in some out of the way principality, but to Mr. Davis belongs the credit of having selected Washington as the scene for diplomatic battles and imagined the outward show which hid the deep inwardness of the happenings that led to America's intervening in the fight of Spain and her dependency.

Of course this international quarrel is but the background for the love drama between a young naval captain and a rich American girl. Her beauty and wealth attract many admirers, notably a Spaniard, dark of mien and crafty of purpose, who knows no curb to evident passions and selfish desires, even though sometimes he is well trounced by his American opponent. He meets, in the end, a fate suited to the blackness of his life, while his chivalrous adversary gains the hand and heart of the heiress, a girl whose sincere eyes were not dazzled by the gleam of a jeweled coronet. The book is one of those adventitious productions which have gathered about the history of almost every land but our own. It is a book which will be read nonchalantly and as nonchalantly forgotten.

The Wide, Wide World.

Reasons Why Italians Show So Much Suspicion.

BY GEORGE A. DORSEY, PH. D., LL. D.

ROME (Roma), Italy, May 30.—At Frosinone station, where with real regret I took leave of my lawyer friend and guide, were two men just starting for New York. They denied it. They refused to admit that they had any intention of going to America. Why? This is a question I have asked two leading authorities on emigration in Italy. They cannot tell me.

Two reasons, I think, account for this refusal of peasants to admit they are bound for or returning from America. One is timidity; the other is fear. They are timid because they are not accustomed to talking with strangers or with their own signori. They have been warned that along the way to Ellis island and beyond are pitfalls. Countrymen who have preceded them have been plucked, perhaps even more often than they are aware.

Then, again, they have been warned not to say anything which might be used to prevent their sailing from Naples or landing in New York. They have been coached what to say, what not to say. A stranger hailing them, therefore, is likely, in their mind, to have some ulterior motive. The majority of those who have once made the trip naturally have overcome much of this timidity. Still it is hard to account for their denial, as happened the other day, that they had ever been outside the fatherland.

Such men, presumably, have nothing to conceal. But even with them we must not be too certain. Commissioner Rossi told me that to his personal knowledge many men returned from America with a leather pouch stuffed with gold. Experience both at home and abroad has taught these men to be shy of strangers, and especially one who approaches them with no valid reason they can discover.

Accustomed to Being Worked.

The peasant is accustomed to being worked. All his life he has worked for a padrone. There was nothing particularly new in his experience during his three years abroad. He was passed by his friends to the end of a shovel. He earned his money and saved it to the best of his ability. It is the first real money he has ever seen. His little pouch of gold is a fortune. It is more money than his father made during his lifetime. There is reason for his timidity.

Second is fear, akin to timidity. The contadino knows that a certain percentage of applicants to steerage are refused in Naples, that another though smaller percentage is turned back at Ellis island. Generally he has only a vague idea of the causes of rejection. But somehow he has faith in his ability to get through if he keeps his mouth shut, or only opens it when compelled.

Besides the general fear of rejection, there is the fear of a smaller number which really has something to conceal. Their fertility in inventing excuses is ingenious. I recall seeing in a line of emigrants in Naples a strapping big fellow who loomed above the crowd like a giant. I watched him with considerable interest as he drew nearer our inspector. Costume, face, and manner indicated that he was not new to the line; that he was going back! Much to my amazement, he was rejected. "Why?" I asked Dr. Buonacore. "Trachoma, of course." His crestfallen look as his coveted papers were torn from his hands and stuffed into the fatal box was pathetic.

Rejected Man's Ingenious Story.

I left my stand and followed him. It seems that he was a chauffeur in Chicago for several years. He came home a couple of years ago. His command of English is excellent. "How did you get trachoma," I asked? Without hesitating, he replied, "Well, you see, it is this way. I haven't got trachoma. That man has made a mistake. I live in ——," naming a town a few miles from Naples, "and came down on the mail stage this morning. The driver, snapping his whip, cut me across the eyes." "Did you have your eyes turned back?" "No." "There is no trace of injury on the outside of the lids." "Well, it was with the end of the lash; it wouldn't show on the outside!"

You see, he had thought it all out. He undoubtedly knew he had trachoma, perhaps had been refused before, perhaps only yesterday. They well know that mistakes sometimes occur, that a man suffering from a mild case of trachoma may be rejected five days in succession, and in the hurry and confusion pass on the sixth trial, either through insufficient examination or because his disease is diagnosed as conjunctivitis.

I was still interested in the big chauffeur and appealed to our physcian. He was of the opinion that, because the emigrant had lived seven years in the United States, he might be admitted at Ellis island on the ground of previous residence. And he was told that he would be passed if the steamship company would assume the risk, and it was suggested that he arrange to go second class on another ship. As he left our physician said: "His case is pathologic; he is suffering from acromegalia."

The Italian is not an easy man to assimilate. He has enormous pride of opinion. A northerner may fall in with American ways much more rapidly than the southerner, but the qualities he takes to America are more like those of Americans. The man of the south brings something new, something which we lack, especially sobriety, thrift, and willingness to work.

Assimilation in Argentina.

With Italians in the United States Colajanni is not familiar except as he reads of them. With those in Argentina he has personal acquaintance. Assimilation has taken place in Argentina, but the Spaniard is becoming Italianized. The existence of disturbing elements in our own cities is our fault; our criminal organizations began, says Colajanni, not with Italians, but with Irish. He seemed to know all about Tammany Hall, Tweed ring, etc. The real disturbing element in Chicago originated not with Italians, but with Germans, he says, as is evidenced by the Haymarket outrages.

There may be some truth in this, but I have found no Italian ready to urge that his countrymen in New York and Chicago will improve social conditions. They defend their own people, and that is quite natural and proper. They stoutly maintain that there is good stuff in the Italian, especially in the man of the south, and that it is our fault if we do not make the best of it.

Roma is near the center of Italy and with the Abruzzi, farthest north of oriental Italy. Roma is seventh of Italian departments in area, with a correspondingly large population, but it is one of the last to start its sons to seek their fortunes outside. Of its 1,300,000 inhabitants, only 305 left in 1900 for the United States. They were from the south, along the Campania and Abruzzi frontier, regions long ago inoculated with the emigrating fever. And it was the contagion of example which sent emigration from Roma higher and higher year by year, until in seven years it passed the 15,000 mark in a single twelve months.

Rich and Poor Far Apart.

But it was lack of inoculation that held them back for so long. Mr. Rossi agrees with me that there is no doubt about this. Roma is the home of the latifundia, of rich princes and poor peasants. When an ordinary man does own a piece of ground it is scarcely big enough to hold a coffin. There are still towns in the department from which not a single man has emigrated to the United States. Give them ten years more; so the little streams already formed more will begin to trickle from new sources. The contadini of Roma are yet a long way from economic independence. The streams will grow.

Who are the Roman contadini, the class which has and is to furnish emigrants? We have seen some of their towns. There is not much to be said about them. They are the descendants of the old Latin stock, and, in their little compact hilltop towns, have come little in contact with the outside world since they surrendered their independence to the Mistress of the World. New masters, new hardships; that is about all.

Emigration, says Mr. Rossi, is a fashion. It is the latest style among contadini. The law of imitation here, as in other classes of society, is chiefly limited by the pocket. Nearby towns, beyond the Campagna are only slightly affected. The fashion has become fixed in only one, but it is spreading. In the north end of the province they are only now hearing of this strange fashion, which has taken hold of their fellow men on southern hilltops.

As Ed. Howe Sees Life.

[From the Atchison Globe.]

In the course of time we hope to be able to pick up a magazine that does not contain a picture of Jane Addams.

J. C. Harrison has kept a diary for over fifty years. His entries apply chiefly to the weather.

Ever notice how people let Doc Robinson alone, and how they pick on people who work, and amount to a little something? The more a man amounts to the more people seem to delight in making him trouble.

When one girl sees another with buttons up and down her waist and skirt she longs above all else for a chance to count them.

They say man sprang from the monkey. We would pay more attention to a story that a man sprang from a mule; we never saw a man who didn't in some way remind us of a mule.

When a little boy discovers that he can whistle he reminds us of a young rooster when it first discovers that it can crow a little.

WHAT YOU COULD DO WITH ALL THAT MONEY.

Enough ready cash in paper form to fill a large hayrack will be moved in secret manner and at a mysterious hour tomorrow morning from the Continental National bank at Clark and Monroe streets to the Commercial National, one block south. A wagon load of gold and silver will be taken, the total amount being $25,000,000. In addition $98,000,000 in securities will be transferred.

Woman and Her Interests.

Just Between Us Girls.

BY SISTER MARY.

"HOW could she do it!" one of my young friends whispered to me as we watched a sweet girl walk happily down the church aisle on the arm of her newly wed husband. "How could she tie herself to Bob Bolton? Why, he is known as the man with the grouch!"

There is no surer route to marrying than to marry a man with the grouch habit. Like the drink habit, they may think they can shake it off, but—"I have my doubts."

Now and then a man of sullen disposition is sweetened by matrimony; more often with increased responsibilities and worries the frown comes easier than in courtship days.

If you are engaged, my dear girls, to a man whom you have laughingly called grouchy, stop in the watches of the night, when the fascinations of his presence are wanting, to ask yourself "What does it mean, that kink in my lover's nature?"

When your lover shows the cloven foot while you are yet in a position to "chuck him," if he cannot keep sweet tempered while at the pinnacle of infatuation, what does it argue for days when you have no longer the charm of novelty?

If matrimony were but as sealing to the lips as it seems to be to many a lavish lover's purse strings, there might be some hope of worrying through a comparatively peaceful existence until "death doth you part," but marriage seems to grant special license to men to spurt out their tempers.

A sullen grouch is unpleasant, but it can be worried through; what makes for divided lives is the man who does not hesitate to vent his grouch. And do not fail to remember that the chief victim of that grouching is the wife he has sworn to cherish.

Would you think favorably of taking a room for life that faced upon a black, air stifling wall? That is what you do when you tie yourself to a man with a grouch. You cannot get away from it, try as you will. Do not think you have light enough to counteract; even the sun is shut out by clouds.

And a grouch grows! The fabled beanstalk is a century plant in comparison. The lover with the chip on his shoulder will be an Atlas husband staggering under the disgruntlements with the world.

If you are irritated now because nothing you do seems just right, if lover is generally of lowering brow because of something in which you have failed to meet approval, do not fool yourself that he will change with the years.

Rather he will change—for the worse. So will your attitude. The wild irritation of the fiancée too soon grows into the intolerable burden of the wife.

Sometimes she fumes inwardly with teeth gritting and clinched fists; never is absent the maddening refrain, "Can I put up with this grouchiness another day?" And inevitable is the answer—I must. More often wife takes to words—and the fur flies.

If you have a hankering neither for the rôle of patient buffer nor of impatient other half in a fight, do not consider the man with a grouch as a possible husband.

Importance of Correct Standing Position.

One of the first things to be learned in acquiring a graceful carriage is how to hold the body correctly when standing. Women are prone either to carry their shoulders flung back as if a ramrod had been thrust down their spinal column or else to slouch forward pathetically, head poked forward, stomach protruding, and knees bent and uncertain. The chief thing is to keep the chest out and that unruly member the abdomen in. This done, the shoulders fall naturally into easy, graceful lines. The body should be erect, inclining slightly forward from the hips up, the weight on the balls of the feet, never the heels, the knees held together, the arms hanging naturally at the sides, the chin up, the chest forward, and the abdomen back. Inflate the chest deeply and step in front of a door, letting the toes touch the woodwork. If at the same time the forehead and chest meet the door panel the standing position is correct.

Cooking Canned Fruits.

THE days when a woman needs to make a martyr of herself by standing over the preserving kettle when the thermometer registers at the hottest of summer marks are over. The fireless cooker has come in to do away with this sacrifice. It is canned fruit that can be easiest prepared in this way, but part of the process of preserving may be carried out in the "hay stove."

Another method, advocated by a great teacher of domestic science half a dozen years ago, is as follows. She says: "This method of canning fruit, in the opinion of the writer, is the one to be preferred. The work is easily and quickly done, and the fruit retains its shape, color, and flavor better than when cooked in the preserving kettle.

"Cover the bottom of the oven with a sheet of asbestos, the kind plumbers employ in covering pipes. It is cheap and may be found at plumbers' shops. If the asbestos is not available, put into the oven shallow pans in which there are about two inches of boiling water. Sterilize the jars and utensils. Make the syrup, prepare the fruit the same as for cooking in the preserving kettle. Fill the hot jars with it, and pour in enough sirup to fill the jar solidly. Run the blade of a silver plated knife around the inside of the jar. Place the jars in the oven, either on the asbestos or in the pan of water. The oven should be moderately hot. Cook the fruit ten minutes, remove from the oven, and fill the jar with boiling sirup. Wipe and seal. Place the jars on a board and out of a draft of air. If the screw covers are used tighten them after the glass has cooled.

"Large fruits, such as peaches, pears, quinces, crab apples, etc., will require about a pint of sirup to each quart jar of fruit. The small fruit will require a little over half a pint of sirup. The amount of sugar in each quart of sirup should be regulated to suit the fruit with which it is to be used."

The July number of Good Housekeeping has an article on "Canning and Preserving in the Fireless Cooker," in which it is claimed that this is an unusually good method for canning fruits and vegetables. One may be doing something else while the cooking is going on, and immunity is gained from dread hours spent in a hot kitchen.

The gist of the article is in the following paragraphs: "A special gain is found in canning fruit, where the process is simple, rather than in making richer preserves, which must have a supplementary cooking over the fire to boil them down to the right consistency, although there is a gain with fruits which require a long cooking, such as quinces, pineapple, figs, oranges, and the like. The fireless cooker is adapted also to the preliminary cooking of fruit to be used for jelly, since there is no danger of its burning, and it can become soft without losing the fresh flavor, which boiling will surely alter.

"It is customary to apply boiling temperature for some time, perhaps twenty minutes, in order to sterilize fruits sufficiently to keep well. A much longer and repeated boiling would be necessary to make them completely sterilized, but experience has shown this to be unnecessary in most cases. In fireless cooking a lower temperature than 212 degrees Fahrenheit is used, and the time for cooking must therefore be increased.

"The old way of boiling the fruit to sterilize it often destroys its natural form and alters its flavor. This is the great drawback with ordinary canned products. The delicate bouquet of fruits, that evanescent fragrance and flavor which disappears so rapidly even in uncooked fruits, can, it seems, be best kept, and perhaps only, when the cooking is done at a lower temperature than 212 degrees, and in tightly closed vessels, as is the case in fireless cooking. It is certain that the fresh flavor of the fruit is unusually well preserved when the fireless cooker is used, and this is undoubtedly one of the strongest arguments in favor of it."

OHIO'S SOLDIERS AWE CAR STRIKERS

Heavy Force of Troops Is Camped on the Columbus Courthouse Square.

GOVERNOR ON THE WAY.

Efforts to Resume Service Will Be Made Today Under a Strong Guard.

Columbus, O., July 28.—Although there are 1,651 officers and men of the Ohio national guard encamped in Columbus tonight, no effort is to be made until tomorrow noon to resume service on the lines of the Columbus Railway and Light company, which have been involved in a strike since Sunday.

Gov. Harmon's arrival from his summer home in Michigan is awaited before cars are taken out again. There has been no disorder since the cars were stopped, at 10 o'clock last night, when riots were raging in various parts of the city.

Gen. W. V. McMacken of Toledo is in charge of the militia here, which embraces the Second, Third, and Sixth regiments, Troop A of Cleveland, Battery C of Columbus, and hospital and signal corps companies.

Camped on Statehouse Grounds.

The troop, battery, and hospital companies are encamped on the statehouse grounds. To provide quarters for its horses, Troop A roped off half a square of Broad street, the city's leading residence thoroughfare.

A battalion of the Third regiment, while passing through the city to its camp in Franklin park, was jeered, but aside from this there was no resentment expressed to the coming of troops.

Maintenance of the military organization here costs $4,500 a day. Transportation to and from Columbus will cost $8,000.

Two Rioters Are Killed.

New York, July 28.—Two men were shot and killed, four dangerously wounded, and a score or more seriously injured in a riot of strike sympathizers today at the plant of the American Sugar Refining company in Williamsburg, where a strike has been in progress for a month.

Crowds of sympathizers threw bricks at the strikebreakers from housetops, and when the nonunion men started out with their trucks to deliver sugar a rush was made for the wagons. The police on the trucks returned the fire of the crowd.

The entire neighborhood became involved in the disturbance and the reserves from nine precincts had all they could do to cope with the trouble. It appeared from the accounts of bystanders that the police did not fire into the crowd until forced to do so by the ferocity of the attacks upon them, firing first into the air to intimidate the mob.

The mob was composed for the most part of foreigners, chiefly Poles and Lithuanians. The employés struck for higher wages a month ago.

ALL IS QUIET AT SOUTH BEND; EXPECTED RIOTS DO NOT COME.

Occasional Demonstration Against Members of Nonunion Train Crews Alone Mar Peace of Day.

South Bend, Ind., July 28.—[Special.]—The expected renewal of rioting today because of the weekly wage payment of thousands of factory workers failed to materialize.

The police force has been increased at the Oliver yards, a mile west of the city, but there was no mob for them to handle. City and railroad officials still look for trouble Saturday night and Sunday, and Mayor Goetz has been advised to close the saloons early Saturday night and all day Sunday.

An occasional demonstration against members of the nonunion train crews operating trains through the city was all that marred the peacefulness of the day. Windows were broken in some of the cabooses attached to passing freight trains.

Action compelling the Grand Trunk railroad to resume its regular train service through South Bend was taken yesterday by Gov. Marshall at Indianapolis.

Protest Against Troops.

Durand, Mich., July 28.—Upon the arrival today of four companies of First regiment, Michigan national guard, called from Detroit to prevent disorder in connection with the strike of Grand Trunk trainmen, a mass meeting of residents assembled to protest against Gov. Warner's action in calling out the troops.

Night freight service out of Chicago on the Grand Trunk was started last evening, for the first time since the strike began, according to officials of the road. One through freight train was sent out from Elsdon for eastern and Canadian points.

UNION LEADERS UNDER FIRE

Business Agents Said to Be Employing Nonunionists.

STRIKE IS MORE GENERAL.

Agitation Extends to Ravenswood on New Flat Buildings.

Employment of nonunion steamfitters on flat buildings owned by union business agents caused the building trades strike to spread yesterday to Ravenswood. The discovery of this situation was made by business agents of the Carpenters' union, who visited the buildings and found workmen without cards from the Steamfitters' union doing steamfitting work in the flats.

A strike was called at once and work on the buildings was tied up. When the union officials looked up the name of the owners they found that the flats are being erected by Simon O'Donnell, business agent of the Plumbers' union; William Gunther, business agent of the Gasfitters' union; and Joseph Valila, business agent of the Sprinkler Fitters' union.

The strike bound structures consist of six two flat houses at Lawrence avenue and Ravenswood park. Officers of the Carpenters' union declared that the strike will remain in force until the owners compel the contractors to employ union steamfitters.

Members of the Plumbers' union said that the workmen objected to were plumbers and friends of Business Agents O'Donnell and Gunther.

Complete Tieup Is Threatened.

A lockout and complete tieup of building operations were threatened by the employers during the day as a result of the sympathetic strike directed against the Otis Elevator company on account of the employment of machinists in buildings on elevator construction work. There was no change in the strike situation relative to the Otis company dispute. Carpenters, electricians, plasterers, hosting engineers, and building laborers remained firm in their opposition to a sympathetic walkout. Work of these crafts continued without interruption on the strike-bound buildings.

General Manager M. H. Christophersen of the Otis company said his concern will stand pat against the demands of the strikers.

Election Held This Evening.

Election of officers of the Building Trades council will be held this evening. It is predicted that President John A. Metz will be defeated for reëlection on account of his opposition to the strike.

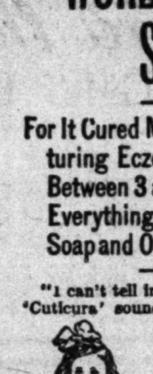
HOW HAPPY THE WORD 'CUTICURA' SOUNDS TO ME

For It Cured My Baby of Itching, Torturing Eczema. First Came when Between 3 and 4 Weeks Old. Used Everything Imaginable. 2 Cakes Soap and One Box Ointment Cured.

"I can't tell in words how happy the word 'Cuticura' sounds to me, for it cured my baby of itching, torturing eczema. It first came when she was between three and four weeks old, appearing on her head. I used everything imaginable and had one doctor's bill after another but nothing cured it. Then the eczema broke out so badly behind her ear that I really thought her ear would come off. For months I doctored it but to no avail. Then it began at her nose and her eyes were nothing but sores. I had to keep her in a dark room for two weeks. The doctor did no good, so I stopped him coming.



"For about two weeks I had used Cuticura Soap for her every day, then I got a box of Cuticura Ointment and began to use that. In a week there was a marked improvement. In all I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and my baby was cured of the sores. This was last November; now her hair is growing out nicely and she has not a scar on her. I can not praise Cuticura enough. I can take my child anywhere and people are amazed to see her without a sore. From the time she was four weeks old until she was three years, she was never without the terrible eruption but now, thanks to Cuticura, I have a well child. Mrs. H. E. Householder, 2004 Wilhelm St., Baltimore, Md., May 10, 1910."

Victory of Chalmers "30" in Glidden Tour a Victory for the Public as Well as for the Car

The Contest Board of the American Automobile Association has declared the Chalmers "30" car, entry No. 5, driven by William Bolger, winner of the 1910 Glidden Tour, and has awarded the Glidden Trophy to the Chalmers Motor Company.

Think what this means. The Glidden Tour—the most famous and most strenuous reliability contest for motor cars in the world—won by a stock touring car—a duplicate of which you can buy for $1,500.

Think what this means to automobile buyers. Those who have said: "Wait until we can buy a real car for a medium price, then we'll have one," need wait no longer. We know of no stronger proofs that could be given that it is now possible to buy a real car at a medium price than the Chalmers "30" has given in the past two years—the Glidden victory being the crowning triumph.

All that any car can do this car has done. In fact it has proved conclusively that it can do more than most cars can do, for it has succeeded where others have failed.

In every Glidden Tour some car has won pre-eminence, and some car was bound to gain pre-eminence in this year's tour. But always before a car costing $4,000 or more has been the winner.

That a car costing only $1,500, the lowest priced car in the tour with only one exception, should win the most trying automobile contest ever held is more than a sensation—it is a revolution—and the effects of it will be felt in the automobile business for many a day to come.

This tour is not only a victory for the Chalmers Motor Company but it is a victory for the public—the public, which is always demanding of the manufacturer—not high priced cars, not low priced cars—but good cars at right prices—cars with an unusual dollar for dollar value in them—the utmost-value-for-the-price kind of cars.

* * * * * *

Of all the Glidden tours yet held, that of 1910 was the longest, and by far the hardest. None except those who made the trip will ever know of the many obstacles met and overcome in this 2851-mile contest, which started at Cincinnati and went "by way of Dallas, Texas," through thirteen states to Chicago.

Words and pictures cannot make plain the wracking cobblestone roads of Kentucky—the stump-studded forest trails of the Tennessee mountains—the swamps of Arkansas—the deep and treacherous sands of Texas—the mud of Kansas, the bridgeless southern streams, or the sweltering heat that punished cars and men alike.

One day in Arkansas the Chalmers "30" was compelled to cover sixty continuous miles on first and second speed, yet it never over-heated.

In Oklahoma all the cars had to run for miles along the railroad over the ties. How long would any machine in the world, except an automobile, withstand such punishment?

Dai Lewis, who has laid out the route for every Glidden Tour, says that no other could even compare in hardship with the 1910 tour.

The final outcome of the contest was predicted when the "30" was the last car to surrender its perfect score. It had a perfect score for five terrific days after every other car on the tour had been penalized.

It is the opinion of the experts who made this tour that no car in the world could have completed it with a perfect score.

Yet from Cincinnati to Louisville—to Nashville—to Sheffield, Ala.—to Memphis—to Little Rock—to Hot Springs—to Texarkana—to Dallas—to Lawton, Oklahoma—to Oklahoma City—to Wichita, Kansas—eleven consecutive days out of the sixteen—through the hardest part of the trip—not a single point could be assessed against the Chalmers "30," although a representative of a competing company was in the car every minute trying to find some fault on which a penalty could be assessed.

At Dallas local motorists offered to wager 10 to 1 that this car could not retain its perfect score until noon of that day because of the deep sand it would have to drag through en route to the noon control, but it did.

Furthermore, the Chalmers "30" made a better showing in the final technical test than any of its rivals. In this important examination it was assessed only 75 points as against 84 for its nearest competitor.

The "30" was not penalized on any fundamental feature of construction, not on motor, or clutch, or transmission, or on the frame, or the wheels, or axles or springs; only on minor things, such as body bolts, shackles, muffler, and fender irons.

It still had a brake good enough to stop it within the required fifty feet.

* * * * * *

The car which made this wonderful showing is absolutely a stock car in every respect—not even our competitors have questioned that. It is the same car you can buy in any Chalmers dealer's salesroom for $1,500.

In winning the Glidden Tour the Chalmers "30" has only maintained a record it had already established. For this car has never been defeated in any important contest of speed and endurance by a car of its own power and price class. It has repeatedly defeated cars of much higher price and greater power in all kinds of contests.

Think of the Indiana trophy race, the Merrimac Valley trophy, the Santa Monica race, the Massapequa trophy in the Vanderbilt race, won by setting a new world's speed record; the showing at Atlanta, where it finished first and second in every event entered for a week, winning the Candler trophy by doing 120 miles in 117 minutes; the Denver to Mexico City trip; the gruelling test of 208 miles a day for 100 successive days; path-finding for the 1910 Glidden Tour, and, finally, winning the Tour. What other stock car in the world, at any price, has such a record as this?

* * * * * *

What better car can you want than a Chalmers "30" at $1,500? What more can you buy with any amount of money? You could buy a seven-passenger car, or you could buy more power. That is all. If you want a seven-passenger car, all right. As for more power, you can get it if you want to pay for it, but you do not need it on any car not carrying more than five.

The Chalmers "30" which won the Glidden Tour carried four passengers and baggage over every mile of the route. It had power enough to pull through streams, through swamps and through sand. It had speed enough to make every control on time; it has as much speed as any one can use.

And in addition to endurance and reliability you cannot buy more beauty, either of line or finish, than you get in a Chalmers "30." No car, no matter what the price, affords more eye-delight than the Chalmers.

What more do you want, then, in a car, than you can get in the Chalmers?

* * * * * *

There has been much talk lately about automobile extravagance, about people spending too much money on automobiles. No man need feel that he is guilty of extravagance in buying a Chalmers "30" at $1,500. It would be hard for him to invest the same amount of money in any better way. A car like this will treble the time of any business man. It means greater efficiency in business, and, at the same time, more time away from business. It means healthful enjoyment for all the family, too.

The automobile has come to stay. It is a sign of progress. It is a necessary part of modern civilization, and the people will no more give up the motor car than they will tear down trolley wires and again hitch horses to the street cars.

The automobile business is here to stay, and for those companies which have given full value for the prices asked this business is as sound as the Rock of Gibraltar, and will remain so for a long, long time to come.

Although some people predict this is going to be a slack year, our sales records do not show any support of the prediction. The increased volume of our business since we announced our 1911 cars has been a surprise to us.

This proves to us that we have been on the right track all the time; first, in not trying to build too many cars, but in building the limited number we have built just as well as they could possibly be built; second, in selling these cars at medium prices and at reasonable margin of profit to ourselves; third, in taking care of our owners just as well as we knew how after the cars had been sold.

* * * * * *

After all, automobiles are built for those who buy them; and Glidden Tours are conducted for the benefit of the very same people. The thousands who contemplate buying cars during the 1911 season have had nearly all the real big questions answered by the Glidden Tour—the questions of design, of materials, workmanship, endurance, reliability.

The price you already know, so the question of appearance is about the only one left. As to that, the new 1911 models will be on exhibition at the local show rooms within a very short time.

We invite you to examine them. If the lines, the color, the finish suit you, you can safely buy one, for remember—it's a Chalmers—the car that won the most trying test that automobiles ever were put to—the Glidden tour of 1910.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

St. Louis, Mo., July 28.—[Special.]—Having expended their utmost effort in that one valiant round yesterday the Cardinals submitted to a whitewash at the hands of the Cubs today with as good grace as possible, although their submission was involuntary. The score was 3 to 0.

Until the last inning it was a germ proof pitchers' fight between Overall and Willis in which the big Californian had a shade the better of the argument all the way from the third, when the Cubs really won the game for Orvie. A couple of swats by Tinker and Kling and one by Evers, which was stolen from him by Huggins, manufactured a single tally right there and with that slender lead Overall would have been victor in the end.

But the Cubs were not satisfied and kept pegging away at Willis. Not until the ninth could they tighten their grip, then they made it three times as firm with the assistance of a boot by Manager Bresnahan.

Swell Throw by Schulte.

Overall let the Cardinals down with five singles and kept them from getting too well acquainted with each other, but was just unsteady enough to permit his opponents to make considerable trouble. Once Frank Schulte had to cut down a tally at the plate in order to keep St. Louis from tying the score, and he did it on a fly so long that it was not thought he would even try to make the play. A perfect shot with power behind it, a perfect bound to Kling, and perfect handling by the receiver were necessary to get that out, but this triple plated perfection was delivered.

Twice Sheckard helped in the defense and both in the second inning. He went back as far as he could and pulled down Bresnahan's long drive, and on the next ball pitched tore in and caught a Texas leaguer from Mowrey's bat, finishing with a slide on his knees and elbows in order to get under the ball. It looked as if Jimmy had roller skates on all four of his corners.

Tinker and Schulte were the captains of the attack. Each made three singles and each counted a tally at the plate. In fact, these two made all except two of the swats off Willis, Hofman and Kling bagging the minority portion. Willis was quite liberal with his passes, and owed to one of them the hole out of which the Cubs extracted two runs in the ninth. But for Miller Huggins the Cubs would have won much farther off. His robbery of Evers in the third inning saved at least one run, and again in the sixth he pulled off a clever double play when it looked as if nothing else could subdue the bear cats runless.

Although St. Louis still was baking hot, there was a switch in the air currents this morning, and gentle zephyrs swept the ballyard at frequent intervals, alleviating to a great extent the suffering of the steaming athletes.

Cubs Change System.

The Cubs wasted their first two hits by sticking them in with two out in the first and second innings and then getting nailed stealing. They quit that system in the third and tried the better way. Tinker opened the attack with a single in that round and Kling bounded a half bunt high over Mowrey's head into left. Tinker sprinted all the way to third on it. Bresnahan threw out Overall on a little roller without letting Tinker score, Kling making second. Evers pulled a hot one toward right, but Huggins went back on the grass and scooped the ball with one hand while on a dead run, recovering in time to throw out Evers and hold Kling on third, but Tinker crossed the pan with the only run in sight for a long time.

The Cubs did not get another good opening until the sixth, and Huggins wrecked that for them. Evers started by working Willis for the first of his four passes. Sheckard sacrificed and Hofman drew a second pass. Chance tried to push one through to right, but Huggins pounced on it right in the base line, came up with the ball in time to tag Artie as he tried to hurdle the ball, and completed the double play at first.

Overall Holds Tight Rein.

Overall meantime was making good with only one run margin. He started the Cardinal first by passing Huggins. The next two flied out before Koney touched Orvie for a single. That amounted to nothing, for Evans struck out.

Willis, who made almost half the hits off our pitcher, started a rally in the third with the first of his two safe swats. Huggins struck out trying to bunt, and Ellis delivered the sacrifice Miller couldn't. It was effort wasted, however, for after Oakes had beaten out a swat which Steinfeldt knocked down Overall arose to this emergency and struck out Koney, the local slugger.

By hitting Evans and passing Bresnahan to start the fourth Overall dug a considerable hole for himself and had to have good help to get out of it. Mowrey sacrificed neatly and Hauser combed a long fly into right. Schulte had time to set himself for the throw before he caught the ball and without the loss of an instant had it flying on its way to the pan, which quick handling by Kling nipped Evans beyond all question.

Willis Dangerous Customer.

Willis tried to make more trouble in the fifth by leading off with another single. This time Huggins sacrificed, but Ellis struck out under pressure and Steinfeldt's low throw disposed of Oakes, because Chance made a swell pickup and saved both the error and a run.

Evers gave the enemy an opening in its seventh by fumbling Mowrey's roller, but after Hauser delivered a sacrifice Sheckard nailed Willis' long fly and Chance stabbed a hot liner from Huggins' bat. In the eighth the Cardinals once more pressed for a run, but were denied it. Ellis started with a single and was sacrificed to second, but was run to death between bases when Tinker picked Koney's hot grounder out of the dirt. Evans drew a walk and Bresnahan forced him at second.

Having escaped so many times, the Cubs attacked harder in the ninth, and finally broke through again. Hofman was passed and put on second by Chance's sacrifice. Bresnahan framed it up to catch Artie napping off second, but the Cub runner double crossed him by breaking for third on the throw to second and landing safe by yards. Steinfeldt poked one to Mowrey, who made a splendid play to the plate, but Bresnahan muffed the throw and lost the out. Schulte singled and Steiny was caught stealing third, and Tinker dropped a safe one in short center, on which Wildfire cantered home with the third run. Score:

LITTLE ALEXANDER RETURNS FROM ANOTHER EASTERN TRIP.

NOTES OF THE CUBS.

St. Louis, Mo., July 28.—[Special.]—Cubs in hot town again tomorrow.

Four more games will wind up the work laid out for Chance's men in St. Louis for the year.

Reulbach probably will go against the Cardinals tomorrow, and Brown will have a chance to get revenge out of them in one of the bargain day games on Saturday.

McIntire was able to be around the hotel today, but was not sufficiently recovered to risk putting on war paint and hunting the hot sun again. He was weak, but will be in shape again shortly, he believes.

Just before Koney struck out in the dangerous third Chance barely missed making a spectacular catch of a foul which the first sacker hoisted close to the stand. Chance reached the ball after a long dash, but couldn't hold it, and saved himself from bumping the box rail by a clever recovery.

Umpires O'Day and Brennan replaced Klem and Kane, who were merely left here to look after the postponed games booked for Tuesday and yesterday. O'Day was well prepared for the hot weather and discarded his coat altogether, disclosing a neat gray blouse in which he looked to be the coolest man in St. Louis.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON CREATES NEW JOB FOR JACK SHERIDAN.

Veteran Umpire Will Be Official Scout for Arbiters and Teach the Young How to "Shoot.."

President B. B. Johnson in seeking to keep former Umpire Jack Sheridan in his official family has created a new field of activity in the baseball world. Veteran Jack will become an official scout for umpires and an instructor of young blood which comes into the American league, in addition to other duties relating to the work of the diamond arbiters.

When Sheridan suddenly quit the game at Washington and came to Chicago to have his eyes treated, he announced that he had retired. But President Johnson, who refused to accept the resignation, prevailed on Sheridan to accept the new position. It was suggested that Sheridan be chief of umpires, but the American league head says he sees no need for such an official while Sheridan can be useful in ferreting out and developing new men.

Manager Duffy of the White Sox will pay a visit to the American league headquarters tomorrow morning to tell what he knows of the charges of signal tipping in New York. In a telegram to Chicago, President Farrell of the Highlanders added an offer of $1,000 to the $500 offered by Mr. Johnson for proof of the charges. The statement attributed to Pitcher Ed Walsh of the Sox that the signaling device was a panel four inches by two inches, located at a distance of 700 feet from the home plate brought out the opinion that the Highlanders would ruin their eyesight even trying to locate the panel.

President Murphy of the Cubs yesterday sent a check to the Lansing club of the Southern Michigan league for First Baseman Saier, who, according to the official averages of that organization up to July 20, which were released yesterday, is leading the league in batting with a mark of .352.

REDS MAY PLAY NAPS SERIES.

Plans Under Way for Post-Season Games as Part of Centennial Anniversary in Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., July 28.—Post-season series between the Naps and some National league club, probably the Cincinnati Reds, most likely will be arranged within the next few weeks. It will form a part of the celebration that is to mark the centennial anniversary of Cuyahoga county during the week of Oct. 10. The National league season does not end until Oct. 16, but Pittsburg, Cincinnati, and St. Louis clubs already have switched many dates so that they will finish on Oct. 9, the date of the closing in the American league. The scheme would be to play three games here and then go to Cincinnati for the remaining three or four, which ever number is necessary. Magnate Somers favors the playing of the series.

NOTES OF THE WHITE SOX.

Detroit, Mich., July 28.—[Special.]—The Sox and Tigers left at 9 o'clock for Chicago, where they will play tomorrow.

Manager Duffy and Pat Dougherty arrived this morning, Duffy from Buffalo, where he had been scouting, and Pat from his home in Balivar, N. Y.

Ed Walsh will open against the Tigers on the south side grounds tomorrow and Doc White will go at them on Saturday.

Ty Cobb didn't help his batting average at all this afternoon and he will try to make up for it during his stay in Chicago.

Billy Purtell continued to hit the ball. He collected two more base knocks and helped his average considerably.

On the trip ended tonight the Sox won five games and lost seventeen. This almost busts up the team's reputation for good road work. The ambition of the athletes now is to start winning at home and work up to the top of the second division.

BY R. W. LARDNER.

Detroit, Mich., July 28.—[Special.]—Instead of improving their road record today the Sox lost to the Tigers, 2 to 0, and gave Detroit a lot more hope of winning a fourth straight American league pennant.

George Mullin and young Cy Young started, and one was about as good as the other. George was in some holes and got out of them because the Sox couldn't hit. Young was in some holes and failed to get out of some of them because the people behind couldn't field. An error by Rollie Zeider helped the Tigers to their first run, and another slip by Pat Dougherty did the same to the second and last Detroit tally.

Cy was in there for seven innings and he allowed just seven hits. Olmstead was hit for one more. Mullin was touched for five all told, and no two of them came in the same inning. George looked like his old self, and that fact was even more cheering to the Tigers than was the victory itself.

O'Leary a Demon Batsman.

Charley O'Leary, who calls Chicago home, acted as if that city belonged to a hostile country. He hit as he seldom does. In four chances he had four base knocks, and one of them was a triple. Charley figured in the first run; in fact, scored it himself, and it wasn't his fault that his other slaps were wasted. Mr. Simmons was at third base in place of Mr. Lathers, late of the University of Michigan, who has a reputation for weakness against left handers.

Charles O'Leary, the second person to face Young in the first inning, combed a long drive to right. Collins didn't handle it any too well, and Charles made three bases. Ty Cobb hit a bounder to Zeider. The captain tried to hurry it up for a play at the plate and fumbled the ball, O'Leary scoring and Ty reaching first. The Georgia peach was caught stealing and Crawford was easy.

One down in the second, Mullin singled to center. McIntyre fanned and O'Leary produced another hit, a single over second. Parent shut off a run with a brilliant catch of Cobb's short liner. The Sox bunched two errors in the fourth and Bush got around to third because of them. He beat out his hit to Purtell and went to second on Bily's wild and late throw. Gandil's return to second was a bad one and escaped into left field, Ownie taking another sack. There were two down at the time, however, and Jones flied to Collins.

O'Leary's third hit started the Detroit sixth. Cobb missed connections on an intended hit and run play and Payne pegged Charley out. Zeider retired Cobb. Dougherty dropped Crawford's hard wallop after a long run, but Simmons was a cinch for Tannehill and Gandil.

There were all kinds of innings in which the Sox got the first man on. Dougherty opened the second with a single to center and was caught trying to steal. Tannehill's safe smash to right came at the start of the third. Payne sacrificed, but Young and Parent failed to produce. Zeider walked in No. 4. Collins' out advanced him, but Cobb took Dougherty's fly and Stanage tossed out Gandil. Purtell singled to center in the fifth. Tannehill sacrificed him to second, and the battery just naturally died.

Another boot by Dougherty helped the Tigers to get their second run in the seventh. Bush singled to left and went to second because Pat let the ball escape him. Jones sacrificed and Mullin drove in the tally with a Texas leaguer over second after Stanage had fanned.

Sox Get Real Chance.

Then Mullin gave us a real chance. Payne doubled to right and White, batting for Young, walked. Parent forced Payne at third instead of sacrificing. Zeider rolled a grounder to George himself and Collins flied to Tom Jones. Fred Olmstead finished it up and got through with a few light scratches, O'Leary getting his fourth slap in his last chance. PENNSYLVANIA —LINES—

THE HISTORY OF AMERICAN RAILROADS

deservedly credits the PENNSYLVANIA with stimulating the development of transportation facilities. Attempts to duplicate the physical condition of its roadbed, perfection of its safety appliances, the excellence of its equipment and methods of operating trains gives it first place as "The Standard Railroad of America."

The PENNSYLVANIA was the first railroad to use stone ballast, steel rails, block signals, track tanks, etc.

The first "Limited" trains were run over the PENNSYLVANIA.

It originated 18-hour trains between Chicago and New York, and 24-hour trains between St. Louis and New York.

Years ago the PENNSYLVANIA employed trained and courteous representatives to deliver tickets and baggage checks to residences, hotels and places of business; to accompany departing travelers to trains and meet those arriving. The little things, as well as the big things, which make traveling the pleasure it is today, were introduced by the PENNSYLVANIA.

The extension of its steel rails into New York City and the construction of the greatest railroad station in the world in the very heart of the Greater City of New York, close to Broadway, will, when steel trains run into that station from Chicago, from St. Louis, and from other cities in the West, in the summer of 1910, be an achievement which present generations will not see duplicated.

CHICAGO GOLFER IS SURE OF TITLE

Four Survive in Minikahda Play for the Western Championship.

HUNTER SMASHES RECORD

Midlothian Expert Scores 68 for 18 Holes; Phelps, Wood, and Evans Other Winners.

GOLF PAIRINGS FOR TODAY.
Charles Evans Jr. vs. Robert E. Hunter.
Warren K. Wood vs. Mason E. Phelps.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 28.—[Special.]—Four Chicago golfers swept the board in the third round of the western amateur golf championship at the Minikahda club, Mason E. Phelps of Midlothian, Warren K. Wood of Homewood, Robert E. Hunter of Midlothian, and Western Champion Charles Evans Jr. of Edgewater gaining medalist positions. Their success insures the retention of the title by Chicago, from which city it never has departed in the twelve years of its existence.

Robert E. Hunter chiseled his name deep in the annals of western golfing history by taking a little bit off the top of the record of 70 for the course, held jointly by Harry L. Legg and Mason E. Phelps. The tall Midlothian player, in his afternoon match with Albert Seckel of Riverside, turned in a wonderful 68, affording the young Princetonian the unique experience of shooting a 71 and yet being three down.

Gopher Hopes Go Glimmering.

Minnesota's hopes of titular honors went glimmering when Harry G. Legg, state champion, was defeated by Warren K. Wood of Homewood, 2 and 1, and when the second hope of the Gopher fans, Clive T. Jaffray of the home club, a former transmississippi champion, fell before Mason E. Phelps of Midlothan, western champion in 1908, by a margin of 4—3. Hunter defeated Seckel 6 and 4 and Charles Evans Jr. had no trouble in disposing of W. E. Clow Jr. of Onwentsia, 9 and 8.

Of the four Chicago survivors Wood, Phelps, and Evans are former medalists, Bob Hunter being the only one who never before has reached a semi-final round. Wood was runner up to D. E. Sawyer at St. Louis in 1906. Phelps won the championship at Rock Island in 1908 and Evans won at Homewood last year.

Veteran Fairbanks of Denver, who plays all over the country, remarked, while gazing at the score board: "Those four names look familiar. Form will tell. Those Chicago youngsters are wonders."

Legg-Wood Match Is "Corker."

Eliminating the profesional display of Robert Hunter, the spectacular play of the round came in the match between Harry G. Legg and Warren K. Wood. The consistent work of the Minikahda crack made him the favorite with the home folks, while the Chicagoans present believed he was due for a fall down after his consistent work of the preceding days. Wood has demonstrated many times he has the ability to travel in the fastest company.

Starting the morning round under ideal golfing conditions, Wood carried the Minikahda crack off his feet with a 33 for the first nine holes, and leading him 5 up at the turn. Legg showed his gameness by coming home in 34, leaving him 2 down at the interval.

Legg got on even terms at the third hole in the afternoon and took the lead for the first time at the fifth. The steps of the large gallery grew more elastic, but Wood was far from being all in, and a winning sequence of three at the eighth, ninth, and tenth holes put him in a vantage position he never relinquished.

Wood scored first blood in the morning round when Legg made a short approach at the second hole, losing 5—4. Wood, who putted well throughout the day, sunk a ten foot putt at the third hole and won, 3—4, putting him 2 up.

Both Men Play Great Golf.

Legg slashed out a long drive to the fourth hole, 265 yards, winning 3—4. Legg missed a two foot putt on the sixth green, losing 5—4. Wood drove the next green, 220 yards, and won, 2—3. He laid his approach dead at the ninth, 400 yards, and won 3—4, one under par. Wood's trusty putter got him a half in 3 at the tenth, where he holed a ten foot putt. Legg's cleek shot for the thirteenth hole, 475 yards, landed three feet from the tin, and he won, 3—5, two under par.

Wood slopped at the fifteenth, and Legg, making a good recovery after a poor drive, won, 4—5, leaving him 3 down. Legg got a perfect 3 on the home hole, Wood missing an eight foot putt. Wood, 2 up. Cards:

A short second cost Wood the first hole in the afternoon. Legg gobbled the third hole with a long putt for a 2, winning, 2—3. The match was all square. A short putt cost the Chicago man the fifth hole, Legg taking the lead. At the seventh hole Wood layed Legg a dead stymie, the home player hitting his opponent's ball and getting a half in 4.

Both Men in Trouble.

Legg missed a six foot putt at the eighth, Wood being stone dead and winning 4—5. All square. Legg pulled his drive for the ninth and lay behind a lot of trees and had to play out short. Wood's drive landed in a cuppy lie near a hidden drain pipe. He appealed to the officials, but had to play the ball. He chopped out to within fifteen feet of the hole. Legg sliced his third badly, but made a brilliant approach over a hill to six feet. He missed the putt, Wood winning, 5—6. Legg missed a yard putt on the tenth, losing, 4—3. Wood 3 up.

Legg won the twelfth, 535 yards, with a brilliant 4, his long brassey second landing him hole high. Wood played short of the ditch purposely and was on the green in 3, losing, 4—5.

Wood drove out of bounds at the fourteenth. Legg pulled near the rough and then took up a chunk of sod on his pitch, being woefully short. His third overran the hole twenty feet and Wood got a half in 5, a lucky escape. Legg missed a two foot putt on the fifteenth and lost, 5—4. The next two holes were halved, Wood winning 2 and 1. Evans' Victory No Surprise.

Evans' victory over Clow caused no surprise, as the tall Onwentsia player does not compete in enough tournaments to rank with the western wonder. It was a duel between the two former western interscholastic champions. Evans was by far the steadier both in his long and short game. Going under easy pressure, Evans was out in 36 and was 3 up at the turn. Coming home in the same figures, he was 5 up at the interval. Cards:

Evans—Out ....4 5 4 5 3 4 4 4 4—36

Clow was unable to win a hole in the afternoon. Evans was bunkered at the first hole, but approached dead and won, 4—5. He took the sixth, eighth, and ninth and won, 9—8. Cards:

Hunter Near Double Mark.

Bob Hunter shot a 73 in the morning against Seckel, which with his record of 68 in the afternoon, gave him 141 for the double round, and had he replayed a stymie at the fourteenth hole he might have tied the record for the double round of the course set by Legg in the qualifying round.

Hunter secured a lead of 2 up on the first five holes and after that had the nervy little Riversider pressing. Hunter was working miracles with his putter, while Seckel was a trifle off on his short game, at which he generally excels. Hunter won the fourth hole in 4—5, with a fifteen foot putt. Seckel won his first hole at the eighth, where Hunter topped his drive and then rimmed the cup for four.

Seckel dropped the ninth by hitting a tree on his tee shot and then getting into a ditch, losing, 6—5. A short approach cost Hunter the tenth, but at the twelfth Seckel again had irrigation troubles in a ditch, losing, 6—5. Hunter was stymied at the fourteenth, hitting Seckel's ball.

On the next green Hunter holed a twenty-eight foot putt and Seckel halved with one of nine feet. Hunter's ten foot putt won the sixteenth and poor approaches cost Seckel the home hole. Cards:

Hunter—Out ....4 4 4 4 4 4 3 5 5—37

Hunter—In ....4 5 5 5 3 3 3 4—36—73
Seckel—In ....3 4 6 6 4 3 4 3 5—38—77

The afternoon round was the best of the tournament, the story being one of wonderful putting by Hunter. He took only twenty-four putts on the eighteen greens. He went out in 34 and home in the same figures, being given a round of applause when he holed a four foot putt on the home green and lowered the record for the course by two strokes. A number of wagers had been made the seventy would not be beaten. Cards:

Phelps won four holes and Jaffray two on the home journey, leaving the Chicagoan 4 up at the end of the round. Cards:

Phelps Clinches Match Early.

Phelps clinched the match by taking the first three holes in the afternoon, but dropped the fourth by taking three putts. They halved the next four in 4s, but Jaffray won the ninth with a long putt. He ran down long putts at the next two holes.

On the thirteenth he made a phenomenal putt. Phelps' ball was close to the edge of the cup, leaving only a small opening, but Jaffray holed from twenty feet and halved in 5. Phelps won, 4—3. Cards:

LUDKE IS VICTOR; BEATS HENDRICK

Aztec Club Player Wins Close Match in Western Singles Championship.

WAIDNER IN SEMI-FINAL.

Default of Means Helps Chicagoan; Miss Rees and Miss Davis in Women's Finals.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

As a result of yesterday's contests in the western tennis championships at the Onwentsia club, matches will be played today in the final round of the women's and semi-final round of men's singles.

Albrecht Ludke, the German whose spectacular playing has been one of the features of the tourney, defeated T. W. Hendrick in a close and interesting match, 7—5, 6—8, and will play H. H. Whitman, the Boston crack, today in the semi-final round. Whitman won from Paul Gardner, western intercollegiate champion, 6—1, 6—1, in a one sided match. L. H. Waidner, the veteran of many a hard fought tournament, went into the semi-final round through the default of R. W. Means and will meet Thomas Bundy of Los Angeles.

Misses Rees and Davis Win.

Miss Gwendolyn Rees and Miss Margaret Davis, both of St. Paul, will struggle in the final match of the women's singles to determine who shall meet Miss Carrie B. Neely for the title tomorrow. In the semi-final round Miss Rees defeated Mrs. Harold Crane, 6—1, 6—1, and Miss Davis won from Miss Louise Bearse, 6—1, 6—1.

The contest which attracted most attention yesterday was in doubles between Paul Gardner and Harry Waidner and Charles Peters and Walter T. Hayes. Hayes and Peters had been put out of the running in the singles on Wednesday and since that time had determined to get into the finals of the doubles. As luck would have it, they finally drew Gardner and Waidner in the semi-final round, but they went right after their opponents from the start.

First Set to Hayes and Peters.

Hayes and Peters took the first set, 10—8, after a bitterly fought contest in which the victors executed nearly every difficult shot known to the net game. Hayes especially returned some hard drives.

The second set was featured by so much spectacular playing that the crowd was kept on its feet continually cheering. Hard smashes, high lobs to the farthest corners of the courts, short net shots, and all sorts of others were executed. After battling with all the reserve energy they possessed, Waidner and Gardner took the set, 9—7, which evened up the count. The match became so interesting that players on other courts stopped their contests to witness it. Gardner began to play up to his standard at the close of the second set and, with Waidner going at top speed, Hayes and Peters were defeated in the third set, 6—2.

The strain proved so much on the players that they decided to take a rest before the next meeting. They appeared much refreshed after a seven minute intermission and resumed play. There was no stopping Waidner and Gardner in the fourth issue and they won the set, 6—0, and the match.

The meeting between John Neely and H. H. Whitman and J. J. Forstall and J. I. B. Larned in the third round of the men's doubles was another interesting match. In the first match, which was played on Wednesday, Neely and Whitman finally won, 10—8. The second set also went to Neely and Whitman, 7—5, while Forstall and Larned took the third, 6—4. Neely and Whitman took the fourth set after a keenly fought match, 10—8, in which both Neely and Whitman executed some pretty shots.

Albrecht Ludke in defeating T. W. Hendrick is now considered to be one of the strongest contenders for M. H. Long's relinquished title. His fast, accurate playing yesterday was the cause of the downfall of the westerner, who played a great game. Ludke is a player who improves as the game progresses, and he seems to possess unlimited endurance. He will be called upon to meet a worthy opponent today in H. H. Whitman.

THE CONSCIENTIOUS GUIDE AND THE CREDULOUS WOP.

Quoth the guide to himself as he paddled along
With a rhythmical splash and a feather:
"Ain't it strange how they fall for that hypnotic song
And come here in all sorts of weather,
"With their new fangled tackle, their rods and their reels
Some siren voiced salesman has sold 'em,
And dabble for fish that exist in the spiels
Of the plausible steerers that told 'em?
"Ain't it strange how they come to the lure of the lake
(As the postal card pictures express it),
And the stuffed signboard bass that's a palpable fake,
No matter how neatly they dress it?
"Sometimes I feel myself choking with shame
But I crowd back the truth I would utter,
When I think what's the use of my crabbing the game
That gets me my bread and my butter.
"Now this misguided wop I've been rowing around—
I am kidding him into believing
That here's where the bass and the muskies abound—
Any stall just to keep him from leaving.
"Every time his spoon hook gets afoul of a log
I jolly him into believing
That he's got a strike, and I feel like a dog
For a practice that's low and deceiving.
"But what can I do when it isn't my lake?
I don't try to fetch or detain 'em.
It ain't up to me to point out their mistake.
I do as I'm told—entertain 'em."
Daffy Lake, July 25.

New Orleans boxing promoters still feel safe in venturing after twenty round contests involving championships. If they match Ad Wolgast and Packey McFarland to go that distance they will put up something worthy of the best efforts of vociferous reform, and the first thing you'll know after that will be that New Orleans has become to the pug what it is to the tout, a fine place to pass through in a hurry.

B. F. W.—No heavyweight champion ever retires permanently until after he is licked, if that's any consolation to you.

It is gratifying to contemplate the almost positive assurance of having Dudie Archdale and Mr. Frank G. Jones from now to the end of the trotting horse chapter. By the way, has any enterprising tobacconist copped the privilege of naming a good 5 cent seegar after Dudie? Mr. White informs us that the daughter of Archdale, dam by Egmont Chief, and the rest of it, is not prepossessing as to looks, but they all look alike on cigar box labels.

Mason Phelps of Chicago came within one of making an exquisite 69. That is to say he made a rapturous 70.

A solemn hush falls over the camp of the wine boosters, the sporting actors, and the clothing salesmen when Billy Delaney appears on the horizon.

If you tell some people, the promoters of horse racing for instance, that they would be foolish to start something the logical finish of which would be failure and a further postponement of a favorable condition, they set you down as having turned policeman when the fact may be that you would give three toes off each foot to help them in their purpose, if that help could get anything.

STILL GOING ALONG WITH IT.

(For synopsis of preceding chapters take the elevator.)

"Too much of a pull?" Is that English chaste?
A pull with a club or a pull at the waist?
Allowance at that should be made, mayhap,
Whether waist or weight be the handicap.
To figure this out I have lost some sleep,
And I fear that it's getting me in too deep.
The glossary's funny in ladies' golf,
So I'll chop right here ere you cry, "Come off!"

Furthermore we are informed that Bifurcated Wilkes (2:27¼) holds the Thursday record (2:34¾) for half mile tracks with Van Dyke brown buildings and green trimmings. It might also be said, our informant states, that she has to her credit the fastest mile ever driven over the Columbia City track by a man with purple chin whiskers shading to gray at the roots. Some mare, Bifurcated Wilkes.

MURPHY SCORES DOUBLE VICTORY

Drives Hitherto Unknown May Day to Front in $5,000 Kalamazoo Pace.

PILOTS CAPTAIN GEORGE.

Takes Events in Straight Heats; Finishes Third in 2:12 Trot with Bervaldo.

BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 28.—[Special.]—In a series of brilliantly driven heats this afternoon Tom Murphy of New York showed the big crowd at the race track what the attributes of a high class horseman are. With three nags from his stable he won two races and got third money in another, forcing the winner to trot a third mile in 2:08¼ to beat him.

With the hitherto unknown pacer May Day, a steed of unfashionable breeding and plain looking to boot, Murphy won a $5,000 purse for horses of that gait, the trick being done in straight heats which averaged better than 2:05. The honors were wrested from a field of nine, which was selected months ago by horsemen in all parts of the land to compete for this rich purse. Six of the lot are named in the Chamber of Commerce purse at Detroit next week, but Murphy's slim bay mare made all of them look alike, with Branham Baugham a shade the best of the lot.

Captain George Wins 2:30 Trot.

When the 2:30 trot was called Murphy paraded the handsome 4-year-old stallion Captain George and stepped him three heats in front of the other starters in 2:10¾, 2:09¼, 2:09¼. He could have made the last mile faster, putting up his mount between the distance stand and the wire to allow some of the stragglers to beat the red flag. The race showed that in the son of Admiral Dewey the $10,000 M. and M. trot at Detroit will have one more high class starter than was looked for.

Bervaldo, an ancient campaigner, was not quite good enough to take down what was left of the program for Murphy, but in the third mile of his race, the 2:12 trot, he was right at the winner at the wire in 2:08¼.

All Murphy's horses were well trained, well mannered and had the speed which their driver used with judgment at the right instant. He put off the drive for the first heat of the $5,000 pace until the homestretch was reached. Lady of Honor, which drew the pole, got a slight advantage at the start, and held it all the way, the quarter being passed in :30½, the half in 1:02½, and the three quarters in 1:33¾.

May Day Scores in Stretch.

Cox, with Branham Baughman, was in close attendance all the time, and the race seemed to be between those two until they were within a hundred yards of the finish, when suddenly May Day came out from the bunch back of them and was seen to be gaining. Murphy, his arms high in air, fairly set the pacer afire with speed, and in a flash she had passed Branham Baughman and was at Lady of Honor's wheel. It did not seem possible the chestnut mare could be beaten, but Murphy had timed his rush to the fraction of a second, and a step from the wire May Day's nose showed in front and 2:05 had been beaten.

In the second heat the same three horses were the only contestants, although May Day at all times had the track. They made her pace in 2:04¾ once more, but after that the run was out of them, and the third mile was easy for Murphy's mare in 2:05¼.

In the 2:30 trot Capt. George, which formerly was a bad mannered beast, never offered to make a mistake, and his easy way of going incited the crowd to applause as he came down the stretch in the final heat far ahead of the other starters.

Bettors Hit in 2:12 Event.

The 2:12 trot was a hard blow to the bettors who made Hallworthy a big favorite on the strength of his previous work. He took the word in the first heat far behind the rest of the field, and so far as could be seen had no speed, his positions being sixth, ninth, fifth. The winner, Major Strong, was not thought of as a serious contender, but he trotted three heats in 2:07¼, 2:07¼, 2:08¼, seeming to handle the field as he pleased in any part of the miles. The 4 year old colt Vito was a close second in the first two heats, making his finish far behind, and was well driven by Jimmy Benyon, who is only a boy in years.

There was a great sensation at the track during the morning workout hours when Guss Macey brought out the 3 year old trotter Colorado, and after some warming up heats, the best of which was in 2:15, drove him a mile in 2:06¼, which is a full half second better than the world's record for the age and gait, the 2:06¾ of General Watts made in October.

But Colorado did other things than beat the record. He trotted the third quarter of his phenomenal mile in :30, and in that quarter made a short break which unquestionably cost him something. The mile by quarters was :32¾, 1:05, 1:35, 2:06¼, and it was timed carefully by Geers, Chandler, and other experienced men who were sitting in the judges' stand. The time here given was recorded by Chandler's watch, but not a man at the wire made the mile slower than 2:07. Colorado is owned by George H. Estabrook of Denver and is in the big futurities. ARCHIBALD IN GREAT DRIVE.

Jockey Pilots Magazine Home by Five Lengths in Fleetwing Handicap at Empire City.

New York, July 28.—Magazine, well ridden by Archibald, won the Fleetwing handicap at Empire City today. Melisande, the 3 to 5 favorite, was poorly handled. Shilling rushed her up fast and raced head and head with Colloquy to the turn into the stretch, when the early effort began to tell and Magazine, coming with a rush on the outside, took the lead and won galloping by five lengths from Colloquy. C. A. A. MOTORISTS LEAD IN CLUB RUN

Cherry Circle Cars Penalized 9.81, While C. A. C. Machines Suffer 50.

BACK FROM ST. JOE TODAY

Mayor Hamlin and Entire Population of Buchanan Greet Autoists En Route.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

St. Joseph, Mich., July 28.—[Special.]—Cherry Circle motorists are in the lead for the interclub trophy as a result of the first day of the reliability team race between the Chicago Athletic association and the Chicago Automobile club. The C. A. A. motorists have only 9.81 points against them, while the present holders of the trophy are debited 50 points.

Ten of the thirteen drivers on the C. A. A. team made perfect scores while six of the eleven in the C. A. C. outfit went through without demerits. Both Captains Van Sicklen and Knisely suffered, while other unfortunates on the C. A. C. team were W. C. Atwell, R. O. Evans, J. T. Brown and L. E. Meyers. Besides Knisely, Wilson and Latham had black marks charged against them on the Cherry Circle side. Van Sicklen drew five points for fixing a chain; Knisely was given six points for taking on water.

Atwell Penalized Six Points.

Atwell was given six points for taking on water and a motor stop. Franklin was fined seventeen points for fixing a spring. Wilson drew four for a motor stop and taking on gasoline outside of controls. Latham killed his motor while pulling out of a bad spot after he had run off the course because of misleading confetti blown by the wind. For this he was handed two points.

Evans was assessed two points for fixing a fan belt. Brown killed his motor and was given one point, while Myers was late fifteen minutes and lost three points for motor stops, giving him a total of eighteen.

The run from Chicago to St. Joe, a distance of 132 miles, was the most enjoyable in the history of the match. To most of the contestants the route from Laporte here was unknown and everyone was delighted with the beautiful scenery and the fine roads. All along the route the country people displayed a lively interest in the affair and cheered the cars as they passed.

The one bright spot in the day was at Buchanan, where the enterprising Mayor Hamlin had the entire population of the town of 2,000 out to greet the motorists. Banners were hung on the main streets and a stop of twenty minutes was made in order to partake of light luncheon set out by Buchananites.

Scores of the Machines.

Immediately after dinner the judges, C. G. Sinsabaugh, Harry L. Clinton, and F. G. Westlake, made the following report:

Investors Warned Against the Alluring Promises of Stock Salesmen.

RARE PROMOTION METHOD

Facing a Mortality Record of 70 Per Cent, 229 Projects Are Launched in Year.

BY C. M. CARTWRIGHT.

The magnitude of the sales of stock of new insurance companies has caused many state insurance commissioners to issue public warnings apprising the people of the deceptions and misrepresentation of certain promoters. During this year an officially prepared list of new insurance promotions shows that the stock of 229 different companies in the incubating process has been offered to the public. The collapse of some of the most pretentious of these organizations has served as an indication of what may be expected of some others.

The first of the professionally promoted concerns was the Rhodus Bros.' gigantic system of Chicago, at the apex of which was the Republic Life Insurance company. Most of the forty-seven Rhodus institutions had some direct or indirect connection with the Republic Life. Insurance men charge the Rhoduses with educating most of the insurance stock salesmen that are now raiding the country.

At least, the underwriters say the Rhodus school was the fountain head of insurance stock salesmanship—where the teachers were educated. Many of the more conspicuous of the Rhodus attachés have within the last year or so branched out for themselves and started their own schemes, following in a measure the Rhodus system of stock salesmanship.

The Rhoduses, by the way, have departed from Chicago and are now in New York backing the American National Selling Organization and the Consolidated Life Securities company, the funds of which are to be used in starting a life insurance company.

Offers 96 Varieties of Insurance.

Insurance promoters are not content with concentrating their energies on a single company. The latest wrinkle is to have a holding company which shall own a number of insurance companies writing all classes. One concern, the United Insurance company, with offices in Chicago and New York, with an Arizona charter, proposes $10,000,000 capital and $6,000,000 surplus. Its prospectus announces that it will equal in insurance indemnity the number of varieties of a well known pickle firm in that it will hand out over the counter fifty-seven different kinds of insurance.

But Washington D. C., is to eclipse Chicago and New York, for in the capital city is being organized the Lincoln National Holding corporation which is to promote insurance companies that will write ninety-six different species of indemnity, some of the listed assortments being unknown to modern underwriters.

This promotion is headed by Congressman Harry M. Coudrey of St. Louis, it being his third plunge into the insurance projection sea. First he tried to organize the National Fire of St. Louis. This was abandoned and he then linked hands with one of the famous insurance incubator magnates, Harry B. Gardner. They opened elaborate offices in St Louis, where the International Fire and the Continental Assurance, the latter to write life and the various forms of casualty insurance, began extensive stock selling. Coudrey and Gardner parted company, each making serious charges against the other. Within the last few weeks these two concerns were placed in receivers' hands. Hearings are now now being conducted in St. Louis, the receivers endeavoring to force Gardner to disgorge some of the money he received from the stock selling propaganda.

New Projects in 5 Years Number 150.

The era of professionally promoted insurance companies began after the life insurance scandals in the east that came to light under the searching grill of Charles E. Hughes, now governor of New York. Public confidence was shaken by the excesses of the larger companies. This opened the way for promoters to start life insurance companies in various sections of the west and south. The "home company" argument was used effectively, prominent business men and capitalists became interested, and the people were attracted by the alluring statements found in prospectuses. The public gained the idea that the profits in the life insurance operations were enormous and all that was necessary to participate in the munificent earnings was to get in on the "ground floor" of a new company.

Since 1905 there have been many more new life companies started in this country than were projected in its entire career up to that time. Some 150 new life companies have entered the field as active competitors for business since 1905, and there are as many more in the process of organization.

Up to two years ago the promoters confined their work chiefly to establishing new life companies. The same system is now applied to fire insurance and casualty companies. In fact the entire domain of insurance indemnity is being covered by new company flotations. This is due to the Rhodus selling organization having been located in the city. Promoters of new companies came to Chicago to enlist salesmen in their cause and vied with each other in the commission paid. A salesmen's clearing house in Chicago passed the word around when a new promoter came to the city.

Big Pay for Stock Salesmen.

Many of the old time life agents, who flourished in the palmy days of rebating, high pressure methods, and special schemes before the atmosphere was cleared in New York by Charles E. Hughes, turned their attention to selling insurance stocks and became versed in that line. Many of them have made large sums of money owing to the high commissions paid for disposing of the stock and interesting prominent men to become officers and directors.

Some of the more energetic promoters have started three or four different organizations, abandoning the previous one when the directors found the expenses were eating up the funds gathered together for the capital.

The stock of new companies is put on the market, at two, two and a half, three, and sometimes five times the par value. Commissions to salesmen in many of these institutions run from 20 to 40 per cent and the promoter gets an overriding commission of 5 or 10 per cent. The par value of some stock is put at $1. After the salesmen have been in the field for a few weeks, it is announced the price of stock will advance in a few days. These arbitrary increases in market value are kept up as long as the salesmen can dispose of their wares.

How the Scheme Is Worked.

The promoter first seeks to interest some well known bankers, capitalists, business or professional men to become directors and officers. They are remunerated for the use of their names. Photographed letters of their indorsement of the enterprise are struck off by the thousand. Letters of introduction are carried by the salesmen from the directors to prominent men in other localities.

LATE WALL STREET NEWS AND GOSSIP.

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—The executive committee of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours company has recommended, in addition to the regular dividend of 2 per cent, an extra dividend of 4 per cent, to be paid Sept. 15, so that the annual distribution on the common stock for 1910 will be 12 per cent. The directors will act on the recommendation at the regular quarterly meeting next Wednesday.

A convention of all the general counsel of railroads throughout the United States has been called to meet at the Hotel Wentworth, Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 2, to discuss the new railroad bill. The call has been issued by Henry S. Stone, general counsel for the Louisville and Nashville, who has been designated chairman of the convention. At the present time sixty-five attorneys, representing forty-five railroads in the United States, have accepted the invitation. A number of questions regarding the interpretation of the bill have been submitted to various counsel in a letter sent out by Stone and requests are made by him for the submission of other questions which suggest themselves. It is the view of some counsel that the railroads are completely at the mercy of the interstate commerce commission in the matter of freight rate advances, unless some way can be seen to establish a practical basis of argument in favor of advances.

The Marconi Wireless Telegraph company Ltd. of London has declared an initial dividend of 7 per cent on the 7 per cent cumulative participating preference shares, payable on or before Aug. 1 to stock of record June 30. Coupon No. 1 may be lodged with the Marconi Wireless Telegraph of America for payment.

E. T. Bedford, president of the Corn Products Refining company and director of the Standard Oil company, takes a comparatively optimistic view of the business situation. He says:

"I do not believe pessimism in Wall street is warranted by the actual commercial and financial conditions of the country. From reports received by us from agricultural districts we are going to have at least an average crop. The Standard Oil company and Corn Products Refining company are doing the largest business in their history. The latter company is grinding at the rate of 100,000 bushels a day. The low prices that prevail for securities are due largely to unwarranted reports bearing upon general business and crops."

According to an official of the United Boxboard company, the figures for the first half of the present fiscal year will show a substantial increase in volume, ranging from 18 per cent to 20 per cent. In its operations this year the compay faces a deficit of $19,580. Earnings of subsidiary companies are expected to show an increase of 25 per cent over last year's figure of $33,089. Gross earnings this year, at the present rate of increase, will approximate $475,000, with a resulting net figure of about $168,000. Interest charges will be in the neighborhood of $152,000.

Following the action recently taken by directors of the New York Central and Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad companies, the Michigan Central directors, who met in this city on Wednesday, appointed William K. Vanderbilt Jr. assistant to President Brown. Similar action will be taken by other New York Central subsidiary lines whenever the next directors' meeting is held.

The American Shipbuilding company has declared a regular annual dividend of 4 per cent on the common stock and 4 per cent extra. The dividends are payable 2 per cent quarterly, beginning Sept. 1. This disbursement is from the earnings of the company for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1910.

It is understood leading selling agencies which have been selling copper at 12¾ cents a pound are now holding out for 12¾ cents. Indications of the intention of leading producers to reduce the output of their mines has stimulated fresh interest among consumers.

HOLD UP BRIDGE REMOVAL BILL

City Does Work and Contractor Asks Pay, It Is Alleged.

OFFICIAL ASKED TO EXPLAIN

Mullaney Waits Word from Engineer on Weed Street Span.

Because he used city equipment and city employés to do work for which a private contractor had been employed, Thomas G. Pihlfeldt, city bridge engineer, may find one of his pay envelopes short about $100.

The contractor submitted a bill for the entire amount of the work; but when the voucher for its payment reached Commissioner B. J. Mullaney of the public works department for his signature he sent it back to the bureau of engineering for further consideration. Unless the cost of the part of the work done by city employés is subtracted from the voucher or the difference is paid into the treasury in advance the voucher probably will not be signed.

Mullaney Seeks Explanation.

Commissioner Mullaney made no charges against Engineer Pihlfeldt, but as the work was done without the approval or notification of the department he has ruled that he is entitled to an explanation.

Commissioner Mullaney entered office on May 9. Shortly after his installation the matter of the removal of the center pier bridge in the north branch of the river at Weed street came to his attention. He found that the contract had been awarded to John J. Gallery for $1,348.

City Aids Remove Bridge.

On April 28 Bridge Engineer Pihlfeldt sent a city tug and barge to the bridge, floated the superstructure, and towed it away. Two days after he had begun the work he notified the contractor to begin it. Gallery later took the bridge from Fullerton avenue, where it had been left, to Wilson avenue, and then submitted his bill for $1,348 for the entire work of removal.

Commissioner Mullaney opened correspondence with Engineer Pihlfeldt, who stated that the work done by the city had cost $99.60 and that it was necessary because Gallery could not move the bridge immediately and the superstructure had to be out of the way so that the contractors for the removal of the substructure could complete their work before May 14, as they had guaranteed.

PLAN REPLY TO BUSSE ATTACK: CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION AROUSED

Cite Their Crusades to Offset Imputed Unfairness—Base Demands for Graft Suits on "Authorities."

Officers of the Citizens' association resent Mayor Busse's letter charging them with hasty judgment and unfairness in demanding suits by the city to recover shale rock and Cummings castings payments. They indicated they would have something—"plenty of it and worth the reading"—to recite later.

President Wilford C. Shurtleff and Secretary Shelby M. Singleton began examination of a pile of documents preparatory to a reply next Monday.

"The Citizens' association relies upon its record of the last thirty-five years," said President Shurtleff, "to disprove the mayor's assertion that our organization is unfair."

"The Citizens' association in writing Mayor Busse," said Secretary Singleton, "suggested action to recover for taxpayers of Chicago and Cook county about $100,000 which, in light of evidence, seemed to have found its way improperly, if not illegally, into pockets of certain individuals."

Having considered themselves conservative in action officers of the association pointed to their many crusades as evidence of their sincerity and calm judgment.

In answer to the mayor's contention that the city had profited in its dealings with the Cummings company by purchasing on requisitions instead of by contract, President Shurtleff cited the Merriam commission's report. The statements regarding Stewart avenue bridge, said Secretary Singleton, were made upon the "highest authority."

NOTES OF LABOR WORLD.

ST. LOUIS—H. B. Perham, president of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, says the award of the board of mediators in the demand of the telegraphers on the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain system will give the telegraphers and station agents of the two roads $50,000 increase in wages.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—An increase of 6 per cent, or an average of $5 a month, has been announced here by the board of arbitration which, under the Erdman act, has been considering the wage controversy between the Missouri Pacific railroad and its 1,200 telegraphers.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—A 6 per cent increase in wages, effective at once, has been granted the employés in the building and bridges department of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

WIDOW WOULD REGAIN $35,000

Mrs. Bull Has Two Alleged Swindlers Arrested in New York.

SAYS THEY FOOLED HER.

Declares She Bought Worthless Stock in Wildcat Company.

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—John E. Qualey was arrested at the Belmont hotel today on a warrant from Newport, R. I., charging him with swindling Mrs. Mary Nevins Bull, widow of the late Dr. William T. Bull, out of $35,000 with worthless stock. Qualey said he was a manufacturer and lived in New Rochelle.

Harvey Wiley Corbett of New York, who went to the Tombs court with Mrs. Qualey to see how Qualey came out, was arrested in court on the same charge.

Mrs. Bull had $50,000 life insurance money, in addition to her other interests in Dr. Bull's estate. Qualey and Corbett met her in Newport last June, in a jeweler's store. Qualey had been recommended to Mrs. Bull as a capable man, who might be of assistance in investing her money.

According to Charles L. Craig, Mrs. Bull's counsel, Qualey talked of his yacht in the bay at New Rochelle and of a cottage he was building in Newport, with the result that Mrs. Bull was impressed with his responsibility.

Asbestos Company Looks Good.

Then Qualey made mention, according to the lawyer, of contracts to deliver to Broadway builders the plaster he was manufacturing. Next came the story about the Magnesia Asbestos company, a Delaware corporation, of which he said he was president and Corbett treasurer.

The asbestos company, Craig says Qualey told Mrs. Bull, was organized in 1909 with an authorized capital of $4,000,000 common and $250,000 preferred stock. There were valuable plants at Newark, N. J., and at Neponset, Mass., which were turning out the company's product. Qualey told her, Craig avers, that Allan Ryan thought so well of the company that he was going to invest $1,000,000 in it. It seemed also that there were contracts with the United States government that were bringing in a lot of money.

Mrs. Bull decided to invest in Magnesia Asbestos and on June 21 made out a check to the order of Corbett as treasurer for $15,000, which, Craig says, was delivered to Qualey and cashed by him. In return for this she got 150 shares preferred and 300 shares common stock.

Second Check Caused Suspicions.

It is alleged that a second check for $20,000 was given Qualey on June 29 in payment for 200 shares preferred and 700 common.

Mrs. Bull doesn't know why she became suspicious, but when Qualey came back for more money she sent an agent to Neponset and got a report that there was no plant on the company's property there. There was a building at Newark, but according to Lawyer Craig the Magnesia Asbestos company didn't own it.

Mrs. Bull complained to the authorities in Newport that she had been swindled by means of false representations, and a warrant was issued.

MILKMEN IN NEED OF WATER—KIND THAT COMES FROM CLOUD

Lack of Rain Dries Up Pastures, Makes Corn Scarce, and Does Other Things to Curtail Supply.

Things have come to a pretty pass when the dairyman can't get water to lengthen out his milk supply, but that is just the situation today.

It is not "pump" water that is wanted—there is plenty of that—it is the kind furnished by old Mr. Pluvius. If it doesn't rain soon, all Chicago will be digging its milk out of a little tin can for coffee and breakfast foods, and as for the babies—well, rain is their only hope.

While it has not reached a famine yet, there are plenty of people who are not receiving their full daily quota of lacteal fluid. The small dealers cannot get enough from the wholesale houses to supply their customers. The wholesalers blame the dairymen, the dairymen blame the cows, and the cows are not inclined to give any more milk unless they get more to eat. Pastures are dried up, corn is scarce, and the new crop has not been harvested.

Chicago requires 240,000 gallons of milk a day, and it takes 120,000 cows to produce the supply when they are working full time. Some of the dairymen estimated yesterday that owing to the long drought the supply already had been cut down one quarter.

Hundreds of families have been unable for ten days to get the quantity of milk from their regular dealers which they have been accustomed to receive, and some have gone miles away from home.

Some of the large dealers say that so far they have been able to get enough to supply the requirements of their regular customers, but have none to give to small dealers who are not so fortunate. The smaller dealers have been forced to abandon some of their customers.

SHEDS NEW LIGHT ON RATE ADVANCES

Letter from Chicago Iron House to Purchasing Agent of a Railroad.

REACHES HANDS OF TAFT.

Reveals Dummy Proposal Scheme and Bares Cost of Lines' Materials.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 28.—[Special.]—Government officials have unearthed a live wire in the matter of the freight rate increases in official classification territory. This was a copy of a letter sent a purchasing agent of one of the railroads by a large Chicago manufacturer of malleable iron. The names of both parties to the correspondence have been kept secret.

Marked attention has been paid this letter because it is about the first sent President Taft by an individual shipper which expresses a disapproval of the advance in freight rates. Heretofore the mail to the president and to the interstate commerce commission has been choked with letters from individual shippers expressing a half-hearted approval of a "reasonable advance in rates." So far only the shippers' organizations have opposed the rate increases.

Letter Lays Bare Two Facts.

The letter that was unearthed today lays bare two facts. It shows the railroads have been sending dummy proposals to the manufacturers from whom they buy their supplies, asking that they announce an approval of a "reasonable advance in rates." It also gives some actual testimony to the effect that railroad materials have decreased in cost during the last thirty years.

The letter is as follows:

"We feel that an increase in freight rates at this time would be detrimental to us. We ship a good many of our goods long distances and have the freight to pay ourselves, having to make delivery prices on goods sold to New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, St Paul, and many other places. The result is that on many of our goods we have to forego sales because we cannot afford to pay the present existing freights. Consequently you can readily see that for the railroads to further advance them would be a further hardship to us.

"Further, we cannot agree with the statement in your stipulation that you sent us to sign. Our goods have gone down immensely in price since we first sold you small lots of castings from Rochelle while you were in Milwaukee. Malleable castings in 1880, when the writer started at Rochelle, brought 6¼@7 cents a pound.

Cites Figures on Pig Iron.

"The first pig iron we used there I think we paid $45 a ton for. Today malleable castings are selling for 3½ cents per pound and less in many cases, and pig iron is worth $18 a ton, and wages are materially higher than they were in 1880.

"We have cheapened the cost through improved methods and a larger output, notwithstanding the advance in common labor, and we believe the railroads today are handling their freight at a great deal less per ton per mile than they did thirty years ago, when wages were lower.

"Certainly, the roads have nearly all been able to make a good showing the last year, and we do not think it right to wring out of us any heavier profits.

"Further, increasing freight rates is not always a gain to the railroads, because each time you push up the rate you cut away some of your business and you cause factories to seek other localities. For instance, cast iron pipe fittings are now being made down at Birmingham, Ala., where they get cheaper iron and are able to put their goods into eastern cities.

Cannot Afford to Pay Freight.

"We feel we cannot afford to pay freight on our cast iron fittings to the east. The Crane company, the largest fitting manufacturer in the world, now makes its eastern goods and its California goods near New York City, so it does not pay the roads for hauling their fittings east, nor for hauling them to the far west.

"Railroads can take breakfast foods from Battle Creek to New York for 18 cents a hundred. They want, for our heavy and cheaper goods, 30 cents a hundred in car lots and seek to increase that to 35 cents, so you can see that we feel we are already taxed to the utmost and may be forced to start factories in other parts of the country in order to hold our trade."

This letter has opened up practically a new field for the investigation of the freight advances, and it is now believed the examiners who will be assigned to this work have a clew as to where they can find witnesses who can give accurate information as to the cost of materials to railroads during the last thirty years.

TRAFFIC EXPERTS PREPARE EVIDENCE TO AID SHIPPERS.

Data Will Be Used in Fight Before Commerce Commission Here Against Higher Freight Rates.

The committee of traffic experts representing the principal commercial organizations who are taking an active part in the campaign against increases in freight rates met at the Congress hotel yesterday. The meeting was for the purpose of making final arrangements for bringing evidence before the interstate commerce commission in defense of the shippers' position.

When the railroads present their arguments and statistics at the hearing in Chicago on Aug. 22 and at later hearings the shippers expect to be prepared with evidence to show that the railroads are not entitled to an advance in their revenues on their present showing of earnings.

Plans for raising a large fund to defray the expenses of the shippers' case and the selection of attorneys and accountants to present their arguments before the commission will occupy the attention of the committee today.

RULING ON LIABILITY BOARD.

Stead Holds Commission Created by Special Session Will End After Report to Gov. Deneen.

Springfield, Ill., July 28.—[Special.]—When the employers' liability commission created by an act of the special session of the legislature submits its report to Gov. Deneen on Sept. 15 next, its work will have been done and it will at once go out of existence.

Such is the holding of Attorney General Stead, who today issued an opinion on the subject to Gov. Deneen. The attorney general holds that the commission was created in a special act and for a specific purpose, that purpose to end when it makes a report to the governor relative to the industrial questions the commission was detailed to investigate.

The employers' liability questions were those the commission had in hand.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

On account of the unusual situation existing in regard to the July wheat a movement was on foot during the day to have the directors declare wheat in cars on track regular for delivery on contracts. Shippers and others are complaining because they are unable to obtain the full value for their wheat owing to the tardiness in getting it into regular houses.

Most of the regular elevators are busy and it is understood it will be impossible to take care of much of the wheat that was intended for delivery on July contracts. As it now stands the shippers and owners of contract wheat three days before the option expires are being forced to sell their grain at 3@4c under July price, which is decidedly abnormal condition.

It is expected the directors will have a meeting today to discuss the question and possibly take favorable action on the proposition. Shippers contend that it is unjust to them to be obliged to accept such a large discount under the July price for their wheat when it would be worth the same figure as the current month if it could be placed in store. If it is found that an injustice is being done, the directors will take cognizance of the situation probably and give the shippers and shorts who have the cash wheat relief.

In the next three days it is expected there will be close to 1,500,000 bu wheat in here on track, a large percentage of which will be contract grade. Some of the elevator interests would be willing to have the wheat on track declared regular themselves. The ill timed deal in July wheat is given the blame for the present unusual conditions, as ordinarily July would be at a discount under the September instead of more than 3c premium.

The relative position of the July and September wheat futures with the July at over 4c premium compared to the later month is suggestive of market manipulation to the majority of traders, especially as cash wheat, contract grades, is now only 1c premium over the September, with no demand of importance.

While many traders are bullish on the September on the theory that present prices are more than warranted by actual conditions, they do not like the tactics in the July and are afraid of a slump when the July is out of the way. There have been rumors that T. H. Waterman, whose operations in September, December, and May the last year were features of the trade, was the principal in the present July deal, but the best posted persons in the trade do not believe he is interested in the market to any large extent. Those familiar with Waterman's way of operating are firmly of the belief that it is not his deal, although it is probable he is long a little of the current future.

Peavey is supposed to own the bulk of the July line, and has been paying for most of the wheat delivered out. Some traders have had the opinion also that Armour was mixed up in the current operations, but this is not credited by well informed commission men.

Whether it is a Peavey deal solely or conducted by that house for some one of their numerous commission house clients is a question. Regardless of who is running the deal, however, the idea of continual manipulation in the market is not palatable to the trade, and there does not appear to be much of any excuse for an attempted squeeze in this month's wheat future.

While some of the bull houses in corn were flooding the market with sensational reports on the condition of the crop they were selling the cereal as fast as the market would take it without breaking wide open. The fact that rains in Iowa and Illinois had started farmers to sell cash corn freely had considerable to do with the selling fever.

Nearly all the big commission houses had quite a lot of corn to sell, and Barrell was credited with disposing of about 1,500,000 bu. Lamson, Wagner, and Clement-Curtis also sold freely. Traders as a rule were disposed to wait for confirmation of actual damage before taking hold again, especially as predictions were for cooler weather in the transmissisippi district.

With January product selling at a discount of 1½@2c under the near futures, provision men were not bullish on nearby stuff. The cash demand is not active at present, and the hog run, while not large comparatively, is apparently ample for the present needs. Some of the specialists believe the January stuff is too low compared to the nearby product and are not disposed to sell it, being of the opinion it will be more apt to work higher relative to the other.

Notice was posted during the day by the directors to the effect that a ballot vote of the members of the board of trade would be held in about thirty days on the proposition to erect a new building. The vote is in pursuance of the action taken at the public meeting held a week ago, and is the next step towards the completion of plans for formally taking definite and conclusive action on the matter. The vote will be on the proposition to give a holding company a 199 year lease, on terms satisfactory to the board of trade, and have such company erect and manage a building such as planned.

While tentative plans and drawings of a twenty-one or twenty-two story building have been on exhibition in the smoking room for some time, other architects have asked for the privilege to submit plans and estimates, and it is altogether probable that these will be considered before actual plans are decided upon.

C. A. King & Co. of Toledo, in a special report to THE TRIBUNE, said their special advices from a large Kentucky miller stated there had been a good deal of pooled wheat in Kentucky this season, and that the various mills had been asked to bid on it. In the territory tributary to the milling concern in question most of the wheat has now been sold, and in other counties trades have been made on account of this pooled wheat.

Much less wheat will be carried in the country on this account than usual, for such contracts require delivery generally within twenty days. Toledo wheat acceptances were very small Wednesday and yesterday, but were liberal early in the week.

BUSSE VISITS BLOCKED TUNNEL

Confers with Corporation Counsel; Downtown Traffic at Stake.

PILLARS OBSTRUCT BIG BORE

Expect Recommendations on Foreclosure Proceedings Today.

Mayor Busse will take a hand in settling the altercation between surface and elevated traction lines over the removal of obstructing pillars. He will have a conference today on the subject with Bion J. Arnold and with the corporation counsel. Two pillars of the Metropolitan elevated at Franklin and Van Buren streets, which block the entrance of the new Van Buren street tunnel, so big cars cannot get through, will be the immediate issue.

Mayor Busse and Ald. Milton Foreman, chairman of the transportation committee, accompanied by President John M. Roach and other officials of the Chicago Railways company, yesterday visited the tunnel to see how far work had progressed. It was discovered that with the exception of laying rails and pavement, the tunnel was completed. In twenty days it could be opened if the pillars were removed.

Tunnel Relieves Downtown Traffic.

As soon as the tunnel is opened cars now using Van Buren street bridge will be sent under the river, and this will aid in relieving traffic congestion.

At the suggestion of attorneys for the railway company, the meeting between city and traction attorneys and aldermen for discussion of the proposed ordinance for the Consolidated lines was postponed until today.

Judge Cutting has announced that he will give his decision in contest being waged by Mrs. Yerkes to withdraw her bonds from the reorganization plan.

Foreclosure Report Due Today.

Another legal step will be the filing with Judge Grosscup of the report of Master in Chancery Bishop on the foreclosure proceedings. Testimony in these proceedings, which Master Bishop has been hearing for the last ten days, was completed, and it is believed the master's recommendations will be ready. Issuance of a decree for foreclosure sale will follow filing of this report, unless some contending security holders seek and are granted a further hearing.

Edward Burling, attorney for the certificate holders, is preparing to file his bill to enjoin the consolidation just as soon as the definite plan is announced.

MINE MEN VOTE TO STAY OUT.

Opposition to Strike Compromise Proposal Causes Alarm to the Illinois Operators.

Springfield, Ill., July 28.—[Special.]—Stunned by the unexpected force of opposition to the Indianapolis strike compromise proposal, Illinois mine operators do not know where to turn.

It is now evident the influence of the state officials of the union will defeat the proposition unless something can be done to change their course. Suggestion is made that John Mitchell be called in, although it is doubtful whether he could do anything at this time.

The miners are casting an overwhelming vote against the acceptance of the compromise. The returns tonight at state headquarters stand 12,014 against acceptance of the Lewis compromise and only 178 in favor of it. Only one local—No. 620, located at La Salle—has thus far ratified the compromise.

Sixty locals have voted unanimously against the compromise, in one local the vote running 685 to 0 against the matter. The votes must all be in by next Wednesday night, and the result probably will not be known until Friday.

Members of the Illinois Coal Operators' association will meet in Chicago tomorrow to discuss the situation. National President Lewis and members of the national executive board of the union, who approved the compromise, and against whom the state organization is in revolt, will be present. An effort will be made, too, to draw into the conference the independent mine operators, who have declined to hold out against the Peoria scale.

COTTON MILLS IN BIG MERGER

New England, New York, and Baltimore Interests Join.

CAPITAL IS $20,000,000.

Twenty-two Plants in Largest Consolidation of Kind.

New York, July 28.—New England, New York, and Baltimore mill owners, bankers, and capitalists incorporated today the International Cotton Mills corporation, under the laws of New York, with an authorized capital of $10,000,000 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock and $10,000,000 common stock. It is the biggest consolidation of the kind ever attempted.

A statement issued by Myron C. Taylor, president of the new corporation, says textile mills, sales and distributing agencies, in the United States and Canada which manufacture and sell 3,000 varieties of cotton fabrics are included in the merger.

Twenty-two Mills Included.

The properties consolidated represent twenty-two mills and thirty-five principal brands, owning 10,000 acres of land, part of which is under cotton cultivation, and employing 10,000 hands, with an aggregate annual output of approximately $18,000,000.

Among them are the Stark mills of Manchester, N. H., the Mount Vernon Woodbury Cotton Duck company, the Consolidated Cotton Duck company, the Boston Yarn company, the Bay State Cotton corporation, the Eastern mills, and the Maryland mills.

President Taylor is head of the American Commercial corporation and a director of the Bay State Cotton corporation, the Boston Yarn company, the Lowell Weaving company, the Mercantile corporation and other interests in the trade.

Other Officers of Merger.

Other officers are Charles M. Warner, New York; Thomas M. Turner, New York, and P. T. Jackson, Boston, vice presidents; J. D. Armitage, Boston, general manager; Augustus P. Loring, Boston, treasurer; David H. Carroll, Baltimore, secretary, and S. Davies Warfield, Baltimore, chairman of the board of directors.

All the officers are named as directors, in addition to a number of prominent men in New England, New York City, and Baltimore.

The big cloth mills of Fall River, New Bedford, Rhode Island, Lowell, Lawrence, and Manchester, N. H., with the exception of the Stark plant, are not connected with the new corporation.

CHAIRMAN OF THE FRISCO PLEADS FOR GOOD ROADS.

B. F. Yoakum Tells Congress at Niagara Falls Government Should Undertake Improvement of Highways.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 28.—The third annual convention of the national good roads congress was opened here today, to continue through Saturday.

B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, delivered the principal address of the day.

"Government statistics tell us that it costs our farmers 15c more to haul one ton one mile in this country than it costs in European countries," said Mr. Yoakum. "The products of the farms of the United States last year amounted to approximately 250,000,000 tons. The government shows the average haul of a ton was nine miles. This difference of 15 cents a ton per mile represents an additional cost of $1.35 a ton for an average haul of nine miles.

"Estimating that two-thirds of the agricultural products of last year were hauled away from the farms, there would have been a saving to the American farmers of $225,000,000 if our roads had been up to the standard of European roads, not including their back haul of supplies from the stations to the farms. They would also have saved large sums in the cost of replacing and repairing harness, wagons, etc., and in the investment and care of extra draft stock."

GIGANTIC PLANS DAZE FINANCIERS

Pearson's Collapsed Syndicate Would Have Fought Biggest Moneyed Men.

WAS DREAM OF MILLIONS.

Railroad World Wonders What Use Purchasers Will Make of the Holdings.

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—The audacity of the transaction by which Dr. F. S. Pearson, Percival Farquhar, and their associates hoped to gain control of an American transcontinental railroad system stood out in even bolder relief when more facts became known today.

Their operations were on even a greater scale than first reported. Altogether, long before the resources of the syndicate were impaired, they had bought stocks in roads in the proposed system to an amount certainly in excess of 950,000 shares and representing cash payments of quite $50,000,000.

These figures only hint at the magnitude of the undertaking. In the course of the development of the scheme the adventurers must perforce have encountered every big group of financiers in most of the powerful railroad systems in the United States.

Must Have Fought Moore and Reid.

In securing control of the Rock Island they must have had a bitter contest with W. H. Moore and D. G. Reid, men who in at least one bitter fight got the best of E. H. Harriman. In developing the Lehigh Valley according to their plans they must have incurred the bitter hostility of the Reading, Jersey Central, Lackawanna, and Erie.

In the Wabash as an outlet to the coast they could have had a joyous battle with the New York Central system on one side and the Pennsylvania on the other, to say nothing of other trunk lines like the Baltimore and Ohio.

In the west they threw down the gauntlet first to the Goulds, from whom they proposed to take their choicest possessions. They disdained the power of James J. Hill, who doesn't want any transcontinental system while he controls the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, and the Burlington.

Finally they recked not of the wishes of that richest of all systems, the Union Pacific, with which they proposed to open a sharp struggle.

Left Kuhn-Loeb Out of Account.

Nor did they seem to take into the reckoning the bankers for the Union Pacific and Pennsylvania, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., into whose hands the syndicate finally fell.

As the transaction stands now, although Dr. Pearson and Mr. Farquhar retain a diminished interest in the securities which the syndicate bought, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have absolute control of them and Otto H. Kahn, the banker who was Harriman's most trusted adviser and closest confidant, is sitting on the lid of his strong box, wondering what he will do with them.

It may be stated authoritatively that up to the present Kuhn, Loeb & Co. consider the matter as a banking transaction and have no plan for using the variegated assortment of securities for railroad aggrandizement.

The syndicate headed by them has as its principal English participant Sir Ernest Cassell, often regarded as fiscal agent and adviser of the crown.

Opposed to Any Disturbance.

Other foreign houses of high standing are members. All of them, like the New York bankers, have diverse interests in American railroads. It may be taken as assured that none of them desires at this time any disturbance in the cordial relations existing among all the important railroads and bankers in the United States.

The explanation given was that it was to prevent trouble in the railroad world and restore normal conditions in the stock market, badly demoralized by the Pearson-Farquhar liquidation, that the securities were taken over.

It was so far a purely simple banking transaction. Nevertheless, now the securities have been taken over, the syndicate finds itself in control of a block of Rock Island stock said to be greater than the Moore-Reid holdings, a large slice of Lehigh Valley, and Wabash and Missouri Pacific that probably are big enough to call the Goulds.

Holdings Have Potentialities.

"The holdings have potentialities," so it was authoritatively declared today. "They could not affect control of the Lehigh Valley, but they might eventually produce a dominant voice in Rock Island and, combined with other interests in Wabash and Missouri Pacific, might change those roads, and particularly the Gould Pacific coast extension, into close allies of the Union Pacific.

"But no plan whatever in any of these directions is contemplated. Now, and undoubtedly for a long time to come, the holdings simply will stand for peace in the railroad world and stability in the markets for railroad securities."

As the audacity of the Pearson venture loomed up more boldly today it became known that the venturesome one of the syndicate [illegible] was not Dr. Pearson, the celebrated engineer and builder, but Percival Farquhar, generally supposed to have been a dull English follower of the brilliant engineer. It was he, not Dr. Pearson, that supplied the imagination, and one of the bankers who dealt with him declares his imagination was astounding.

Farquhar a Unique Character.

Mr. Farquhar in his early days was a Tammany assemblyman, Wall street speculator, and man about town, and later a soldier of fortune in South America, and promoter of South American enterprises. He now is a capitalist of France, Brazil, England, United States, and the world generally, with headquarters in Paris. When his name first came out in connection with the transcontinental venture no one recognized him as the Farquhar who left New York twelve years ago.

Yet this audacious, intrepid invader of the American railroad field is the same Farquhar that was born in York, Pa., in 1868, was graduated from Yale with the class of 1883, and the Columbia Law school three years later.

The banker who noted that Farquhar had the most astounding of all imaginations noted also he had a remarkable power of impressing his ideas upon others.

Farquhar as a Spender.

So sanguine was Mr. Farquhar of the success of his American undertaking that he had no more than begun to purchase stock in the roads than he and Dr. Pearson sought to acquire before he bought costly residences in Paris and New York.

The house he purchased in Paris was that owned by Rudolph Kann, possessor of a famous art collection. In New York he bought a place at 1080 Fifth avenue, a corner on a block south of Carnegie's.

Neither Dr. Pearson nor Mr. Farquhar, bankers said today, needs to worry about the high cost of living, even though the American railroad venture came to grief. Some of their associates were more severely crippled. Most of them were men of rather moderate means in Paris and were brought into the syndicate by Mr. Farquhar. The latter was confident of the success of the venture up to recently.

WHEAT TRADERS FEAR A SQUEEZE

July Deal Annoys Speculators and Causes Free Covering in September.

COUNTRY SALES LIGHTER.

Heavy Selling of Long Corn and Oats Starts Severe Slump in Values.

Manipulation of the July wheat gave that future an advance of 1c yesterday, but the September finished ½c down, and December and May were off 1@1⅛c and 1¼@1⅜c respectively.

The congestion in the July caused September shorts to sit up and take notice, as the country acceptances of wheat showed a big falling off in all directions, and there were not such rosy visions of accumulating stocks here and at other winter wheat markets. Consequently while the July gained more relatively than the other months, the September also gained on the deferred deliveries quite perceptibly.

Cash men were disappointed in the amount of wheat bought and said farmers were indifferent. If there is no accumulation during the winter wheat movement the prospects for bearish developments during the next few months are none too good, as it is not expected there will be free marketing from the small spring wheat crop.

Country Purchases Decrease.

It has been the experience of the last few years that if the winter wheat farmers do not sell freely at the start the movement thereafter is intermittent and generally light. As Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, and Toledo all had the same story to tell of decreasing acceptances it stimulated considerable buying.

Evidences were not lacking that some of the larger interests are accumulating September wheat as rapidly as possible without boosting values at this time. Efforts are being made to attract a fair stock of wheat here and at the same time build up a speculative line of substantial proportions.

The predicament of the shorts in July is also creating uneasiness among the sellers of September. New wheat sold here on the basis of 1c over the September, or at a still greater discount under the July than on the previous day.

Heavy Buying of September.

Buying on the dips was regarded as of a good character. Armour was credited with buying about 1,500,000 bu selling December at times. Peavey bought September early, but sold near the close. J. Rosenbaum Grain, Lake, Cutten, Barrell, and Logan were buyers on the decline. Wagner, Roberts, Noyes-Jackson, Lamson, and Lake were sellers on the swell.

Primary receipts aggregated 1,242,000 bu, against 1,085,000 bu a year ago, and receipts here were 398 cars, with 463 cars the estimate for today. Northwestern points and Winnipeg continue to receive a large quota of wheat compared to a year ago. Liverpool came ¼d lower at the close.

Berlin was 1c lower; Budapest ⅛c better, and Antwerp ⅝c off. Argentine shipments were fairly large, being estimated at 1,200,000 bu, considerably larger than for the same week a year ago. Weather in Argentine was reported favorable.

Deluge of Corn Offerings.

A steady deluge of corn was on tap throughout the day and it appeared as if every bull in the trade had made up his mind to unload regardless of prices. Prices at the finish were 1⅞@2⅜c lower, and were not far from the low point of the day.

The main influence was the increased offerings of corn from the country, reflecting the rains in Illinois and Iowa. While there were continued bad reports from the southwest these were accorded less consideration inasmuch as cooler weather was predicted, and traders were inclined to wait developments a little longer.

Cables were also weak, Liverpool being 1@1⅛c lower. Cash demand slow and prices were ½@1½c lower, with sales of 200,000 bu for shipment. Receipts were 161 cars, with 158 cars inspected. Selling was led by Wagner, Barrell, Bartlett-Frazier, Lamson, and Clement-Curtis. Buying was scattered. Argentine shipments were estimated at 4,000,000 bu. Primary arrivals were 302,000 bu, compared to 468,000 bu a year ago.

Big Break in Oats Prices.

Liquidation was the main feature in oats and holders sold freely influenced by the same course of procedure in the corn market as well as by the glowing reports from the country of big yields and liberal sales. At the close net losses of 1@1⅜c were registered.

The demand came principally from shorts. Cash prices were 1@2c lower. Sales were 150,000 bu for shipment. Arrivals at primary points were 552,000 bu, compared to 220,000 bu a year ago, and local arrivals were 147 cars, with 129 cars the estimate for today.

Easy Tone in Provisions.

Provisions were easy in sympathy with grain as well as with the lower prices at the yards. Receipts were finally counted here at 21,000, which was 5,000 more than the estimate and prices at the yards were about 10c lower. Hog packing in the west for the week was estimated at 395,000 bu, compared to 375,000 a year ago.

Western receipts of hogs were 62,500, against 61,500 a year ago. Receipts of products here were 21 cars; shipments, 83 cars. It was reported that considerable lard is being consigned to foreign markets in first hands. The general cash trade is quiet.

Not Much Change in Rye.

Rye was steady. September closed at 76c bid and 78c asked and December at 77c bid and 80c asked. Cash No. 2 was quoted at 78c; No. 3 at 70@77c, and No. 4 at 60@69c. No receipts were estimated.

Barley was without change. Malting grades ranged at 55@70c; mixing at 50@55c, and screenings at 35@54c. Receipts were estimated at 12 cars.

Timothy seed was firm. September and October were $6 bid, with the latter offered at $6.25. March was $6.10 bid.

Flaxseed in Duluth was unchanged to 2c higher. July closed at $2.50; September at $2.45, and October at $2.32½. Receipts were 12 cars. Minneapolis was 2c higher with cash on track $2.45. Receipts were 2 cars.

AMERICAN GRAIN MARKETS.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 28.—WHEAT—The market was easier today, although a stubborn tone ruled when it is considered that there was heavy selling by some of the leading local interests. The absence of any good cash demand and favorable thrashing reports from southern Minnesota tended to encourage bears. July closed ⅜c lower than yesterday, September ⅞@1c lower, and December ⅞c lower. Local elevator stocks decreased 490,000 bu for five days. Minneapolis received 139 cars of wheat, against 105 cars a year ago; Duluth, 45 cars, against 36 cars; and Winnipeg, 117 cars, against 37 cars. July opened $1.22¼; high, $1.23; low, $1.22; close, $1.22. September opened $1.13¾; high, $1.13½; low, $1.12¼; close, $1.12⅜@1.12½. December opened $1.11⅝; high, $1.11½; low, $1.10⅝; close, $1.10⅝. Cash wheat was demoralized on account of the liberal offerings and the continued indifferent demand. Premiums were easier and in a wide range. No. 1 northern sold for 6½@12c above the September, the majority going for 8@11c above. Closing cash prices: No. 1 northern, $1.22; to arrive, $1.17½; No. 2 northern, $1.18@1.19; to arrive, $1.14½; No. 3 wheat, $1.15@1.17. CORN—No. 3 yellow, 62@63c. OATS—No. 3 white, 42@43c. RYE—No. 2, 72@74c. MILLSTUFF—Shipments, 11,819 tons; no quotable change; market strong and active. FLAX—Receipts, 2 cars; year ago, 1 car; shipments, 2 cars; demand continued strong for both spot and to arrive flaxseed at the even Duluth September price; closing price, $2.45. BARLEY—Receipts, 25 cars; year ago, 24 cars; shipments, 19 cars; the market held about steady today; demand was slow for all grades at steady prices; closing range, 55@65c. BRAN—In 100 lb sacks, $20.00@20.50. FLOUR—Prices were lowered again today on account of the decline in futures and cash premiums; demand showed some slight improvement and shipments continued heavy; shipments, 43,392 brls; first patents [in wood, f. o. b. Minneapolis], $5.80@6.00; second patents, $5.60@5.80; first clears, $4.45@4.55; second clears, $3.20@3.50.

NEW YORK, July 28.—FLOUR—Quiet and a shade easier; receipts, 17,822 brls; shipments, 14,370 brls; rye flour steady. CORNMEAL—Quiet; coarse, $1.45@1.50; kiln dried, $3.60. RYE—Nominal; No. 2 western, 86c, old, f. o. b. BARLEY—Nominal; malting, 68@72c, c. i. f. Buffalo. WHEAT—Spot easy; new No. 2 red, $1.08 elevator, to arrive, c. i. f., and $1.09¼ f. o. b.; No. 1 northern, $1.30⅝ f. o. b. Heavy selling on favorable thrashing returns and lower cables sent wheat prices down early, but the market rallied on reports of better export demand and sales of 3 loads at New York and outports, but again declined on more favorable reports regarding prospective spring wheat yields, closing at ⅜@1⅛c net decline; September, $1.08⅝@1.09 13-16, closed $1.09; December, closed $1.11. Receipts, 32,200 bu; shipments, 37,774 bu. CORN—Spot easy; No. 2, 73½c nominal, elevator, domestic basis, to arrive, c. i. f. ACTIVE TRADING IN COTTON

CROP ADVICES ARE BULLISH.

Net Advance of 5 to 11 Points at End of the Day's Session.

New York, July 28.—While there was no such sensational fluctuations in July cotton as yesterday, the market continued active today and ruled generally higher, with December and later positions making new high records for the season on a broadening general demand attributed to bullish reports from the new crop and talk of an improvement in the demand for cotton goods. The close was steady at a net advance of 5@11 points.

The market opened firm at unchanged prices on July, but generally 8@13 points higher on steady cables, continued dry weather in the southwest, and a rush of over night covering orders. Realizing was heavy around the initial figures, and, while July steadily improved after opening at 15.90c, the later months worked off 9@10 points from the best in the middle of the day under profit taking for over the week end and the government report.

Crop Advices Bullish.

Private crop advices continued bullish, however, with a condition report issued by a prominent local authority indicating a deterioration of fully 5 per cent in the last month, and offerings were so well absorbed on moderate reactions as to suggest a general scaling down of new crop views. Many early sellers who found their offerings so well absorbed turned to replace their cotton in the late trading, and, while the close was a little off from the best, there was at no time any sign of weakness. It was estimated that July notices for over 80,000 bales were issued during the morning, making nearly 200,000 bales that had been tendered the bulls since the 1st of the month, but these notices were quickly stopped, and July sold at 16.05c, or 15 points above the closing figures of last night, with the close at 15.98c bid. Tomorrow will be the last day of trading in July, and sentiment was still nervous in the late trading owing to the apprehensions that there might yet be some belated short interests.

Southern spot markets were ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher. Receipts of cotton at the ports today, 2,444 bales, against 7,998 bales last week and 2,510 bales last year; for the week, 30,000 bales, against 56,441 bales last week and 18,401 bales last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans, 491 bales, against 468 bales last year, and at Houston, 157 bales, against 80 bales last year.

Spot closed quiet, 20 points higher; middling uplands, 16.05c; middling gulf, 16.30c. Sales, 23,052 bales. Quotations on futures:

DOWNWARD SHOOT IN HOGS

Packers Play Waiting Game, Then Get Busy at New Prices.

SMALL CHANCE FOR $9 HOG.

Steer Market Is Off, but Sheep Remain on Steady Basis.

Waiting tactics of the packers were rewarded yesterday when the Chicago hog market took a downward shoot of 10@15c. Killers, who had held off as much as their immediate trade requirements allowed them to on the preceding day, took advantage of the reduction in prices to amass generous droves, and the market had a fairly active tone, although values were not allowed to rally from the decline.

A leftover supply of 6,700 hogs, combined with fresh receipts of 20,000 head, placed the trade at the mercy of the leading packers and prices displayed a downward tendency from the outset. The nine dollar hog just got a look in, only one load and a small parcel reaching the mark, and withdrew from circulation before the last round.

Speculators were timid operators, while shippers contented themselves with 3,500 head, taking mostly pigs and underweight light hogs. Around 6,000 head were again left unsold and sentiment was bearish at the close. Quotations:

Bulk of sales	$8.45@8.70

Average price of hogs at Chicago, $8.56, against $8.69 on Wednesday, $8.51 a week ago, $7.47 a year ago, and $6.52 two years ago.

Eleven markets received 63,000 hogs, against 56,000 a week ago, 57,600 a year ago, and 44,600 two years ago. Total for 1910 to date 11,644,000, against 14,510,000 the same period in 1909.

CATTLE.

Native steer trade was distressed, and further reductions of 10@15c were made before a clearance of a melange of common quality, sunburned cattle was effected. Receipts were placed at 6,000 head and there were several loads of steers left from the preceding day. Sales at higher than $6.75 were not numerous, however, and a larger proportion of the supply had to sell at $6.00 and lower than on any previous Thursday in months.

A little more life was noticed in the market for butcher stock, but values did not recover any of the losses suffered earlier in the week. Canners were disposed of at buyers' own prices, and cutters had to possess a certain amount of kill before they were considered as such.

Bulls held steady and there was good demand for prime veal calves, although plain, light calves continued to be discriminated against. Weakness pervaded the market for stockers and feeders, and there were hundreds of loads pressing on sale at unusually low prices. Quotations:

Beef steers, good to choice	$7.00@8.20
Beef steers, plain to good	4.75@7.00
Range beef steers	4.75@6.50
Beef cows, good to choice	4.50@5.00

Calves, common to choice heavy	3.00@4.75
Good to prime veals	7.50@8.75
Feeding steers	4.00@5.75
Bulls	3.00@5.25

Cattle at six western markets, 25,800, against 28,000 a week ago, 17,600 a year ago, and 15,800 two years ago. Total for 1910 to date, 4,132,000, against 4,008,000 the same period in 1909.

SHEEP.

Sheep and yearlings held on a steady basis, while lambs came in for another decline of 25c, bringing the loss for the week thus far to 75c@$1.00. Receipts of 16,000 head included a much larger proportion of lambs than of sheep and yearlings, while the reverse was true of orders, packers being in more urgent need of matured stock than they were of lambs.

Killers' indifference towards lambs was attributed to a sharp increase in arrivals and a big break in prices at Louisville. Salesmen realized at an early hour that lower prices were inevitable and they showed little hesitancy in reducing values. Packers had little outside competition to contend with, however, and, knowing that the supply on the market was ample for all requirements, they staid out until 11 o'clock before filling orders. There were no feeding lambs offered for sale. Quotations:

Range ewes	3.75@4.25
Range wethers	4.10@4.50
Breeding ewes	3.90@5.50
Bucks	2.75@3.25
Yearlings	4.50@5.75
Native lambs	5.75@7.00
Range lambs	6.00@7.00
Feeding lambs	5.75@6.15
Feeding yearlings	4.50@5.15
Feeding wethers	3.50@4.00

Receipts for July 29 were estimated at 3,000 cattle, 16,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep, against actual arrivals of 1,482 cattle, 8,138 hogs, and 8,595 sheep for Friday, July 30, 1909.

STOCKYARDS GOSSIP.

Local packers purchased 16,600 hogs, of which Armour & Co. took 5,300 head, besides having 200 head direct from an outside point.

Cattle receipts this week will aggregate close to 69,000 head and will stand the largest weekly arrivals since last January.

Dressed beef prices are remaining stationary, while cattle values have taken a drop of 50@75c so far this week.

Packers had 8,000 lambs direct from Louisville, which brought the number of directs for the week to 21,000 head.

Packers bought native lambs at up to $7.00, while country buyers paid $5.15 for feeding yearlings.

Hogs left over unsold from Wednesday's market were officially counted at 6,703 head.

There were 500 Texan and no western cattle received. Good beef steers were unusually scarce.

Light Receipts Are Cause of an Advance in Values for Vegetables, Fruits, and Berries.

A sale of a full carload of St. Louis tomatoes at $2.00@2.50 a bu easily was the feature of the vegetable trade, the prices secured being $1.00@1.50 higher than was obtained for small lots of the same class of stock earlier in the week.

U. S. AIDS CITRUS RAISERS.

California Growers Save $1,500,000 Annually by Help of Department of Agriculture.

Washington, D. C., July 28.—More than $1,500,000 is being saved annually to the citrus fruit growers of California as a result of experiments being conducted by the department of agriculture into the handling and transporting of oranges, lemons, limes, and kindred varieties of fruits.

This was the statement made by G. Harold Powell, assistant chief of the bureau of plant industry, who returned today from an extended trip to the Pacific coast, where he went to investigate the results of experiments.

The dry farming experiments, which he also inspected, he considers of the utmost value, because they will be the means of spelling success to settlers who otherwise in the majority of cases would reap nothing but failure from their efforts to make the desert blossom.

BUYERS ALOOF; FLOUR DROPS

Lower Priced Wheat Aids Anticipated Break Before Aug. 1.

CANNED SALMON OVERSOLD.

High Tides Curtail Supply, but Fishermen Are Optimistic.

An anticipated break in the price of flour is the latest development of interest to the wholesale grocery trade.

"I predict there will be a break before the first of the month," said the well posted flour buyer of one of the leading wholesale grocery houses yesterday. Buyers have been holding aloof from the high prices set by leading Minneapolis millers, and this, with the indications of lower priced wheat, will undoubtedly have a tendency toward lower quotations on flour. The retail trade has not been buying heavily at the advanced figures—$6.80 for family patents."

Rice is in good demand at firm prices. Demand for canned goods and dried fruits shows no sign of let up, with prices remaining firm in consequence.

From Portland, Ore., comes the report that the canned salmon market is heavily oversold and that from present indications many orders cannot be filled. The report continues that the run of salmon during the recent few days shows a heavy curtailment. This is due almost entirely to high tides, according to fishing interests, but lower tides are expected during the next few days. According to salmon interests it is almost impossible to pick up supplies now. Some who have sold more fish than they can possibly expect to pack, unless there is an enormous increase of supplies, have been trying to purchase from others. The recent sale of some early Alaska salmon at $1.15 has stimulated the entire canned salmon market. This, however, is in line with the advance of 10c in price of Columbia river canned fish at the opening.

CUDAHYS MOVE TO CHICAGO.

Omaha Home Is for Sale and Announcement of Transfer Is Made.

The $50,000 residence of Edward A. Cudahy, head of the Cudahy Packing company at Omaha, is for sale, and it is probable that between now and the first of the year the entire sales department of the Cudahys will be transferred to Chicago with over 100 men.

"We consider Chicago," said Edward A. Cudahy at Omaha yesterday, "the center of our business. We are considering the transfer of our selling force to Chicago, but the change will not be made until fall."

To consolidate the sales organization of the big packing company is now the policy planned by the company. The purpose is increased efficiency and decreased expense.

PLAN TO SETTLE CAR FARE WAR.

Maynard J. Follin, Associate of Hazen S. Pingree, Would Corner Stock of Detroit Line.

Detroit, Mich., July 28.—[Special.]—To settle a fifteen year battle for lower street car fares in Detroit by obtaining a corner on the stock of the Detroit United railway, is the plan of Maynard J. Follin, who helped Hazen S. Pingree start the battle when Pingree was mayor. Follin has talked the scheme to the aldermen for ten months and has won thirty of the thirty-six over to it. Mayor Breitmeyer, however, turned him down. The scheme is to buy a majority of the stock on behalf of the city, thus obtaining control and the power to fix fares as the council pleases. Whether a majority of the stock can be obtained on the market Mr. Follin is unable to state.

CLOSING OF POOL TONIC TO MARKET

AUTO MAKERS PROSPER.

Additional Expansion Is Shown in Capital Increase of Chalmers Motor Company.

Announcement of the closing out of the foreign pool in Rock Island and other securities was the most favorable development that has transpired in the market and banking situation in months. The advance which followed in securities was accompanied by an unusual improvement in banking sentiment. So closely allied now is the money situation with the temper of New York bankers, who in turn are influenced by the market, that the importance of the elimination of the foreign pool was out of the ordinary.

It could be perceived at the banks yesterday that the feeling was more cheerful than over any happening since the beginning of the year.

That Chicago financial sentiment should be so improved was not due to any direct money interest in the affairs of the Pearson pool, but it was recognized that New York sentiment had been lifted so materially that the feeling would spread to the important industrial interests whose finances center in New York. This means the railroads, the United States Steel corporation, and other large concerns.

Stocks' Decline Disturbs Credit.

When stocks go down their fall is accompanied by shrinkage in collateral, the calling of loans and such general disturbance of credit, that the New York banks for the time being decline to consider new propositions involving either money or credit.

So many unexplained situations were cleared by the closing up of the Pearson pool that local bankers could easily appreciate what had been hanging over the New York situation. Locally, also, it was recalled that Mr. Pearson was in Chicago less than three weeks ago endeavoring to sell Rock Island bonds. The extent of his difficulty was not known, but the rumors of trouble such as pervade banking circles and cause apprehension without definite knowledge, were current.

Unless there is something further which may develop as a menace to money sentiment, the present brightening of the situation should be reflected in changed business sentiment in many directions.

More Automobile Expansion.

The Chalmers Motor company has declared a cash dividend of 30 per cent on the outstanding stock and a further stock dividend of 1,000 per cent, raising the capital stock from $300,000 to $3,000,000.

This declaration on the part of the company closely follows the announcement of a probable increase of General Motors company stock by a 500 per cent stock dividend. Further evidence of automobile prosperity is found in new incorporations for the manufacture of automobiles and accessories that have been announced in the last few days, totaling nearly $2,000,000 fresh capital and capital increases by seven firms, increases alone totaling nearly $6,000,000.

Western Gas and Electric.

The report of the Western United Gas and Electric company of Chicago for the four months ended April 30 compares as follows with the corresponding period of 1909:

Nevada Copper Earnings.

The Nevada Consolidated Copper company's report for the quarter ended June 30 shows a production of 18,173,676 pounds, which compares with 9,721,873 pounds produced in the corresponding period of 1909. Operations for the first nine months of the fiscal year have resulted in the production of 44,672,064 pounds of copper and a net credit to the surplus account, after providing for three quarterly dividends and depreciation of the Steptoe plant of $317,834. The surplus on June 30 was $401,317, a decrease of $193,603.

Dividends Declared.

The Consolidated Gas company of New York has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1 per cent, payable Sept. 15 to stock of record Aug. 17. This rate has been in existence since 1906, when the rate was 5 per cent. Prior to that the rates ran between 5½ and 8½ per cent.

The Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company has raised the dividend rate from an 8 to a 12 per cent annual basis by declaring a quarterly dividend of 3 per cent, payable Aug. 2 to stock of record July 31. The last previous declaration was on May 2, 2 per cent regular quarterly and 1 per cent extra.

The executive committee of the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours Powder company has recommended that in addition to the regular dividend of 2 per cent an extra dividend of 4 per cent be paid Sept. 15 to common stockholders of record Sept. 1.

Sault Ste. Marie Canal Traffic.

The annual statistical report of lake commerce passing through the Sault Ste. Marie canals last year shows a total of 57,895,149 tons carried, against 25,236,810, an increase of 129 per cent in the ten years since 1899.

Of the 1909 tonnage, valued at $626,104,173, American vessels carried 94 per cent, against 6 per cent carried by Canadian vessels. The value of American vessels engaged in the commerce was $116,192,000, against $10,707,000 invested in Canadian boats.

The report shows that the ships have increased in capacity rather than number, the largest single cargo of 1909 being 13,664 tons, against 8,462 tons in 1900, and the number of vessels passing through the locks being 670, against 582 in 1897.

Kings County Electric.

Earnings of the Kings County Electric Light and Power company for the first half of the current year totaled $490,250, or 4.90 per cent on the $10,000,000 capital stock, against 4.40 per cent earned in the corresponding period of 1909. As this was 15 per cent of the year's actual earnings, the 1910 surplus is estimated at $940,000, or 9.4 per cent, about 1 per cent better than 1909, an increase over last year's percentage of 11.7 per cent.

Chicago Securities.

On the local stock exchange prices quickly advanced in sympathy with the upward movement in New York. Illinois Brick shares moved from 57¼ to 59⅝. Diamond Match sold at 87, against the price of 84 the previous day. Chicago Pneumatic Tool was up five points. American Can stocks were firm. The list as a whole showed marked improvement.

PRAISE FOR DRAINAGE CANAL.

President of Mississippi Valley Transportation Company Thinks It Will Be of Great Value.

St. Louis, Mo., July 28.—[Special.]—W. K. Kavanaugh, president of the Mississippi Valley Transportation company, in an interview today, indorsed the opening of the drainage canal between Chicago and the Mississippi river, believing the waterway would have a beneficial effect upon the transportation of the entire country.

"If the state of Illinois will carry out its plans and coöperate with the federal government in opening the drainage canal," said Mr. Kavanaugh, "establishing a deep waterway to the gulf, it will not only be great for the state, but for transportation generally."

Mr. Kavanaugh believes, however, that the greatest feasible depth should be secured to admit the passage of large vessels between the lakes and gulf.

DRY GOODS CIRCLES STIRRED BY THE NEW MILL COMBINE.

Sellers of Finished Goods Taking Interest in Purchase of Gray Fabrics by Converters—Jobbers Are Hopeful.

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—Much interest is aroused in the dry goods trade by the announcement of the new cotton mill combine which, in addition to taking over control of the Consolidated Cotton Duck company, also will acquire control of several Canadian mills. According to statements made by the new concern's incorporators, control will be held of the largest assortment of cotton fabrics in this country. In addition to this, several important selling agencies will be taken over.

Sellers of finished cotton goods are taking considerable interest in the purchase of gray goods now being made by converters. Some express the belief these purchases are being overdone and that converters will not require a large part of goods placed under order. Purchases made this week, in conjunction with the raw material situation, have served to harden the gray goods market, although some mills still are willing to meet buyers half way in their price ideas.

Sale of Goods Progresses.

The Claflin company succeeded today in moving a fair portion of the balance of the Tefft-Weller stock in addition to securing some good orders from departments throughout the house. The sale will be continued tomorrow.

Large jobbers in the west evidently are in a more hopeful frame of mind than wholesalers in this market and now are making arrangements to cover more of their future requirements. Trade in wholesale houses here is better than usual considering the fact that most retailers are busy with their semi-annual stock taking. Advices from Europe are encouraging as to the silk piece goods situation. Carpet wools are moving slowly, as many carpet mills now are closed down for their usual summer clean up and are not anxious to take on further supplies of raw material at the present time.

Further moderate sales of print cloths are reported from day to day, sellings naming some slight concessions. Sales of 27 inch 64x60s are reported at 3⅝c and a few sales of 28 inch standards at 3¾c. Wide goods are moving a little more slowly.

FARWELL WEEKLY REVIEW.

The John V. Farwell company in its weekly review of conditions in the dry goods trade of the Chicago district says that business shows an increase over the corresponding week of last year. The letter follows:

"The market on gray cottons has advanced about ¼c all around since last week, due to curtailment in production and lower estimates on the new cotton crop. Wide sheetings have been in great demand in response to special offerings at attractive prices. We look for continued firmness in the cotton goods market.

"Sales for the week show a good increase over last year's record, indicating confidence and low stocks.

"Showing of women's neckwear for early fall will be mostly in stock collars. Desirable winter underwear is going to be scarce and there is no possibility of a break, but the tendency for higher prices is sure to continue. New and novel patterns in handkerchiefs are being taken freely this week and it looks as if there would be a scarcity later.

"The display of holiday goods and toys is now complete and many merchants are placing orders for late fall shipment, so as to insure delivery of the most desirable novelties.

"Merchants from the far west and south are now arriving in increased numbers and report a good business during the first six months. They seem conservative, but full of confidence on general conditions."

NEW YORK STOCKS SCORE ADVANCES

Standard Issues Firm, 2 to 4 Points Higher Under the Stimulus of Buying.

SPECIALTIES ALSO ARE UP

Crop Reports Important Factor at This Season of Year; August Crucial Month.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, July 28.—[Special.]—The influence of removal from the stock market situation of forced liquidation by the distressed foreign financial group again was potent on prices today. It is true there still remain in the general situation a number of matters which must be cleared up before the outlook can be said to be absolutely bright.

Sharp Advances in Specialties.

Under the stimulus of buying standard stocks scored advances running from 2 to 4 points, with gains of even greater magnitude in specialties. Prices closed at the best.

A helpful influence upon both sentiment and securities was exerted by a sharp fall in corn prices on grain markets, this weakness reflecting the better tenor of advices from the corn country. Parts of Nebraska, Kansas, and Iowa were visited on Wednesday night by a plentiful rainfall, while cooler weather was reported in those sections of Kansas and Oklahoma where the crop appears to have suffered most. Late in the day telegrams from afflicted districts spoke hopefully of the signs of rain then present, so that all in all the day so far as its budget of corn crop news was concerned was distinctly encouraging.

It must be said in all frankness that this was not true of news from the cotton country. Conservative houses, as a result of unpropitious weather conditions—too much rain in certain districts and an entire absence of moisture in others—are receiving unsatisfactory advices from correspondents and are therefore looking forward with some anxiety to the Aug. 1 report of the government. If the crop enters August in poor condition the prospects will be much clouded, for almost invariably that month is one of severe deterioration. It is obvious that fundamental as it is in business and finance, the agricultural position will bear careful observation for some time to come.

Gold to Be Sent to Canada.

The only incident of the day in the money market here was the withdrawal of $500,000 gold from the subtreasury for shipment to Canada. This is in keeping with the movement which usually takes place at this season of the year, certain of preparations for crop moving, and the outflow is not expected to run beyond the customary proportions. The gain of banks from the subtreasury was reduced substantially. The Bank of England's weekly report noted only an insignificant variation in the proportion of reserve to liabilities, and the loss is less than $2,700,000 in gold holdings.

Money on call easy, 1¾@2 per cent; ruling rate, 1⅞; closing bid, 1¾; offered at 1¾. Time loans steady; 60 days, 3¼@3½ per cent; 90 days, 3¾@4; six months, 5@5¼. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 5¼@6 per cent. Sterling exchange easy, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8340@4.8350 for 60 day bills and at 4.8535 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.82⅝@4.83¼. Bar silver, 53¾. Mexican dollars, 44. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds firm.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, July 28.—Money was plentiful and discount rates were quiet today. On the stock exchange the firmness in the American section and the satisfactory conclusion of the settlement induced bear covering and fresh investment buying and helped a further general advance, with copper shares the feature. American securities opened firm and higher and during the forenoon good buying carried prices still higher. In the afternoon professional buying, supplemented by Wall street support, advanced Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, and United States Steel, and the rest of the list hardened in sympathy. The market closed strong.

The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes:

Total reserve, decreased	£736,000
Circulation, increased	197,000
Bullion, decreased	538,800
Other securities, decreased	709,000
Other deposits, increased	799,000
Public deposits, decreased	2,247,000
Notes reserve, decreased	702,000
Government securities unchanged.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability this week is 51.29 per cent. Last week it was 51.27 per cent.

PARIS, July 28.—Prices were higher on the bourse today in sympathy with the strength in New York. Three per cent rentes, 97f 30c for the account. Exchange on London, 25f 20c for checks. The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes:

	Francs.
Notes in circulation, decreased	14,125,000
Treasury deposits, increased	29,225,000
General deposits, increased	116,775,000
Gold in hand, increased	4,775,000
Silver in hand, decreased	5,225,000

BERLIN, July 28.—Trading was active and prices advanced on the boerse today. Exchange on London, 20m 45pfg for checks. Money, 2¼ per cent. Private discount rate, 3 per cent.

IN THE BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., July 28.—[Special.]—Stocks advanced further today on exterior short covering and reported good buying by people who were satisfied the decline had been arrested. The heaviest trading was in Amalgamated, which followed the course of the New York market. The coppers were helped by the great strength in this issue, most speculative favorites gaining about a point and a quarter for the day. Osceola exceeded its rise on points, and Superior was up 2⅜. Home rails and industrials were well bought, United Fruit rising 2 and Massachusetts Gas 2⅜. Call money, 2½@3½ per cent; time loans, short dates, 4@4½ per cent; time loans, six months, 5@5½ per cent; time loans, one year, 5@5½ per cent.

WANTS FOREIGN STOCK TAXED; MANDAMUS SUIT IS STARTED.

Reform Association Asks That Outside Concerns Owned in Chicago Be Assessed by the Board of Review.

Suit to compel the board of review to assess the capital stock of companies and organizations not organized under the laws of Illinois, and owned and held by parties residing in Cook county, was started yesterday in the Cook county Circuit court.

The suit was in the form of a writ of mandamus and was started by Frank W. Jones, president of the Illinois Tax Reform league.

"We are attempting to collect about $180,000,000 to $190,000,000 of back taxes," said William Capesius, counsel for the complainants.

Ullman & Co., tailors, were ordered to pay on $40,000, when they had scheduled but $6,500. Insurance amounting to $55,000 was responsible.

Several concerns that realized what would happen if they began business before April 15 waited until after that date and thus escaped assessments. Among these was the Lozier Sales company, a new concern at 1501 Michigan avenue. It was called in to show why he should not be assessed, and James Levy, representing it, explained the situation.

LONG ROCK TUNNEL FINISHED.

Headings of Two Shafts Meet Within Fraction of an Inch in New York.

Kingston, N. Y., July 28.—After boring through solid rock for fourteen months, the headings of shaft No. 3 and shaft No. 2 of the new aqueduct that will connect New York City and the Ashokan reservoir in the Catskill mountains, met today within a fraction of an inch. The completed section is 3,200 feet long and big enough to accommodate a train of railroad coaches. It lies under the base of a mountain near Forest Glen, and is the longest solid rock section of the route.

LEE SHOWS "TRUST" MUFFLER.

Armour Employe Explains How Alleged Agreements with Out-of-Town Concerns Stifled Competition.

The special "beef trust" grand jury yesterday examined local employés of packing firms alleged to be in the National Packing company's combination. Chief of these witnesses was Thomas G. Lee, a department manager for Armour & Co.

How agreements were made with out-of-town firms has been disclosed to the grand jury in considerable detail by witnesses during the week.

Lee is said to have told how alleged agreements with so-called "independents" stifled competition. W. S. Kenyon, assistant attorney general, was Lee's chief questioner. The federal prosecutors from now on will devote most of their time to subpœnaed employés of packing companies in Chicago.

LIKE OUTLOOK FOR CLOTHING

Manufacturers and Wholesalers Optimistic on Trade.

WORSTED DEMAND BETTER.

Turn from Woolen Goods as Change in Prices Is Found.

Manufacturing and wholesale clothiers of Chicago see little cause for alarm in the prospects for the year.

"Business with us has been much better than for the same period last year and has shown a steady advance all season," said a representative of one of the leading manufacturing interests yesterday.

"There is only one section where there has been any particular evidence of curtailment on account of adverse crop conditions. That is in North Dakota, where the wheat crop was admittedly a failure. Most of the alarming reports come from the speculators."

Watch Spring Prices.

The trade is still interested in the opening of spring lines in New York, as prices have not yet been named on some of the leading lines of woolens.

According to a report from the eastern market there is a marked difference in the amount of carded woolens placed under order so far this season, and the quantity booked a year ago. This is due largely, if not altogether, it is said, to the prices that have been named on worsteds. With the cost of worsteds at figures the clothiers regarded as prohibitive, these factors turned to woolens, but the readjustment that has taken place has caused a drift toward hand finished goods to a marked degree.

Worsteds Wear Better.

The better wearing quality of the worsteds is another incentive for wider operations, and the clothiers have stated on several occasions during the past week that most of the carded woolens bought last season did not wear as well as it was expected they would.

CROP ESTIMATES FOR SPAIN.

Wheat and Barley Show Increase, While Rye and Oats Yield Will Be Less.

MADRID, July 28.—Official crop estimates, issued today, are as follows: Wheat, 3,349,491 quintals, an increase of 1,925,892 quintals over last year; barley, increase 513,563 quintals; rye, decrease 726,395 quintals; oats, decrease 518,768 quintals. A quintal averages about 220 lbs.

SHOE BUSINESS IS IMPROVED; BUYERS INCREASING ORDERS.

Better Crop Outlook Factor in Bracing Demand—Stocks Running Low—Autumn Prospects Bright Here.

Chicago manufacturers and jobbers of shoes are feeling much better over the future outlook than they did two weeks ago, the situation having rounded out into a more normal condition than has existed since the early spring activity.

The nature of the business indicates that retail stocks are somewhat low and buyers are doubling and trebling their original orders for fall goods, the better crop outlook and general conditions being a stimulant to such action.

"Our orders for today were $7,482 greater than for the corresponding day last year," said a representative of one of the leading manufacturing interests yesterday.

"The visiting buyers report their trade has improved considerably during the month of July. Under these conditions I anticipate that the filling in business will be big next fall, which leads me to emphasize the fact that retailers should order now for their fall needs.

"From the time goods are put into manufacture until they are turned out generally requires two months and the working season on fall goods usually ends about the middle of August.

"The shoe business is not like the dry goods trade. In the latter the goods come in bolts ready for shipment at any time, but with us late orders can not be taken care of after the manufacturing season is finished on a certain line."

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., July 28.—[Special.]—A peculiar case of conscience pricking developed here today, when a Catholic priest of Gibson City turned over to two dry goods merchants $400 given him by a woman who was at one time employed as a clerk and who had appropriated goods and sold them to friends.

GET A BIG LEASE ON THE WEST SIDE

Shepard-Strassheim Company Acquires Site for Structure on Randolph Street.

NEW NAME FOR BUILDING

Atwood to Be Changed to the Straus; Phipps Takes Title to More of His Holdings.

Attention again has been called to the west side by one of the largest leases ever closed in the wholesale grocery district in that part of the city. Shepard-Strassheim company have leased from Adolph Arnold the building at 668 and 670 West Randolph street and a new structure to be erected on the east at 664 and 666 Randolph street for sixteen years and seven months from Oct. 1, 1910, at an annual rent of $18,000, or $298,500 for the term.

The land at 668 and 670 is 38x156 feet and is improved with a seven story and basement building, while the property adjacent on the east, 664 and 666, fronting forty feet with a depth of seventy-eight is to be improved with a seven story building of similar description to the one first mentioned.

Change Name of Atwood Building.

As a step in the change of ownership of the Atwood building at the northwest corner of Clark and Madison streets, which S. W. Straus & Co. purchased from Rogers, Peet & Co. in February for $250,000, the name will be changed to the Straus building, title to the property having been taken by the Realization Company of America, in which Mr. Straus is largely interested.

The property includes an eight story fireproof building and the leasehold interest in 68¾x80 feet, belonging to Mrs. Cornelia Kuehne, who has 20x80 feet, the Shreve estate of Louisville, 21½x80 feet, and the L. C. Paine Freer estate, 21½x80 feet, held under ground lease at an annual rent of $29,280, or 4 per cent on $750,000. The use of the building also will be changed, as the Atwood stock of clothing has just been closed out by Rogers, Peet & Co. The corner store on Madison street has been rented to the Leon Royal Blue shoe stores at a term rent of $80,000, and the west store to Howard Lewis for a term rent of $81,500. The second story will be converted into a banking room and will be occupied by S. W. Straus & Co. Sept. 1.

Title has been taken by Henry Phipps of New York City to the last piece, comprising his consolidated holdings at the southwest corner of Monroe and Franklin streets, 170x198 feet, on the basis of $800,000 for the whole property, on which he will build a twenty-two story office building to cost $3,000,000.

State Street Property Sold.

The property, including the leasehold interest at 4840 to 4846 South State street, fronting 80 feet with a depth of 100, improved with three story flat buildings, has been sold by E. R. Mickelberry to James E. Robbins of Bloomington, Ill., for $30,000. The ground rent is $1,200 a year.

The three story apartment house and ground on the west side of Prairie avenue, 148 feet south of Fiftieth street, fronting 50 feet, with a depth of 162, has been sold by John Waline to Phillip D. Weinstein for $26,500, subject to an incumbrance og $14,000. Mr. Weinstein has given in part payment the residence property, 20x106 feet, on the west side of Jackson avenue, 172 feet south of Fifty-fourth street, at $5,500, and the piece adjacent, 24x100 feet, 192 feet south of Fifty-fourth street, at $2,500.

New Catholic Church Planned.

A new church and school will be erected by the Catholic bishop at the northeast corner of Lowe avenue and Thirtieth street on a plot 147x124 feet which has just been purchased, the consideration not being given out. For two pieces, including the corner, 97x124 feet, and another tract, 25x124 feet, which were purchased from Charles V. Falls, $5,800 was paid.

Louis Samkovitz, who owns the Marshfield apartments at the southwest corner of Marshfield avenue and York street, 50x125 feet, has secured a loan on the property of $25,000 for seven years, with interest at 6 per cent, the Chicago Title and Trust company being trustee in the trust deed.

A loan of $25,000 has been secured by Samuel Gonoonsky on the three story flat building and ground known as the Douglas apartments at the southwest corner of St. Louis avenue and West Twelfth place, 59x135 feet, for five years, with interest at 6 per cent. The Chicago Title and Trust company is trustee.

Country bankers are interested and are paid a stipulated sum per share for all stock sold in their respective localities. People are willing to purchase stock on the strength of the names on the directorate. The missionary work is carried on in a similar way from one section to another.

After a time the directors begin to be uneasy. The expense looms up as a big factor. The promoter is banished and one of the prominent directors is selected to take hold, try to complete the enterprise to save the reputation of the men who have vouched for it, and employ an experienced underwriter to handle the insurance end. The stockholders are assessed and then wait in vain for dividends.

The collapse of the Rhodus schemes, the revelations in the promotion of the Consolidated Casualty, the failure of the Union National Life of Philadelphia, and, more recently, of the International Fire and Continental Assurance of St. Louis have called public attention to the fact that the people have been misled.

Promotion Limit Is 15 Per Cent.

The state insurance commissioners have held that no new company is worthy of consideration whose promotion expense exceeds 15 per cent. Some of the commissioners declare that 5 per cent is ample. The suggestion is made that if the purchasers of insurance stocks knew the expense of promotion but very little would be bought. These new enterprises are not under the jurisdiction of the state insurance departments until the time that they apply for a license to do business. There is no way therefore to secure an official statement of their financial condition.

New York, however, at its last legislative session, passed a law empowering the state insurance commissioner to investigate all insurance promotions having head or branch offices in his state and give the public the benefit of his findings. There is no system of accounting on the part of the promoters. They can use as much of the funds collected for expenses as they desire in most instances.

There have been and are a few honestly promoted insurance institutions that are projected to seriously engage in business. These, however, are so few as to be conspicuous. Fully 95 per cent of the companies now being floated are purely stockjobbing enterprises, being projected by men of little force, training, experience, or knowledge of the administrative or technical phases of insurance. The high premium over the par value is stated by salesmen to be for the purpose of furnishing ample surplus, but the real mission is to cover the cost of organization.

Seven Years to Earn a Dividend.

In case of the Consolidated Casualty which had sumptuous and ornately appointed offices in Chicago, its stock was sold at two and three times its par. Yet when it applied for a license it had no surplus and in fact was impaired, the premium being all consumed in the stock selling process.

Of the new ventures in the field at present the proposed capital is something like $150,000,000 and an equal amount of surplus. Practical insurance men figure that a new company is fortunate if it can be put on a dividend paying basis in seven years. The actual experience of most companies shows that it requires ten years to get up an organization, provide for all proper legal reserves that have to be carried as a liability and build up an ample surplus before they are justified in declaring dividends.

The public, it is held, has been misled into the belief that there is a gold mine in the insurance business. Tables are published in prospectuses showing the earnings of the old companies, their financial strength and dividends paid.

While insurance men do not question these statistics, yet they suggest the fact that the old companies built their foundations and got a long start many years ago when conditions insurancewise were vastly different than now. In the days prior to twenty years ago the agency commissions were much lower, policies and benefits of a restricted nature, competition was not so keen and the legal requirements as to reserves and policy conditions were not so exacting. In life insurance, for example, in years gone by, companies could confiscate the earnings on lapsed policies. Now the state by legal enactment has preserved the policyholders' equities. The state now regulates the policy contract which in many respects is much more liberal than heretofore.

Few of the Companies Survive.

While underwriters are free to admit that there is always a place for a company organized at moderate expense and conducted by experienced and capable insurance men, yet they feel that the great mass of stock jobbing schemes now seeking public favor should be condemned. They point to the fact, for example, that in New York in 1871, there were in active business 105 stock fire companies incorporated under the laws of that state in active business. Out of this number there are just twenty in business today. Since Jan. 1, 1871, there have been organized in New York eighty-seven more stock fire companies. Of this number there are twenty remaining. In one state alone, therefore, 142 stock fire companies have failed, reinsured or gone out of business in some way since 1871.

In this country there were 157 stock life insurance companies organized between 1835 and 1900. Of these 124 have retired or failed.

Insurance Co. Mortality, 70 Per Cent.

Underwriters place the percentage of insurance company mortality at about 70 per cent. That is, of all new insurance enterprises organized 70 per cent fail or retire in other ways in ten or fifteen years.

Fire underwriters also call attention to the fact that their stockholders lost $100,000,000 in the San Francisco conflagration, many millions in the Baltimore, Chicago and other conflagrations, and were called on for large contributions when confronted with these calamities. The states are requiring more ample reserve funds to protect the policyholders properly, and hence this is another call on the surplus accumulations.

BUSINESS PERSONALS.

PERSONAL—TO SALARIED PEOPLE—
Living cost has increased. Has your salary gone up in proportion? Many people now holding good positions look forward to the time when by some stroke of luck they will have a sufficient sum of money to forever keep the wolf from the door. To do this is possible, but in a large majority of cases it is highly improbable. The advertiser wants to get in touch with the salaried man or woman who realizes that the successful foundation on which to build for future independence commences with the first DOLLAR saved and well invested. The advertiser is in position to offer those who realize the correctness of the above statements, an opportunity TO COMMENCE NOW, by the purchase of a contract, guaranteed by a big bank and trust company, of unquestioned standing, that will afford any person or family absolute independence for their declining years. This is a business proposition, conducted by business men, and we are desirous of getting in touch with the salaried man, now possessing $100 or more, who desires to secure permanent relief from high living cost, and who is anxious in his producing years to provide a condition that will insure future financial and physical comfort and independence. I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands or incomes from other sources] who want large or small sums confidentially, with or without security. My location [30 minutes from loop district] and my being the president of a large wholesale vehicle establishment [Bradstreet's and other agencies show its standing] and not a professional money lender, assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings where money lenders congregate. My customer's name and address are known only to me; my employes know accounts only by serial number. Professional lenders demand high rates, usually asking so much that the average straightforward citizen realizes that exorbitant charges for any time are burdensome. My average price, all charges positively included, is never more than 1, 2, or 3 per cent monthly, often less, depending on risk and amount loaned. Individual waiting rooms. Ask for WILLCOXE, care the Englewood Co., 1101-1103 E. 63d-st., corner Greenwood-av. Telephone Hyde Park 4333.
